As directed by legal counsel and the Board of Directors, your access to AAFCO resources is restricted until the resolution of the federal lawsuit, Lsytn, LLC v. Food and Drug Administration, No. 19-cv-01943-PAB-KLM (D. Colo). Except for the print OP subscription being available to you, the AAFCO resources not accessible to you during this period include AAFCO meetings, the Feed BIN, AAFCO committees and work groups participation, and any other AAFCO resources not specifically identified here.

You are officially removed from any position as an AAFCO adviser, committee member, work group participant, claims of any representation of your interests or organization with AAFCO, involvement during AAFCO meetings, which are now unavailable to you, including by conference line, and any other claim of expert assistance to AAFCO.

Any reference to you and your company as an AAFCO adviser and your contact information are removed from the 2020 OP and future issues of the OP and the BIN until the lawsuit is resolved.

Please remove any claim that you are an AAFCO adviser from your email signature and from your website or social media sites. For the duration of the lawsuit, this is not accurate. At the resolution of the lawsuit, you may apply to AAFCO for consideration to be allowed to access AAFCO resources. We do not guarantee that you will be reinstated in access to AAFCO resources.

Everyone:

Please take a look at the language below to send to those people removed from access to AAFCO resources:

As directed by legal counsel and the Board of Directors, your access to AAFCO resources is restricted until the resolution of the lawsuit. Except for the print OP subscription being available to you, the AAFCO resources not accessible to you during this period include AAFCO meetings, the Feed BIN, AAFCO committees and work groups participation, and any other AAFCO resources not specifically identified here.

Please remove any statement from your email signature and from your website or social media sites, if applicable, that you are an AAFCO adviser. For the duration of the lawsuit, this is not accurate. At the resolution of the lawsuit, you may apply to AAFCO for reinstatement to access to AAFCO resources. We do not guarantee that you will be reinstated in access to AAFCO resources.

Any reference to you and your company as an AAFCO adviser and your contact information are removed from the 2020 OP and future issues of the OP and the BIN until the lawsuit is resolved.

We have removed BIN access for Cathy Alinovi. She turned around that same day and resubscribed, and she's been removed again. Cathy is letting her readers know she is an AAFCO adviser.

We removed BIN access for Mollie Morrissette. Mollie is also touting she is an adviser to AAFCO on her email signature, possibly her social media and website pages.

All of the individuals on our restricted list have been removed from our email lists so they do not receive updates and information about AAFCO's events or resources.

Have we sent a notice to the people that we removed as advisors? I haven't removed them as advisors yet on the website because I wasn't sure if they have been formally told. They have been removed in the 2020 OP. I was going to remove them from the website but didn't want to until that happened.

Thanks,

Ok I need to send the below to Cathy Alinovi, Mollie Morrisette, BC Henschen, and Chelsea Kent. Those are the only people that are advisors that we removed. Are we editing the text to send to the people that are just attendees such as Roxanne Stone, Dr. Judy Morgan, etc.?

As directed by legal counsel and the Board of Directors, your access to AAFCO resources is restricted until the resolution of the federal lawsuit, Lsytn, LLC v. Food and Drug Administration, No. 19-cv-01943-PAB-KLM (D. Colo). Except for the print OP subscription being available to you, the AAFCO resources not accessible to you during this period include AAFCO meetings, the Feed BIN, AAFCO committees and work groups participation, and any other AAFCO resources not specifically identified here.

You are officially removed from any position as an AAFCO adviser, committee member, work group participant, claims of any representation of your interests or organization with AAFCO, involvement during AAFCO meetings, which are now unavailable to you, including by conference line, and any other claim of expert assistance to AAFCO.

Any reference to you and your company as an AAFCO adviser and your contact information are removed from the 2020 OP and future issues of the OP and the BIN until the lawsuit is resolved.

Please remove any claim that you are an AAFCO adviser from your email signature and from your website or social media sites. For the duration of the lawsuit, this is not accurate. At the resolution of the lawsuit, you may apply to AAFCO for consideration to be allowed to access AAFCO resources. We do not guarantee that you will be reinstated in access to AAFCO resources.

Jennifer,

Before sending this out, I would be more specific about the lawsuit.

Here is how I would propose amending the first sentence:

As directed by legal counsel and the Board of Directors, your access to AAFCO resources is restricted until the resolution of the federal lawsuit, Lsytn, LLC v. Food and Drug Administration, No. 19-cv-01943-PAB-KLM (D. Colo).
