

Limitations: The adverse event and product problem reports contained in this record are not necessarily causally related to (caused by) the reported product, nor do they mean the product was defective. Consumer complaints involving animal foods are received by FDA through voluntary reporting systems. Not all reports undergo follow up actions by FDA; however, each report received is important to FDA as part of our ongoing surveillance efforts related to pet food safety. Trends in reporting can provide an early warning of emerging safety issues of concern.

Other limitations:

- For any given report, there is no certainty that the reported pet food caused the adverse event. The adverse event(s) reported may be more related to an underlying disease, condition, or concomitantly administered medication.
- The report narratives are provided in the form in which we received them, the quality of the information provided about the adverse event/product problem is dependent on the quality of the information received from the veterinarian and/or pet owner.
- Adverse event report numbers should not be used to calculate incidence rates or measures of relative risk. It is not data from a controlled study, and there is no accurate way to know the true size of the population exposed to a product, nor the true population affected with an adverse event.
- Adverse event data should not be used to compare the safety of different products. Many factors can influence reporting, and products that are more widely distributed or sold in greater volume may have more reporting than those with limited distribution or sales. Products for which there has been recent publicity may experience more reporting for a period of time afterwards. Underreporting is also common with adverse event reporting systems.

EON-459642	4/30/2021 17:48	Canidae All Life Stages Multi-Protein Formula	I adopted my dog, (b) (6) from a local shelter on 12/18/2020. I had my veterinarian perform an examination of him on 12/22/2020 and he was determined to be in excellent health with no issues. I continued to feed him the Hill Science Diet Adult dry dog food that he had been eating at the shelter until I switched to Canidae All Life Stages Multi-Protein Formula dry dog food. I was running out of Science Diet and wanted to try the Canidae because it appeared from literature to be a better quality product nutritionally. I bought a small bag (15-lbs) on 2/7/2021 to transition him to it before committing to using it. He eagerly ate it and had no issues; so I bought a 44-lb bag on 2/26/2021; and started feeding it to him in early March. As the month progressed, he seemed less and less eager to eat it, his stools became looser, and he started having what appeared to be acid reflux-like "burps" late at night after sleeping several hours. As I scooped further and further into the dry dog food (out of the original bag) to feed him (he is fed 1 cup in the am and 1 cup in pm), I began to notice that unlike the first 15-lb bag I had used in early Feb. the kibble in this larger 44-lb bag contained an excessive amount of kibble "dust" (as if a lot of the kibble pieces had disintegrated into smaller-sized grains). I looked on-line and saw that in dog food reviews, this was a fairly common complaint. I took (b) (6) to the vet on 4/8/21 due to concerns over the acid reflux. She examined him and started him on Pepcid pills, checked his stools for parasites or bacteria (negative) and said next step would be to check for food allergies or IBS if the antacid didn't help. His coat was also duller, skin very dry, and appetite poor. The Pepcid helped but did not completely resolve the reflux. I continued examining feedback on Canidae and after seeing so many similar complaints, especially on the Consumer Reports website; I totally stopped feeding him the Canidae on 4/28 and switched to Fromm Gold Adult dry food (recommended by a local retailer who confirmed they have heard the same issues from other former Canidae customers). My dog's symptoms immediately stopped - he has had no reflux or loose stools since then, and his appetite is much better.	3	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	45	Pound

EON-459622	4/30/2021 14:12	Blue Buffalo Life Protection Formula Large Breed Puppy Chicken & Brown Rice Dry Dog Food	I started feeding my new puppy Blue Buffalo Life Protection Formula Large Breed Puppy Chicken &amp; Brown Rice recipe dry dog food on 1/05/2021. I noticed that he would have bouts of diarrhea but wasn't anything too concerning. On 4/25/2021 he started vomiting and becoming lethargic. We took the dog to (b) (6) on 4/26/2021, they ran some test and took x-rays to see if he had an obstruction. He did not, they put him on some anti nausea meds and a pro biotic to help his tummy, and sent him home with a caveat of if he starts displaying any more symptoms or his current symptoms get worse to take him up to Blue Pearl in (b) (6) Tuesday 4/27/2021 he wouldn't eat the food we gave him in the morning or in the afternoon and his Diarrhea had gotten significantly worse, and he was now regurgitating anything that he swallowed. We took him up to Blue Pearl that night. They did an ultra sound and found no obstruction but did find that his Stomach, Colon, and intestines were all significantly swollen. We decided to let him stay the night so he can be on fluids to avoid dehydration. They ran blood work with everything coming back normal. Wednesday 4/28/2021 he had gotten worse with not eating or drinking, still had significant diarrhea and was still regurgitating, they got a stool sample and sent it off to the lab. We decided to let him stay another night on fluids with a discussion that if he did not eat again on Thursday that we would put in a feeding tube. Thursday 4/29/2021 he had started leaking diarrhea out of his bum and was still regurgitating, the stool sample they took on Wednesday, came back negative for any parasites. I discussed with the doctor that our other dog Dean had stopped eating the Blue Buffalo Life Protection Formula Senior Chicken &amp; Brown Rice Recipe Dry Dog Food, we tried giving him the Large Breed Puppy food and he again wouldn't touch it. After some research we decided that he could possibly have Salmonella and they asked the lab to test for that. Those results are still pending, we are currently working on getting the food tested to see if it is contaminated but I was asked to file a formal complaint. Thursday 4/30/2021 although he has now ate on his own (the first since Monday 4/25/2021) he is still not able to come home due to the large amount of fluid they are still suctioning off his tummy, as well as the leaking diarrhea, the regurgitating has slowed but has happened in the last 12 hours. Due to (b) (6) being unable to have our older dogs food, we fed him the Large Breed Puppy food for a week where he had small bouts of	6	Months	Great Pyrenees	Dog	56	Pound

			diarrhea. He then once the Senior dog food came in we fed him that and the diarrhea had gotten better. We now have completely stopped our older dog from Blue Buffalo Life Protection Senior Chicken &amp; Brown Rice Recipe Dry Dog food, and his appetite and his stool has started hardening. I 100% believe the Blue Buffalo Life Protection Formula Large Breed Puppy Chicken &amp; Brown Rice was the reason our 6month old puppy has gotten so sick. Although others have not made a formal complaint several people who also fed their puppy this brand informed me of the diarrhea issue after I discussed it with them. Please look into this dog food brand. No one should have to watch their fur baby suffer because of an animal product approved by the FDA. I understand this is an ongoing issue with several different types of food from Blue Buffalo.

I recently purchased a new 16 lb bag of the food and soon after his first feeding he had severe diarrhea. I promptly stop feeding him this and put him on a rice and chicken diet and he recovered nicely so I tried to feed his his dog food again and he had the same reaction. After calling the veterinary school (b) (6) it was decided to buy another small bag from a different place which I then did. He is now Fine on the new bag. I contacted Hill about this and returned the bad of food to Petsmart afterwards.	2	Years	Poodle - Standard	Dog	160	Pound

My dogs 2 Cavalier King Charles Males both neutered and both 7 months old 12 lbs and 14 lbs AND my Puggle (part pug and beagle), a 3 year old neutered male AND my 4 year old Cavanesse (cavalier king mixed with havanese) had severe and massive diarrhea. The 2 seven month old cavaliers had it the worst - blood in the diarrhea and mucus and water. This has been going on from 4/27/21 in the evening, throughout the night and into this morning of 4/28/21. I then looked information up online and saw the FDA/CDC warning on pig ears! Immediately after eating they both were puking multiple times throughout the day, lethargic, and had diarrhea. Both cats are in good health and do not have fleas, worms, or any health conditions that could cause this. I thought maybe they got into one of my plants and that was making them sick and continued to feed them the following days for the exact same thing to happen, roughly 30 minutes after eating their food. After realizing it was their food making them sick, i bought a brand new bag of cat food in the Iams brand and they have made full recoveries and have not had anymore vomiting or diarrhea.	7	Years	Domestic (unspecified)	Cat	9	Pound

He had been eating this diet for more than a year. We had bought a new 17.6 lb bag at the local petsmart at the end of March. After a few days (on April 2nd), (b) (6) began throwing up, first once, then several times in a day (on April 3rd). He also had diarrhea. We brought him to the vet several times, and they gave him blood tests and pancreatitis test, but these did not identify the problem. They x-rayed him and his stomach or digestive system appeared inflamed, and repeated the x-ray looking for blockage but did not find problem. They treated him several times with IV fluids but we kept him home. We offered him chicken and rice, but he barely ate or drank for several days. We were given an appetite stimulant and he started eating. As he got better and ate more chicken and rice, after several days we tried mixing in small amounts of his Hill's z/d dog food again, and he threw up again and his diarrhea got worse. We stopped trying to reintroduce the z/d and he is mostly improving but still not completely back to normal. We don't know the lot number because we dump his food into a bin, but we still have the food in case others report a problem and the food can be tested.	10	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	75	Pound

Found metal in on bag of food while heating the product in the microwave. Have turned in packages many times that are in refrigerated that are obviously spoiled as the bags a shaped like balloons. Spoke with the company about the metal in the food and was given that can't happen instead of we will investigate. Spoke with them while throwing out bags of have eaten food that is turning after being kept in refrigeration for just a few days. I am tired of speaking with the company after today my wife bought a bag of Chicken Recipe Treats for Dogs bar-code # 5189300156 Use by date 09/14/2021 that has the scent of vinegar and will toss it in the garbage. Will not purchase anything from Fresh Pet again but there may be someone that has a dog that gets ill from the mishandling of these products.

EON-458898	4/22/2021 13:44	Organix Grain Free Dog Food for Small Breeds	On Saturday April 17 she started coughing. Nothing severe but noticeable. The cough continued into Sunday and at that time I contacted an emergency vet to see if I could bring her in. There were no appointments available so I called Paw Prints for an emergency visit on Monday morning. By this time the cough had progressed and was getting drier and heavier. They performed an X-ray and contacted me to say she had a heart murmur and blood work would be necessary for further diagnosis. The vet came to explain that she had heart disease and one of her valves was working at a 5 out of 6 level. They gave her 3 heart medications and something for the cough. I left after I paid $400 for all of the services. Her diet consists of grain free dog food, Organix Castor & Pollux for small breeds. After research dogs and heart disease I called the vet, Petsmart and now I'm completing this info. I'd like to find some resolution somewhere. Best by date is 7/22/2022. When this food is fresh, all three cats enjoy it. When I set this food out in bowls, all three cats ignored it, but later ate only small amounts. Within a few days they stopped eating the kibble altogether. When I smelled the kibble in the bowl, it had very little scent. It didn't smell like cat food. There was a faint chemical odor.  I store the food in the original foil bag, press air out of the bag, zip lock it, roll it up and clip it. It is stored in a dark, dry cabinet, against a cool inside wall. House is Air Conditioned at 77 deg F. I've had this same issue with other brands for several years. This is the first time I've submitted a report. I'm often throwing away half a bag or more of expensive cat food. More important is, how the lack of nutrition is adversely impacting the health of my three cats. This was the only treat he was given that day. We came to the conclusion these treats are not good because on January and February we also gave him a couple of these treats and he got very sick. EON-457905	4/12/2021 11:36	Zignature Kangaroo Formula dry dog food	(b) (6) was switched to Zignature brand Kangaroo formula in 2016 because it was recommended as a high quality food for dogs with allergies. She was exclusively eating this brand of food. She does not receive any table food. She was brought to the vet 4/6/21 for a cough, prescribed antibiotics, and sent home. Her condition worsened and she was brought back to the vet 4/8/21 for rapid, distressed breathing. X rays were performed and it was determined she was in acute congestive heart failure with significant pulmonary edema and liver enlargement. She had gross cardiomegaly in all 4 chambers. She received lasix IV and was put into an oxygen cage to attempt to stabilize her. The following day she was seen by a cardiologist who performed additional testing as well as an echocardiogram and determined her ejection fraction was only 20%. She is confident the food caused this diagnosis of DCM. She is currently on lasix by mouth as well as vetmedin to control her symptoms and needs frequent follow up care. The cardiologist changed her diet because she has seen multiple cases of DCM associated with grain free food - especially kangaroo.	6	Years	American Pit Bull Terrier	Dog	66	Pound

EON-457862	4/11/2021 18:08	Hill's Science Diet Indoor Adult Cats 1-5 years old dry food and wet canned food	We switched the cats off of Performtrin Ultra because we're moving to another state soon and knew that they wouldn't carry the brand in stores there. So we tried Hill's Science Diet, the indoor formula for cats 1-5, both the wet and dry food. We noticed immediately upon opening that despite not being expired, the food smelled sour and almost rancid. I inspected the food but didn't notice anything immediately strange and thought it might just be that the new brand simply smelled different. But I've had cats all of my life and never smelled a cat food this bad before. The wet food was also a strange putty like texture that I've never seen before even in other paté style cat food belonging to other brands, and the dry food was a strange yellow color. Despite mixing it with some of the old food, we noticed right away that the cats seemed to avoid it. We expected some reluctance from (b) (6) as he can be a bit shy to try new things but this was especially unusual with our girl (b) (6) since she'll eat pretty much anything. The fact that both of the cats were not finishing their food was alarming. (b) (6) at least would finish hers and then try to go after (b) (6) but she was eating a few bites and then walking away, not touching it again until much, much later. It didn't take long for both of them to begin vomiting. (b) (6) started vomiting first despite having eaten much less. He has not been able to keep the food down. And in the last two days alone has hardly eaten any of it. (b) (6) began vomiting as well a couple days ago. Their bathroom habits have become a bit strange as well, (b) (6) appears to have diarrhea and may be experiencing discomfort. It's worth noting that both of them are indoor cats, neither have been exposed to other cats, nothing else has changed in their lives lately and we haven't even begun to pack so they shouldn't be feeling any stress. Upon realizing the common link, I referred back to their food. Each can we've opened had smelled positively rancid. Perhaps a bad batch? But the dry food is not better. And our cats' seem lethargic as they're usually quite active and playful. I believe this food has made them sick.	2	Years	Crossbred Feline/cat	Cat	8	Pound

EON-457824	4/10/2021 20:08	Abound salmon and sweet potato dog food	As soon as I switched my dog to this food within 3 days (with no change of her diet with anything else) she stopped eating, became very lethargic and developed jaundice. I took her to the vet on her 3rd day of not eating and she had inflamed liver with her levels at 2500 when they were supposed to be under 200. Her gallbladder was affected as well. If it weren't for extreme medications (1 administered at the vet and 3 given to her twice a day for a prolonged period of time) the vet thinks she would have died. She was perfectly fine until she ate the Abound dog food. My other dog refuses to eat this food and she eats everything. I didn't think anything of it until I realized she also hasn't eaten in going on a week. Thank God she didn't get sick as well. I truly hope something can be done to justify this as my beloved dog was almost killed due to this food. She also vomits all the undigested food in her stomach. Also the dog food has small black hairs embedded in the dry food I'm not sure if this is part of the cause of the vomiting but it has a lot of hair in the food. Nothing too bad to where we had to rush her to a Vet or anything but she threw up after she had them. These treats look like chocolate... We didn't think anything of it when we purchased them. But now that this happened I think they should be pulled off shelves and tested etc. I also don't want any other cat parent to go through this type of situation
EON-457119	4/3/2021 17:04	Merrick Chunky Grain Free Big Texas Steak Tips Canned wet dog food	Today I noticed a problem with several cans in a case of Merrick Chunky grain free big Texas steak tips that I received in Feb 2021 from Chewy.com. This was a case of 12, I had 6 cans left - two of them clearly were leaking from the top seal (see photos). I threw all the remaining cans out. I do not want replacement, credit, etc. Lot#s on cans: Best By:Nov 2022 Lot # 20314 CL 3 28300 1722 (and 20314 CL 3 28300 1721). The cans have been stored in a garage in (b) (6) since Mid-February. Temps here have been 45-75F since Feb. Garage is dry. Case of 12 cans didn't look damaged in any way - ie, cardboard and plastic wrap encasing all was undamaged. Metal banding along top looked a bit bent in a couple places, especially where leaking. Terrible "spoiled" odor, greasy stains on the cans. This makes me think the problem was at Merrick, in sealing of cans, not with storage or shipping.

EON-457118	4/3/2021 17:04	Purina One Smartblend Lamb & Rice Formula	(b) (6) has been on Purina One (Lamb + Rice Formula) for over 2 years now - he is a picky eater and it's one of the only brands/flavors he will eat without a fuss. I recently purchased and started him on a new bag of it (on March 31st), and the day after he was very ill - vomited up everything he ate, had diarrhea which progressively worsened throughout the day to the point of being bloody and has been extremely lethargic. Typically there are no issues at all when I switch bags since the brand/flavor is the same as what his body is used to. No other changes in diet/lifestyle, no treats or bones or anything were given that day so I am lead to believe the dog food is the source of issue. We withheld food for 12 hours and he began to improve so we let him have a small bowl of the dog food for dinner yesterday (April 2nd), but he returned to vomiting and bloody diarrhea throughout the night and started refusing both food and water this morning. We took him to a vet immediately following another session of vomiting this morning and the vet also believes it is a food contaminant. He has been prescribed antibiotics for 5 days. I recently read that Midwestern Pet Foods had to recall a number of their products due to Salmonella risk and I believe my dog's symptoms line up with Salmonella, however I don't think Purina One has been noted as one of the affected brands. I'm not sure if the timing is coincidental or if this is a real possibility, but I feared for my pet's life today and would like to prevent the possibility of this happening to anyone else's pets.	10	Years	Spitz - German Pomeranian	Dog	12	Pound
EON-457117	4/3/2021 16:40	Taste of the Wild Prey	We adopted (b) (6) 17 months ago. (b) (6) typically runs and explores at least a few miles a day in our company. Late February 2021 (b) (6) began to slow down. He still ran and explores but not at full speed all of the time. Early March 2021 he began to cough occasionally. He sounded like he was trying to clear his throat. Evening 4 March (b) (6) woke himself with a quiet cough. Cough progressed that night, next day. Our primary Veterinary could not see him until 7 March. Thought it was a GI issue. That night and next morning (b) (6) coughing progressed; chest x-ray shows heart double in normal size. Based on (b) (6) grain-free diet (Taste of the Wild, Prey) Vet recommended a cardiologist. 10 March (b) (6) developed difficulty breathing. Drove him 120mi to cardiologist. 11 March following an echocardiogram the cardiologist diagnosed food related dilated cardiomyopathy, a-fib and congestive heart failure. (b) (6) is now on a diet containing grain; pimobendan, furosemide, diltiazem, benazepril, trazodone and taurine supplement.	3	Years	Weimaraner	Dog	69	Pound

EON-456887	3/31/2021 22:40	Venture Alaska Pollock Meal & Pumpkin Limited Ingredient Dry Dog Food	I purchased Venture Alaska Pollock Meal &amp; Pumpkin from Amazon on 1/10/21. EXP MAY 24/22 M1 L2 B5 0929 I started the new bag probably a few days after receiving it on 1/13/21. He is fed about 2 cups a day. Right around that time, (b) (6) started experiencing really bad flatulence that occurred for several periods during the day. I did not think it was the dog food because he had been eating that brand for some time. In early March, I noticed he was not at all interested in his dry food. He is a champion eater. I attributed it to picky behavior and started topping off the food with bits of chicken, etc. to make it more appetizing. He started eating grass and trying to vomit a few times during the week of March 8th. The weekend of March 13th, he took a turn for the worse, was vomiting, and had diarrhea, and was noticeably ill and lethargic. By Sunday, March 14, he was having bloody diarrhea, what the vet called HGE - hemorrhagic gastroenteritis. He was brought to the vet Monday morning, March 15, and was immediately put on IV and antibiotics for recovery. He spent the night at the vet hospital, returning home late afternoon, March 16th. He has been recovering slowly. I have not fed him any of the Venture since that time. I did not attribute the illness to the Venture pet food until I heard about this recall yesterday. I do realize that this is not the same Lot/ID number that is noted in the recall, but I did want to report it just in case. I find it very unusual that a healthy dog with a great appetite went downhill. One of the main contributors of HGE can be caused by salmonella bacteria. I am very upset that I may have been poisoning my dog for nearly 2 months and he was trying to tell me he didn't want to eat the food and I kept forcing it on him. I am upset that this Midwestern Foods continues to have these recalls.	8	Years	Terrier - Welsh	Dog	28	Pound

On 3/27/21 he began showing symptoms of illness, loose stool, vomiting and loss of appetite and would not drink, on 3/28/21 he continued to not eat or drink, continued vomiting and began having blood in his stool and was very weak and lethargic and just laid around all day. On 3/29/21 I took him to the vet (weighing 72.2 lbs) along with a stool sample. The vet verified he did not have any infection from his surgery and confirmed there was a large amount of blood in his stool. The vet stated he had a stomach illness that had caused inflammation of his intestines and gave him an antibiotic shot and sent us home with antibiotics and anti-nausea medicine. At that time I was not aware of the dog food recall. The dog still refused to eat his food 3/29/21 and finally on 3/31 he began eating - however he would not eat his dog food. Whiskey is allergic to chicken which is why we bought the Wholesomes Grain Free Beef & Chickpea meal for him. We have 2 other dogs that eat Purina dog food that contains chicken by products so they are fed separately. Of the 3 dogs, the only dog that got sick was the one who at the Wholesomes brand dog food. By the time I got home from work on Monday afternoon for my lunch break, he was already very sick and vomited 7-8 times. I monitored him closely the next couple of days until the vomiting and diarrhea became worse and he started refusing water. I took him to his vet to get treated early Wednesday, March 24th once I realized this was something serious. The vet gave him anti-nausea meds and injected him with some more medication. He was prescribed antibiotics and anti-diarrhea and anti-nausea meds. I explained that he has eaten the same dog food since he was a pup, since I'm careful what I buy for him. He also eats the same kinds of treats. This was the first time he had ever tried these particular treats and the first time I had ever purchased Pet Shoppe Brand. His vet agreed that the new treats had severely irritated his Gastro tract. He also was having bloody diarrhea at this point, which terrified me that he could be dying. He just finished his 5th day of medications and is starting to be introduced to solid foods again, with his vet's instructions. However, he has still been a bit lethargic and quieter than normal, so I can tell that he is still experiencing some side effects even though he is on the mend. Once I got online to look up and these treats, I was horrified to see how many dogs have become ill and several have even died from eating the duck and chicken versions of these treats.	9	Years	Terrier - Jack Russell	Dog	15	Pound

EON-456518	3/28/2021 14:20	Fancy Feast gourmet cat food (All canned food flavors)	I believe Fancy Feast canned cat food has incorrect &amp; incomplete ingredients listed on their labels. My cat has allergies to soy &amp; corn. When he ate Fancy Feast pate, he began having the same symptoms he has when eating corn or soy (severe mouth &amp; throat inflammation). This caused me to take a closer look at the label. The only ingredients that really confused me were the "natural and artificial flavors". I contacted the manufacturer &amp; asked what, specifically, these ingredients were. I was told that the natural flavors were, "animal digest... created from muscle and soft tissue of pork and poultry." OK, not too bad. And, "The information for our artificial flavors are proprietary." In other words, secret. I learned that it is illegal to withhold specific ingredients &amp; it makes me question the legitimacy of what they claim is in the cat food. Technically, an "artificial flavor" could be just about anything. I'm not the type of person to start crusades like this, but I love animals. It's not right that pet food companies can make any claim they want or withhold information &amp; no one does anything about it. Thank you so much for your time &amp; consideration.

When I was separating the can onto two plates with bamboo cutlery, I found a green color foreign object embedded in the food. It is approx. a 1/2" particle and pliable. Some parts were in the rest of the food. I saved the particle and placed it in a Ziploc bag and labeled it with the lot and expiration data. I did not examine the rest of the can before discarding it. I also took photos of the object in the food, the lot data, and the UPC code. This can/lot came from my vet's office. I then went and opened another can of the same food but from a different lot that I bought through my vet's online store. When I opened it and started to separate the contents, I noticed a black object in the food that was hard. I used clean plates and a new bamboo utensil. This object is an approx. 1/3" rigid particle. It may be organic, but I cannot ascertain this just by looking at it. I followed the same documenting procedures for this particle as described above for the green one. I have both particles and both lot number information. The original cans are now discarded. I sent a message to my vet about this issue, but it is the weekend and I do not think they will see it under Monday. I proceeded to feed my dogs Royal Canin hydrolyzed dry dog food I had at home.

(b) (6) did not have to die. She was a victim of possible tainted dog treats and even worse, a veterinarian clinic that did not care enough to save her life. Will you join my cause? First, have you read about the pet food recalls? Over 21 brands have been recalled in the last 6 months and from what I have experienced, it is not made in China, but made in the USA. There were more recalls just this week that are also harmful pets and humans. When will it stop?	7	Years	Terrier (unspecified)	Dog	9.3	Pound

			The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), the federal agency responsible for ensuring pet food safety is making headlines by recalling dog foods that are tainted as 1000's of pets are sick and many are dying. (b) (6) is one of the pets to die. Meanwhile, when the FDA recalls, an alert is sent to veterinary professionals...or not? Should Veterinarians be aware of toxic pet food supply? U.S. Food and Drug Administration (b) (6) was given an Ultra Chewy Dog Treat which proudly claims to be "Made in the USA" a message more prevalent than the branding. Made in the USA should be a trusted claim...right? (b) (6) chewed maybe a 3/4 inch of this chew and within hours became very ill vomiting up the chew. The vomiting became frequent and violent. Somehow, I felt Made in the USA was a seal of approval or trust. The treat may be made in the USA, but where are the contents coming from? If you look at the FDA recalls...almost all brands have been Made in the USA. After (b) (6) died, I read the fine print on the packaging and I instantly begin to blame myself. What could I have done differently? How could I have saved (b) (6) life? The package and marketing say made in the USA, easily digestible, and features a Yorkshire Terrier in the marketing. Shouldn't we be able to trust the marketing and the fact the product is placed before the public for purchase. What did I do wrong? Well for starters, I missed the fine print where it says the treat may stain the carpet. Why would anyone offer a treat for a dog that would stain carpet? Why would anyone want that on a dog's stomach? For the record, (b) (6) vomited the yellow dye color for days? Seems like my carpet was not the issue as the carpet cleaned with warm wet cloth but (b) (6) stomach was not so lucky. We reached out to Rush Direct, the manufacturer of Ultra Chewy Treats for Dogs with a post on their Facebook page to tell them of (b) (6) fate. But Ultra Chewy deleted the post. An inquiry was also sent directly with a response requesting medical records, asking if (b) (6) played in dog parks, and where the product was purchased. Much to my surprise, Charles Ferreira from Rush Direct sent an email to say he was sorry for my loss, signed with a Smiley Face. What was there to smile about? Deleting the post from Facebook appears to be an attempt to hide the allegations from

			the public...yea or nay? After further review, the Facebook Page directs customers to Amazon which opens an entirely new concern. The post Amazon.com record customer reviews where pets are getting ill from the treats and some are dying! It appears Ultra Chewy knew as did Amazon.com . What was done? If dogs are getting sick and dying why was this product not pulled from sale? Would (b) (6) be alive today if action were taken simply on Amazon reviews? The big question, were the actions negligent and should this be classified as cruelty to animals? (b) (6) did not have to die if the product had been investigated by Ultra Chewy. Should Amazon or any retailer who knows products are unsafe and sells them anyway be liable and or charged for cruelty to animals? Is there Justice for pets and pet owners when reviews are linked to sickness and death? (b) (6) When (b) (6) become sick, she was immediately taken to a Vet for Emergency Service. Under Covid guidelines emergency visits and follow need to be called and scheduled. We explained (b) (6) had been eaten the Ultra Chewy treat and become sick. Somehow (b) (6) (b) (6) did listen, care, or did not understand the medical need and refused to even take or return calls after taking (b) (6) under their care. (b) (6) did not have to die! The care was simply inadequate to save (b) (6) life. The Vet has sense called to offer apologies for lack of care to save her life...but.... No apology is going to bring back (b) (6) Was the Veterinary Clinic negligent? What is concerning is the clinic was unaware of the recent dog food recalls and was unaware, or claimed to be unaware, of the reports the FDA sends to veterinary professionals. Does the FDA actually send the reports? Obviously, we are heartbroken. (b) (6) life was cut short for depraved indifference to a pet's safety and well being and the bound with pet owners. My goal in posting this story is get Justice for (b) (6) I am not an advocate or community organizer where my hope is someone will read her story and react. Who will help carry the torch? (b) (6) survived a house fire and even though she fought hard to save her own life again, this time she could not. I could not. As she took her final breath, I cried out in agony for her to come back. (b) (6) looked at me one final time and exhaled her final breath. She

Please share this story, tell your friends and tell anyone who will listen. It is time to bring the atrocities of tainted pet food supply to an end. The FDA is taking action and now more than ever with so many recalls, our pets need us.

The VET did not take our concerns seriously and called to apologize after (b) (6) died but that does not bring her back. We posted reviews on his Facebook page. The VET does not follow notices sent about tainted dog food nor does he understand the health risk.

We cannot recommend (b) (6) or the (b) (6). Maybe this is a good clinic for shots or worming but not for emergency care or the decency to provide quality care to sustain a pet's life. After reading reviews online, it appears the type of care is common at a (b) (6).

Under COVID, the clinic only takes a pet by appointment where bills are paid by calling the clinic with a credit card. Our dog, (b) (6), ate a bad dog treat that made her sick with continuous vomiting. (b) (6) was admitted for emergency care by the (b) (6).

(b) (6) was examined, x-rayed, and given a shot to settle her nausea. No blockages were found.

The conditions did not change, as we had to take (b) (6) back as the vomiting could not stop. This was on a Saturday with a second emergency service. More x-rays and treatments but the vomiting continued. She was treated and rehydrated and no blockages were found.

			Come Monday, we called the clinic back as (b) (6) is not eating but drinking water, but still vomiting. The Vomit was the color of the dog treat. We did not get a call late in the afternoon where (b) (6) wanted to perform an ultra-sound for possible liver disease or cancer. (b) (6) acknowledged she was too young for both. We asked if an appetite stimulate could be prescribed to get her digestive system working again. He agreed as he said if she is drinking water that is first step to recovery as she could do with our food for weeks but water for only days. He called in prescription that could be picked up on Tuesday. We would then bring her in Thursday is conditions did not change....and the conditions did not change. We went to get the prescription and found a pill was prescribed and not the food paste. The pharmacist even questions why the pills was prescribed for a dog and called the clinic where (b) (6) confirmed the diagnosis. We gave (b) (6) the pill but there were no changes. We called Thursday to make a follow up emergency visit as conditions did not change. (b) (6) was not eating and was vomiting up water she was drinking. (b) (6) answered the phone and said she would give (b) (6) the message. We never got a call back. We called at 4:45 to inquire when we could bring (b) (6) for the follow up and were told that the clinic was really busy today and it was too late to come in as (b) (6) has already gone home. The clinic closes at 10PM What? He made the appointment and ignored the emergency service. We called again Friday to follow up on (b) (6) medical plan for (b) (6) and waited all day until the end of the day we got a call at 4:45. Two business days later (b) (6) called back to check on an emergency service! (b) (6) inquired on (b) (6) condition where it was suggested we come in Saturday as clinic is closing at 5:30 today. We explained the pill did not work and vomiting continued. He made an appointment to see (b) (6) at 8 AM Saturday for re-hydration but made an appointment for Ultra-Sound for Monday...7 days later to check the blockage.

Unfortunately, tomorrow never came for (b) (6). She passed way at (b) (6) (b) (6) ..15 minutes before her next Emergency Appointment. It appears the side of the effect of the pill prescribed was tremors which lead to a seizure which lead to her death.

As we had 8 AM appointment we called the clinic to speak to (b) (6) and he was off Saturday. It appears (b) (6) had no intention of continuing the emergency care he promised. We explained to the receptionist what happened, she apologized, said she was sorry and hung up. We immediately called back as we now have a dead pet, we need to make plans. We inquired about cremation services and were put on hold for 20 minutes with no one answering the phone. No one ever called back.

It is concerning these was complete lack of follow through or any sense of urgency to provide emergency services. (b) (6) did not return calls and did not care about (b) (6) health, wellbeing or life. (b) (6) never once asked about the treat that poisoned (b) (6)

Even the pharmacist questioned the care. (b) (6) never took (b) (6) health seriously...she was poisoned by a dog treat and (b) (6) was looking for liver and cancer problems which he never attempted to even diagnose.

After the recent recalls of tainted dog food and treats, a casual compassion and understanding would have been appreciated. Liver problems are common in dogs who have been poisoned with toxic dog food. Reviews on Amazon for Ultra Chewy Dog Treats reflect (b) (6) was not the first Dog to die. It would have been nice if (b) (6) would have taken our dogs health seriously and taken action...like maybe resea nd reporting the issue to the FDA.

EON-455928	3/22/2021 5:44	The Blue Buffalo Co. Dental Bones; Cleans Teeth + Freshens Breath	My dog had hemorrhagic gastritis (HGE) after having Blue Buffalo Dental bones. He ate it correctly and was observed while doing so. It started on a Saturday and I really thought I was going to lose him. He had both bloody vomit and explosive bloody diarrhea so we rushed him to an Emergency Veterinarian as our regular Vet was closed. We were told if we hadn't brought him in he could of died due to the amount of fluid and blood loss. He had to stay overnight Saturday and through 8:00 pm on Sunday. At the time we were unsure of the cause but realized the cause after I gave him one dental bone the night of March 10, 2021. On March 11, 2021 he once again had an episode of blood filled HGE. My dog was a perfectly healthy animal before eating these Blue Buffalo Dental bones and I believe they should be recalled. This happened on February 27, 2021 and he is still not back to normal. My other dog did not have HGE but he was not eating normally and his energy level suffered. I bought this product on Amazon and the package states they are good to June 20, 2022. I am seeing online that this has been an ongoing issue with the Blue Buffalo Dental bones and am asking that production be stopped and all available packages recalled and destroyed before any more animals are harmed or killed. I wish I had known.	3	Years	Schnauzer - Miniature	Dog	16	Pound

EON-455903	3/21/2021 16:24	Temptations MixUps	My otherwise healthy cat began vomiting blood and was severely lethargic. We took him to an emergency clinic and vet who found high levels of pancreatic enzymes. After a couple of days of fluids and antibiotics, he appeared recovered. I took him him for a two week check up with no further problems during that time. When we returned from the checkup, I gave him several of these treats and about 12 hours later, he had the same symptoms; severe bloody vomiting (couldn't keep water down) and lethargy. The vet advised to just monitor this time and by the next day he improved on his own. I remembered that I had opened that new package of treats very close to the time the first bout of the symptoms happened and while I can't say for certain they were the cause, the timing was definitely correlated both times. We have another cat who I specifically did not feed the treats to and she had no symptoms but ate all the same other food. I checked and it did not appear he ate any garbage or plants or anything else he shouldn't get into. I thought I should report just in case.	12	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	18	Pound

(b) (6) went from being a normal 13 yr old (we think 13, maybe only 12 - we rescued her 10 yrs ago so aren't sure) dog to suddenly having shallow, rapid breathing (70-80 per minute) on a Saturday, to the vets on Monday as it progressed so suddenly, to find out she had an enlarged heart, so enlarged it was pushing into her trachea. As well her liver was enlarged. On the Wednesday we had to put her down. In reading this past 5 days the symptoms, experience and everything aligns with Dilated Cardiomyopathy. Sadly, she lived 10 yrs with us on Acana dog food, one of the grain-free ones so I think there is likely a connection there. The puppies had just been weaned, there were nine in the litter. The puppies had been to her vet two times, once for a "new baby" check and once for initial vaccines. They all had a clean Bill of health and had their hearts checked, no murmurs or abnormalities were reported. I faithfully fed the kibble and took the puppy to a VCA clinic near our second home in (b) (6) for his next vaccines and a routine check indicated a healthy puppy. Once back to our home in (b) (6) I took Woody to the VCA in (b) (6) for next series of vaccines. Again, nothing unusual was reported about (b) (6) heart. In September in accordance to the breeders contract I took (b) (6) to our local Veterinary Clinic to be neutered. She did a routine heart check prior to giving anesthesia and detected an irregular heart rhythm and stated that she would not anesthetize (b) (6) until he was checked by a cardiologist. She stated that it didn't clearly seem to be a murmur and had suspicions of cardiomyopathy. Upon examination by the cardiologist, which took nearly 3 months for appointment, he stated after doing an echocardiogram that (b) (6) was experiencing DCM symptoms. He asked what (b) (6) had been for now 11 months and suggested changing (b) (6) diet to not include grain free kibble. From that day forward I have made (b) (6) food at home. On March 14, 2021, I popped open a can, began spooning out the food to feed my dog and noticed a foreign, blue plastic material embedded in the food. I contacted the manufacturer, gave a description of the problem, provided photographs and all of the dates &amp; code information on the can. They apologized, indicated they would contact operations to look into the problem, offered some coupons and said the balance of the food should be safe. I exercised caution, screening the food carefully from that point forward. Today (March 20th) I discovered foreign material in another can. Same mangled blue looking plastic material, only larger this time, embedded in the canned food about 2/3 of the way down just off center inside of the can. There might be some other finer foreign material in the food but I am not sure. I have sent another email to the company with photographs. At this point I am not going to feed my dog this food anymore until a cause and resolution is found. It seems that too many manufacturers of dog food are having quality and safety issues these days.

The last two shipments of Weruva's Love Me Tender, chicken and duck in gravy contained milky colored cat food, off color and the cats refuse to eat it. None of my cats will eat the milky colored Weruva. The milky colored contents are peculiar to lot # PCFDDG 19. Chewy and the manufacturer at Weruva replaced the last four boxes of the inedible, weird colored cat food. However when I ordered a second shipment, Chewy sent me the same lot PCFDDG 19 which is still inedible, milky color. How do I get this pet food tested? When I saw she was coming out with a dog food I was excited and figured it would be a brand I could trust. When I first gave my dog the food he seemed to like it. However, I started noticing that after a week or so after he started eating it his paws were getting really red and he would lick them. I figured it was seasonal allergies so I went to to the vet and he had gotten an allergy shot. Unfortunately, it didn't help too much. I had also started feeding him the wet dog food Rachael Ray has, with the variety packs. I noticed he started throwing up whenever I gave them to him. Once I stopped feeding him the wet dog food, he stopped throwing up. As far as the dry dog food, I continued him on that but started to notice that his ears were getting inflamed and irritated him. I took him to the vet again and they suggested to take him off the food. Since I have changed his diet, his redness has gone away and seems to be less irritated than before. EON-455009	3/11/2021 21:40	GRAIN FREE IAMS Perfect Portions Healthy Kitten Chicken Pate (purple label)	Kittens vomited contents within 12-hrs after eating kitten food. Then afterward, refused to touch their food. After the 2nd day's serving, and the kits smelled and refused to eat the food (which prior-- gobbled up). The food was examined and had a bad smell. So other individual servings (about 6/7 total) containers were opened and found the kitten food was either discolored dark brown vs pink and/or dark/light green edges, top, and/or around the entire serving accompanied by either a stink or foul smell. A new shipment had just arrived from the distributor (same throughout) that morning, so opened on of the boxes and new individual packets were opened, it smelled okay - to us humans - but upon serving the two in the kitten's respective bowls, there were sizable air pockets at the bottom that had begun to turn dark brow (compared to the entire serving) and had a bad smell. The other individual serving's air pocket was greenish-brown and a little smelly, too. We thought to offer it to the kittens and after a couple of whiffs, they walked away and refused to eat the food. After opening so many individual servings, the kittens were feed dry kibble. So, the next morning, took us to a different vendor, Petco, to buy 12 of the same brand of wet kitten food but upon opening, they smelled "kind of off" but looked pinky-biege as expected, the kittens began to nibble then stopped within seconds and walked away and refused to eat. That was after 9-hour night between their last meals. Again, dry kibble was served for breakfast and like the night before, ate that up just fine. The 1st distributor was contacted the evening before and they were very accommodating with a full refund of our last 2 orders of wet kitten food, apologies, and promise to check their warehouse, after providing all the box information, "best buy" dates on the boxes and the individual serving containers expiration dates (which expired 2/3 weeks after the box). EON-454887	3/11/2021 0:32	Purina Pro Plan Adult Sensitive Skin & Stomach Salmon & Rice	My dog had known food sensitivities as a pup, including chicken, and beef. When he was one years old, we discovered Purina Pro Plan Sensitive Skin and Stomach, Salmon flavor, and it worked wonders for him. In January, I received his next bag from Chewy and noticed the design was a little different. However the food had the same name, so naturally I assumed it was the same food (this wouldn't have been the first time Purina redesigned the bag). I started feeding it normally without thought, and within a week my dog started vomiting. I assumed he got into something and wasn't very concerned. But within 2 days he started having very bad diarrhea. I took him to the vet and we did two fecal samples to rule out parasites or infection. Both were negative. Vet suggested we feed rice and boiled meat for two days and see if that helped. It was an instant fix. I started to transition my dog back on his food, and within 24 ours the diarrhea started again. That's when I suspected it was the food. I went online to see if there were any recalls, and saw the other reports of dogs getting sick from a "new formula". So I called Chewy and asked if something had changed, and at first they said it was the same formula, but then when I asked them to check ingredients they said there was a new probiotic added. So I contacted Purina through their Facebook page and they had me share my experience with a supervisor on the phone. After I described what happened, the supervisor tried to tell me that the food was fine, it was a "nothing" formula change (just a probiotic, she said, nothing that could make him sick), I needed to transition him more slowly. But I had already tried transitioning after the rice break. I know that wasn't the problem. I was forced to do a "hard switch" to a new food because the Purina made my boy so sick. Thankfully that switch (to Farmina) went okay. I'm filing the report because I have noticed that people continue to report nearly identical problems in my Facebook dog groups and something needs to be done. Thank you.	4	Years	Shepherd Dog - Australian	Dog	29	Pound

When i gave her this stick, i saw it shatter into very sharp pieces (now i realized just like the other reviewers described on Amazon), but I thought that it was normal and would eventually melt as she chews them. But she puked the next day, and the shards are very visible and very solid like plastic. I have a picture of the vomit and video of how stale these treats were and how sharp they get when broken. EON-454594	3/8/2021 5:48	Pure Harmony, Wellness CORE Small Breed Low Fat Turkey Grain Free, Nature's Recipe Grain Free dog food	My family moved to (b) (6) in Nov. 2019 for my husbands job. The food we used to feed our dogs was not available here, so we switched both of our dogs to a brand sold on the USA military base (b) (6) Commissary. Both of our dogs had done major health reviews/testing per requirements of moving here and were deemed in good health. Our older dog (10 yr. old Bichon Frise) gets his teeth cleaned every two years as small dogs usually need this to stay in good health. We brought him in (b) (6) for his teeth cleaning/growth removal on back and had our puppy (b) (6) do a physical check and have blood draw to confirm she was in good standing before scheduling her for her first ever dental. Mind you she was spay and had anesthesia a year ago before moving here and was fine. After picking up our older dog and being told our (b) (6) bloodwork and physical looked good we scheduled her for her first teeth cleaning on (b) (6). She died on the table while being given anesthesia from what the vet could not explain other than heart failure. After she died the vet took a full body x-ray and explained to us that (b) (6) heart was enlarged. She told us she doesn't understand how this could have been missed. She did not have this a year ago on her last x-ray. I just saw this post shared by NBS about the FDA investigating grain free foods and how it can lead to heart failure and enlarged hearts. I looked at the food we have been feeding our dogs for this past year and it says Grain Free, by a company named Pure Harmony. What we fed our dogs in (b) (6) was also grain free and was from Natures Recipe and Wellness CORE. In december of 2019 our dog had a persistent cough and lethargic / confused. He was eating and drinking fine before the episode started. On Feb 24, we noticed that we started to notice that he didn't want to eat as much. By Feb 25, he had explosive diarrhea. The diarrhea was extremely watery. On Feb 26, we had to hospitalize (b) (6) who was very lethargic and still had diarrhea. Before taking him to the hospital, we gave our other dog, (b) (6) some of the same food because she needed her seizure medication. The next day she woke up lethargic and not wanting to eat. About midday, she started having diarrhea as well. We took her to our primary vet, who said she had inflammation in her colon and really bad diarrhea. We told him what happened, and he said it might be the food. We immediately called the vet where (b) (6) was hospitalized and told him what happened with our other dog. They suggested that we look through the cans of food and find ones with the same lot number. We opened a few and noticed that they smelled off. Enough to make me gag. We reported this to the vet at (b) (6) hospital, and they informed us that they had to call Hill's about some cans of i/d prescription diet that looked and smelled rancid. The vet was informed that Hill's was aware of the issue and was looking into it. I called Hill's that following week and informed them of what happened with my dogs. They took a report. (b) (6) has severe swelling in his colon, which the doctors believe was brought on by the food because there appears to be no other cause, and (b) (6) was relatively healthy prior to that Thursday. I've purchased them on Amazon, Chewy, PetSmart, and occasionally at the grocery store for years now with no issues. I noticed this past year there have been some shortages on this food, but I always buy 1-2 months' worth at a time so I never had any issues getting it for (b) (6). However, this last shipment I ordered from Chewy clearly has something wrong with it. My cat sniffs it and looks up at me and lets out a loud meow, like "what are you trying to feed me?" This, after me feeding her a couple other times and having me notice later she hasn't touched it. This did not start until I got into the batch that had just shipped from Chewy. And if I give her something else, she gobbles it up no problem, so this is not an issue with her appetite. The internet is flooded right now with complaints of other cat owners who have experienced the same thing. Combine those complaints with the fact that the product is basically missing from all store shelves at the moment and Purina has failed to come up with a good explanation as to why, and it's looking highly suspect that they are trying to avoid their first ever recall on Fancy Feast by pulling product and halting production under the radar. This has me very concerned and I think they need to be investigated immediately. Clearly they are hiding something. I have several cans left of the offending food that can be tested and lot numbers are legible on most of them. As these cans haven't been tested, I have no idea what exactly is wrong with the food or what the potential long-term or short term effects may be to a pet as my cat simply won't touch the stuff and I am now struggling to find a new food for her long-term. Some customers have reported deaths and uncontrollable vomiting online from this food recently, where their pets previously had no issues with this food.	13	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	20.5	Pound

(b) (6) was sent home with metronidazole and Cerenia. The diarrhea has slowly been improving. He had a black stools & then his ears turned bright red and the both swelled up, so I took him back to vet on 2/13/2021. The Sportmix dog treats are new and we started them after purchasing on 1/21/2021. The last one he ate was on 2/13 and he was still not eating well.  Vet had me call ASPCA poison control and both Vets concur that this appears to acute allergic reaction and we're concerned about the treats although they are not on the "Sportmix recall" list currently.	31	Months	Shepherd Dog - German	Dog	91	Pound

EON-454107	3/1/2021 14:24	Purina Beneful originals with natural salmon	I gave (b) (6) beneful (salmon flavored dog food) on sunday night. She's never had that brand before but it was on sale so I switched her from pedigree. By monday afternoon (b) (6) was acting very lazy and seemed uncomfortable while laying down. The next morning she couldn't walk very well and collapsed in the backyard. She was taken to the vet that same day (Tuesday). They did abdominal scans and blood work. Said she was anemic but didn't know where the blood was going. They said they were unsure of what was happening exactly gave her a vitamin k shot and antibiotics just incase. After Tuesdays vet visit (b) (6) was on a recommended diet of chicken and rice. By Thursday she was a bit better and by Saturday she was back to playing. Saturday night I switched (b) (6) back to Beneful and when I woke up in the morning she had thrown up to the point of dry heaving. She had diarrhea and heavy breathing. She died within an hour of me waking up. There seems to be a correlation. She was fine before she ate it on Monday and for the few days she was off of it. She had the same symptoms both times. I suspect a mold toxin due to jaundice, lethargy, muscle stiffness. I loved her deeply and wouldn't want anyone to go through what I went through yesterday. How can you ensure the ingredients in this formula are not affected and are safe to consume? This is very worry-some as my dog is a senior and much loved family member. I am going to contact my vet to express my concerns, but if there is way I can verify besides a statement that this product is safe I will continue to purchase and feed it to my dog(s). Please, is there a recent lab test result, or anything other then a generic statement on this VOLUNTARILY recall it would be greatly appreciated. I'm in a position to where I just switch back to my old food because of what I am reading, if there is some way you can gain my trust- it is very hard for me to feed my dog this after reading these stories and all the foods listed in the recall. Please do not hesitate to phone or email me back asap. I want to give this food to my dog, please prove or show you care and oblige my concerns with something other then a generic statement. I might take her to another vet for a 2nd recommendation on food; but please understand I want to give her this I just need to know it is safe. From my understanding the voluntary 2019 recall, then expanded to 2020. How sure are you it is only canned food and not dried food? Since we bought a new bag from Target, they both had diarrhea. Nothing else was changed in their diet. I started them on a chicken and rice diet as recommended from the vet and their symptoms improved with stools becoming more solid but when I started incorporating the dog food in with the chicken and rice the diarrhea started again. I will be returning the food to Target. I noticed there is a sticker on the bag that says "purge date: 2/14" it is now 2/19. Since this is refrigerated between uses, I put it in the microwave (in a bowl) for about 8 seconds to heat it. On three separate occasions, the dog food has sparked up and I see actual flames in the microwave. Originally, I thought I was seeing things. When I saw this happen for the second time, I realized it was happening with the chicken flavor, so I only continued to use other flavors. Tonight, it happened again with the turkey flavor. The only thing that I have ever seen cause mini fires like this in the microwave is metal. I am highly concerned that there is metal in the product. I plan to discontinue use of the product, and I will contact customer service at my local Wegman's to report the issue. I don't know if it is possible for you all to look into this. I purchased it at the local Walmart Supercenter. Did not open the package till 02/14/21. The package was not damaged when I initially opened the packaging. I poured the contents of the bag into two small containers as I regularly do to refill dog food supply. Midway through emptying the package a palm sized clump of what appeared to be unprocessed dog food came directly out of the bag. I put it aside and poured the rest of the contents into the containers. I took a second look at the clumped dog food, and seen a group of tiny eyelash-like hairs imbedded in the edges of the clumb. The hairs were visible to the naked eye. Upon further inspection I discovered multiple small rock-like particles. I carefully wrapped the unusual clump in a paper towel placed it back in the original package, both of which I still have. I fed my 2yr old, 71/2lb Shih Tzu a normal portion of the dog food the next evening 2/15/21. The next day 2/16/21 he vomited multiple times for 2 days and diarrhea followed. He will only drink water and looks lethargic. He is scheduled to see our vet on 2/19/21. EON-452419	2/9/2021 11:00	Pure Balance Grain Free Chicken & Pea Recipe	(b) (6) had been eating Pure Balance dog food for a few months (approx. 2). When she began eating this food initially, I noticed that she would get bloated immediately after consumption. I was not aware, at the time, that bloat in dogs is potentially fatal. Early in the afternoon on January 31, 2021, I took (b) (6) to an animal clinic to be examined. She had diarrhea, was not eating, and was having difficulty catching her breath. She was released to go home after being treated with an antibiotic shot with some IV fluids. On the night of January 31, 2021, (b) (6) was rushed back to the veterinary emergency room after she became lethargic, began gasping for air, profusely vomit a combination of blood and other fluids, and passed bloody diarrhea. Here she was examined for pancreatitis, parasites, etc. but no solid problem was detected. The vet asked if she had gotten into any trash, digested any food she did not typically eat, picked up something off the ground outside, all to no avail, initially. A week on, I became curious about (b) (6) becoming bloated after eating her Pure Balance food at mealtimes. After a few searches, I came across some consumer reviews for the same brand of dog food, to which the reviewer(s) write of scarily similar accounts that their dogs have experienced whilst consuming this brand of dog food. The reviews were very hard to come by, which I believe is deceptive practice of the brand if they are manipulating which types of reviews appear from customers. Based on the reviews I was able to find that detailed similar accounts to my own, I am almost certain that the Pure Balance brand of dog food made (b) (6) sick, and has cost the lives and well-being of other consumers' dogs as well.	4	Years	Schnauzer - Miniature	Dog	12.5	Pound

EON-452386	2/9/2021 0:00	Whole Grain Chicken & Oat Recipe Dehydrated Dog Food	Not sure if related to diarrhea, but informed both the manufacturer (The Honest Kitchen) and place of purchase that a 20# bag of Whole Grain Chicken & Oat Recipe Dehydrated Dog Food had a defect in the bag, which I felt was a bag design problem, that creates a small hole in otherwise u opened bag, potentially exposing food to excess air. My dog ate at least 2 of the smaller bags of this food without problem - the smaller bag has a different design. He then ate a 20# bag, and had diarrhea for about a month (time to consume 1 bag, he only consumes half his diet as this food). I did not notice if a problem with this bag. I'd purchased a 2nd 20# bag, and noticed a whoosh of air from the seal area as I moved unopened bag into the dog food bin. I did not open this bag as did not feel was safe for my geriatric dog. As my dog only ate from the first bag, I cannot say there was definitely a problem with it, only that the way the bag is sealed makes it seem like it could be a problem with these food bags. Diarrhea resolved as I stopped feeding this food, though may be unrelated. Either way, I don't trust that bag design or attitude of company when I brought it to their attention.

We've encountered no issues until a recent batch of canned food. Beginning in mid-January we started a new case of food. Within days our female cat began having diarrhea and lethargy. On the first day, as we were cleaning her, her back legs became almost paralyzed and she went limp. The episode lasted less than a minute, but she continue to experience diarrhea and lethargy for a few days. We took her to our vet who took X-rays and did bloodwork. She wasn't able to find anything except her platelets were low. We were prescribed a steroid to help with that. The next day, the exact same thing happened to our other cat. The vet gave us another prescription cat food to help with their stomach issues (Hill's Prescription Diet I/D). Both cats were finicky about eating, so there were times we tried giving them both the Urinary SO and/or the I/D food as we tried to get them to eat anything. Eventually we were able to get them to just eat the I/D food, and for a week they were fine. Then we started to transition them back to the Urinary SO per the vet's instructions. After eating half I/D and half Urinary SO for a few days, both cats started experiencing diarrhea and vomiting on the same day. We immediately stopped the Urinary SO and for the past 24 hours they've only had the I/D food. They seem to be improving.	3	Years	Unknown	Cat	8	Pound

I had recently switched our dog to the "Rachael Ray Large Breed Chicken & Veggie" recipe because it says for hip & joint health and I felt since our dog was a very large breed this would be good for him. We received a new shipment of dog food from Amazon, we noticed shortly after feeding our dog from the new bags we received, he all of a sudden didn't want to eat it anymore. He has always been SOOO food driven. Just smelling it would make him puke almost instantly. During this time we had not given him any treats or anything new to eat. We also never fed him table foods so we are/were certain it was the dog food. We took our dog to the vet and they confirmed the same thing, and said they believed it was the dog food and had us switch to their vet recommended brand, Hill's Science. After bringing him home initially he ate very little but after a day or two he wouldn't eat anything at all... we went back to the vet they gave him IV fluids, did two xrays over a 2 day period, and we went to an emergency vet hospital where they did an ultrasound. No blockages were found. They did blood and stool samples everything came back normal. We are absolutely perplexed at what this could be. It almost seemed like a poisoning to us, like something was in that dog food that is affecting one or multiple organs. We have him on many different medications but nothing is working. He still won't eat. It has been roughly 3 weeks since this all began, we are fighting to keep him alive but we just want answers. Our cat is also on Rachael Ray nutrish but we are going to go ahead and switch to Hill's Science after this incident. We threw the Rachael Ray dog food out right after our vet told us there have been multiple dogs getting sick of that brand. We didn't think about saving some for testing but we had recently switched our dog from the regular "Rachael Ray Premium Chicken & Veggies" in the green bag, to the "Rachael Ray Large Breed Chicken & Veggies recipe" which has blue on the bag. It was then I realized that (b) (6) really had not been eating. Her abdomen was large, so I didn't thing anything of it until I took a much closer look back at her behavior. It changed significantly. She was constantly whining, more than her usual attention seeking whine. She was panting and not wanting to stay in her "area" and was appearing to be very anxious. I didn't like this change in behavior and considered taking her to the vet for anxiety until I realized (after looking up this recall and the effects), that she was becoming extremely emaciated and that her large abdomen was ascites, thus the increased difficulty breathing. I was terrified of losing her during the night of Sunday December 13, 2020 as her breathing was extremely rapid, short and difficult. I was up with her most of the night and when I did sleep, it was very light. (b) (6) could not continue to lay down to sleep and I found her leaning on the dresser in a seated position just so that she could breath. She was able to go outside multiple (5) times during the night to void, but was very weak and unsteady. During the previous 2 weeks, (b) (6) had urinated in the house on 5 different occasions, which initially got me upset because she has never done this. Looking back I realized she had no control and could not wait. I got her into the vet on Monday 12/14/20 and they had to drain her abdomen of fluid. 6 pounds of fluid. They requested a return visit the next day 12/15/20 so they can tap and drain the fluid they found in the chest. This resulted in another 44 ounces of fluid being removed. that is another 2.75 pounds totaling 8.75 pounds of water removed from her. She was put on diuretics starting on 12/14/20 and increased dosage on 12/15/20. Labs were also drawn, though past the acute stage/time of onset, labs were normal at that time. The concerns are ongoing treatment for water build up(ascites) which is due to damage to the liver. Possibility of acquiring cancer from the toxin(aflatoxin) which has carcinogenic properties and the long term affect and treatment needed due to this toxin.	11	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	59.5	Pound

I usually have one bag in reserve about the time a new shipment is received. The order that was delivered 12/24/20, was opened Thursday evening (b) (6). The residual amount in the previous bag was dumped into the newly opened bag. I feed twice a day. He has never had a similar upset prior to this. I walked him, as every morning, early, for over two miles. He was fine and active until after his evening meal on (b) (6). He was out once to pee after his dinner and right back in. This episode was so sudden and unusual, my dog acted like he had been poisoned, but that is not possible from an outside source, since we keep no materials like that around and he was never unaccompanied where he had an opportunity to ingest a foreign substance. On (b) (6) I fed the dog at 4:00 p.m. By 6:00pm he was not himself. By 7 he was panting and pacing. I took him out for a short walk where he vomited. Within the next hour he vomited two more times, large amounts. He did not vomit after that. I cleaned up and settled him in bed. I got up at 1am to see how he was doing; he was laying down and looked at me but did not get up. When I checked again at 3 am, he was dead. Other than the RC dog food, two cups 2x daily) enhanced with Kirkland wild Alaskan Salmon oil, 1400mg, two Cosequin tablets and two 10mg tablets of CetizineHydrochloride (OTC Allerest, vet prescribed for skin allergy itch), Hills Hypo treats and a few greens from our salad, he eats nothing else. The canned foods that the manufacturer sends to Chewy has rust all along the lid, is often dented in, and there is black mold growth inside the can. This has happened with EVERY SINGLE case of cans I have purchased over the last year. I scoop the mold out and avoid contamination with the rust, but know that there could be contaminants I do not see. My fiance is a health director and advised I contact so that this issue can be looked into. The food item is: Purina Pro Plan Veterinary Diets HA Hydrolyzed Formula Chicken Flavor Pate Adult Canned Dog Food, 13.3-oz, case of 12. Since consuming this food, my dog has had some odd black marks appear on his body and has been visibly more fatigued (refusing to go for a walk outside). I am limited in what I can feed my dog, given his food allergies, and would like to ensure the quality and safety of this product is looked into. The black spots in the food are not an ingredient, they are undeniably black mold. I have contacted Chewy over 30 times regarding this matter, and there has been no resolve to the issue.

EON-451054	1/23/2021 10:24	Purina Pro Plan Adult Complete Essentials Shredded Blend Chicken and Rice Formula	(b) (6) began vomiting on and off. Over the course of a week, the vomiting increased to daily and then twice daily (morning and night). He also began to refuse food/have no appetite. I realized that this began shortly after feeding from a new bag of dog food. But (b) (6) has a history of eating toys, paper goods. So I didn't immediately think it was definitely his food. His condition was not improving so I took him to the Vet. The original concern was that he had a blockage or something stuck or maybe even pancreatitis. Unfortunately, the vet could not examine him because (b) (6) was being very aggressive. Vet recommended a special "pre-digested" food and referred me to a specialist. Within a day of eating the new food, (b) (6) seemed to feel a bit better. After a couple days the vomiting stopped and (b) (6) seemed like himself again. Once this special food was gone, I returned to feeding him from that original bag of food. But I took him off a couple days later when I started to see similar symptoms, vomiting didn't return but he began acting like he didn't feel well and was skipping meals. So I took him back off of it again. Then I saw a video online of other people reporting similar problems with their dogs eating Pro Plan food and getting sick with the same symptoms.	3	Years	Cattle Dog - Australian (blue heeler, red heeler, Queensland cattledog)	Dog	50	Pound

EON-450860	1/22/2021 0:24	Taste of the Wild PREY Trout Formula Limited Ingredient Recipe Dry Dog Food	On 12/23/2020, I observed (b) (6) laying on the patio when I went to let the dogs in from going to the bathroom. He seemed out of it but I didn't see what caused him to fall. There was snow on the ground and it was slippery so I thought maybe he slipped then hit his head. On 01/01/2021, (b) (6) was coming into the house after going to the bathroom and had what we thought was a seizure. We rushed him to the emergency vet. He was on a 23 hour seizure watch and he didn't have any seizures there. (b) (6) was placed on Keppra for his seizures. I contacted our vet and was told to monitor (b) (6) plus try to take notes/video on when, where, activity (b) (6) was doing if he had another seizure. We videoed him having one episode as well as videoed him coughing since he had such a horrible cough. He sounded like a seal. On 01/07/2021, (b) (6) went to our vet and was looked at. He had fluid build up in his abdomen. At this visit our vet did an xray but could not see anything due to the fluid build up in the abdomen. On 01/08/2021, Our vet did an ultrasound of the abdomen and of the heart. She sent the ultrasound to a radiologist. on 1/8/2021, we received the following: (b) (6) abdominal ultrasound showed normal urinary bladder, kidneys, intestines, and spleen. His liver is enlarged with rounded margins. The caudal vena cava is distended. Hepatic venous distention is evident. His gall bladder is moderately distended with normal contour. The gall bladder wall appears diffusely thickened (halo sign). He has a moderate volume of peritoneal effusion. The radiologist also reviewed (b) (6) x-rays from yesterday. He has generalized heart enlargement with left atrial enlargement. There was evidence of pulmonary venous distention and scant pleural effusion. His abdominal x-rays showed a markedly enlarged liver with rounded margins; this is most likely due to hepatic congestion. There was poor serosal detail (outline of the organs) due to ascites (fluid in the belly). In conclusion, the findings are consistent with dilated cardiomyopathy with right sided heart failure as the cause of ascites. This is further supported by distention of the caudal vena cava (no bounce) and hepatic veins and gallbladder wall edema (cardiac gallbladder). There is generalized cardiomegaly with both right sided and left sided heart enlargement and poor left ventricular contractility.	7	Years	Dogue de Bordeaux	Dog	130	Pound

		Dilated cardiomyopathy, in this case, is most likely nutritional since he is being fed a grain-free diet. If you wish, additional diagnostics would include a complete cardiac workup (full echocardiogram, ECG, blood pressures) and measurement of whole blood and plasma taurine levels. In addition to the furosemide, the specialist recommended starting pimobendan to help with his cardiac contractility. We carry pimobendan here. Taurine supplementation is recommended at 2 grams twice a day. (Interestingly, taurine may help decrease seizure activity!). Taurine is a nutritional supplement/vitamin available OTC. He should be transitioned to another diet (not grain-free). If your other dogs are on the same diet, they should also be evaluated. The dog food should be reported to the FDA. We started the furosemide on (b) (6) and the pimobendan on (b) (6). On (b) (6) (b) (6) went to the vet again. He had fluid removed from his abdomen (2 or 3 Liters I believe) and it was at this visit that the vet noticed that (b) (6) heart sounded like a bongo drum. She asked to do an ECG and the vet sent in the findings to be evaluated. The following is what we recieved on (b) (6) from our vet: he ECG run last night indicated a big problem. (b) (6) has atrial fibrillation due to severe atrial dilation. Besides dosing his furosemide at 240 mg 3 times a day, we need to increase the pimobendan to 15 mg 3 times a day. For management of the atrial fibrillation, we need to start Diltiazem 90 mg 3 times a day and recheck ECG in 1 week; our goal is to slow the his heart rate to below 160 beats in a minute. We need to give at least 5 days before escalating the anti-arrhythmic dose further because too rapid an increase can inadvertently cause a very slow heart rate which causes weakness/collapse. If (b) (6) heart rate is still too rapid at the 1 week recheck examination, then the dose of diltiazem would be increased and we would add in digoxin. A study found that combination therapy is more effective than monotherapy for management of atrial fibrillation in dogs and combination therapy of diltiazem/digoxin was associated with a longer survival compared to diltiazem alone; however, starting both medications together from the beginning causes vomiting. The presence of atrial fibrillation is unfortunately a negative prognostic indicator as dogs

			with atrial fibrillation lived approximately ? as long compared to dogs without atrial fibrillation. (b) (6) would need to be rechecked in a week for a physical examination, blood pressure, chemistry profile, and follow-up ECG. Please monitor and record his resting (sleeping) respiratory rate once daily (count the number of times his chest rises and falls in 1 minute). If the resting respiratory rate increases from an established baseline (once established) or exceeds 40 breaths per minute, then he needs an immediate recheck. It was at this time that we decided to make an appointment to have (b) (6) euthanized. (b) (6) passed away on (b) (6) at about 1020a in our vet's office. It should also be noted that (b) (6) did not have any seizures after fluid was removed from his abdomen. It is felt that (b) (6) was not having seizures but rather he was passing out from the lack of blood flow through his body. The video of the wobbliness as well as the coughing was sent to our vet so that they could fully see what was occurring. I gave them a timetable of events and we were able to find a pattern that after (b) (6) would defecate he would come back to us wobbly/ off balance. The coughing also left after the abdomen was drained of fluid. We did reduce the seizure meds on (b) (6) in the hopes that we would be able to remove those pills from his daily life. Even with the reduced medication (b) (6) didn't have any type of event so it leads us to believe that what happened with (b) (6) was not a seizure but rather a blood flow issue.

EON-450679	1/20/2021 19:04	Purina pro plan salmon formula	Started a new bag of purina and everything was okay. Occasional vomit which was highly uncommon maybe 1-2 times here and there over a month. Went away for holidays and came back. Nothing different or didn't eat anything new, then vomitted 12 times in the course of 24 hours then rushed to the hospital where his X-ray showed gas so we tried to pass them it got worse. They said his bowels were so enflammed, irritated and just not allowing anything to move or pass. This came out of NO WHERE. It's going to sound ridiculous but I saw a tik tok where many other were having the same issues and was told to make a report. This was a newer bag purchased around Christmas			Bullmastiff	Dog

I noticed him getting more lethargic but wondered if he was just tired or maybe the winter cold was slowing him down. I also noticed his anus was inflamed and red, though I never saw bleeding actively occur. This was definitely irritating and uncomfortable to him. Then after a few weeks of increasing the amount of the new food, he started getting more lethargic and didnt seem very happy. Recently he has had a major accident in the house (unlikely for him) where there was a lot of poop (for his usual average) and the consistency was soft and not right. He seemed like he couldnt hold it at all, even though he never has accidents. Seriously, ever. I thought he was just sick or something random, but then came across other owners personal reports unlike and and suddenly made the connection between the new food choice and the issues hes been having all of a sudden.	5	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	55	Pound

Product #1205 adult puppy & senior.	Hours after I fed my dog this food for the first time he threw it all up (the vomit consisted of green liquid and whole pieces of dog food) and he had diarrhea for 24 hours. He also coughed and vomited green foam for 8 hours following the initial vomiting event. Worried he ingested something foreign during our walks I put him on a diet of chicken and rice for all meals for 3 days, starting with the first meal after he vomited. The diarrhea stopped and he seemed to be back to normal after 3 days. I did not suspect he got sick from the dog food since canidae is recommended as a quality product, so after 3 days of the chicken and rice diet I started feeding him the canidae all life stages; lamb meal & rice formula single animal protein dry dog food again. Immediately after starting him back on the canidae product he began to have severe diarrhea again. He has never had diarrhea that bad and I had to take him outside every 1.5-2 hours to prevent him from defecating in my house. My other dog (female) has not vomited from this product but has had bad diarrhea as well since starting them on this food. I have had him and my other dog on this food for 3 days and both have had consistent, bad diarrhea. I will not feed them this food any longer. Upon searching for answers on why this food did this to my dogs I found this website ( https://www.fidosavvy.com/canidae-could-make-your-dog-sick.html ) that documented other dog owner's experiences with canidae dry dog food products recently (within the last couple months), symptoms are very consistent with my dogs and upon reading how this food has affected other dogs I believe this food needs to be investigated.	1.5	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	35	Pound

EON-450431	1/18/2021 14:28	Whole Earth Farms Grain Free Real Healthy Kitten Recipe 5oz	I ordered 3 cases of 24 x 5oz cans of Merrick Pet Care Whole Earth Farms Grain Free Healthy Kitten Recipe 5oz wet food from Chewy.com in mid-December. I noticed some of the cans in the first case were dented, but not on sides that were facing the exterior of the case, so not dented from impact. One can's seal had broken and the food was moldy so I discarded the can. Since so many of the cans were dented (at least 12 of the 24 in each of the first two cases), and some dents weren't too severe and there was no bulging at that point, I looked online. It said small dents were probably fine. (b) (6) was eating two 5oz cans a day. By the time we had a clinical issue, the first case was already consumed. (b) (6) has been eating this food since he was a few weeks old, starting with the 2.75 oz cans. I recently moved him up to the 5oz cans as he started needing more calories. On Mon. Jan 11, about a week after he'd minorly reinjured his paw, (b) (6) was a little sluggish and slower to eat. Tues. Jan 12, in the morning, he was unable to move effectively or completely open his eyes. I rushed him to the vet. (b) (6) had a very high fever, and when he came out of the carrier at the vet his front paws were folding under and he was unable to stand and move well or open his eyes. The vets diagnosed him with an unknown infection - in the fear that he would die I forgot about the food until pulling out more dented cans later, so I did not ask if contaminated food could be the culprit and they didn't ask. He was treated with subcutaneous fluids, antiinflammatories and antinausea drugs, and I was sent home with antibiotics, antiinflammatories, an immune support supplement, and eye ointment. He started improving quickly, thankfully. The eye ointment doesn't seem to have much effect. Food poisoning didn't occur to me until I pulled out more cans of food from the second case that ranged from dented to severely crinkled and swollen, and opened the third case to find the food to be very abnormal quality and smell (though apparently sealed), with 8 of the 24 cans in the third case dented. I had some extra 2.75oz cans around and opened them to compare, and there is definitely something wrong with the 5oz cans in the 3rd case as well, even though they're less crinkled than the second case. I looked up the symptoms of botulism, which fit with (b) (6) lethargy and trouble moving and general neurological issues. I have called the vet to verify but they are very busy. Luckily, (b) (6) is recovering, but I had a $500 vet bill. I contacted Chewy.com, who issued me a refund, and I have also contacted the manufacturer and left a message.	5	Months	American Shorthair	Cat	5.5	Pound

EON-450290	1/16/2021 15:52	Sportmix Wholesomes Chicken Meal and Rice Formula Adult Dry Dog Food	Shortly after buying another bag of "Sportmix Wholesomes Chicken Meal and Rice," our dog (b) (6) (Australian Cattle Dog/German Shepherd Mix) started periodically wandering around the house looking like she was "lost." She would exhibit this type of behavior up to an hour or two after eating her breakfast in the morning, and/or sometimes when we came back from a walk. She would also periodically exhibit what looked to be weakness in her hind legs, as she would be hesitant to jump on the couch or bed as usual. Sometimes she even stumbles about. We had been monitoring her condition/behavior for the last few weeks to see if they abated on their own, and she seemed to be doing alright until Wednesday, 13 January 2021, when her condition and frequency appeared to worsen. Incidentally, we received an email from our vet, (b) (6) (b) (6) the evening of Tuesday, 12 January 2021 indicating that there was a mass recall for other types of Sportmix dog feed because of Aflatoxins. We ceased feeding her Sportmix Wholesomes immediately, keeping (b) (6) periodic bouts in mind, and scheduled an appointment for an examination the very next day (Wednesday, 13 January 2021). The morning of Wednesday, 13 January 2021 (b) (6) had another bout, although it seemed like she was doing better by around noontime. Her appointment was for 4:30 pm, and she had a physical exam, blood test, and urine analysis. Unfortunately, (b) (6) had two other incidents the next day (14 January 2021), first around 9:00 am and again around 11:50 am. I recorded videos of these incidents, and was able to meet with (b) (6) (b) (6) in person on Saturday, 16 January 2021 to discuss these. Friday, 15 January 2021, (b) (6) seemed to be doing okay and did not exhibit any symptoms. Unfortunately, however, she has had periodic episodes throughout the day on 16 January 2021 (up until this writing, which is 4:00 pm... however, she is quietly resting in her bed on the floor at the moment).	8	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	55	Pound

			I met with (b) (6) at 11:15 am on Saturday, 16 January 2021. During this meeting, I showed her three videos of (b) (6) episodes from Thursday, 14 January. To paraphrase her initial prognosis, she stated that (b) (6) is having mild seizures, and her behavior and symptoms are consistent with resulting liver damage. In fact, (b) (6) told me that this sort of issue is what she did her doctoral dissertation on. Furthermore, she believes that since these symptoms appeared shortly after (b) (6) began the new bag of Sportmix Wholesomes, that this food is responsible for her seizures and resulting symptoms. (b) (6) prescribed (b) (6) 100mg of Gabapentin (three times per day), 125mg of Metronidazole (every twelve hours for ten days), and Hepaticlear tablets (once per day) for liver detoxification. (b) (6) was also given a new diet regimen consisting of Purina's Veterinary Pro Plan Hydrolyzed Protein (HA) dry and wet food, as it appears she is now having problems metabolizing protein as a result of the liver damage. (b) (6) could not determine if this was going to be a temporary diet or something she would need to have for the remainder of her life. I gave (b) (6) her first round of treatment around 1:00 pm on Saturday, 16 January 2021, and will be speaking with (b) (6) again on Monday, 18 January 2021 about (b) (6) condition over the weekend. As I am not a vet, nor an animal nutritional specialist, please do contact (b) (6) regarding the particulars and causes of (b) (6) condition.

We have fed nearly every Sportmix variety depending on the availability. We have fed the Energy Plus, Stamina, High Energy and Maintenance at times. The main one we used was Energy Plus. We usually purchased from Tractor Supply but also occasionally from our local feed store. We do not save dog food bags. We purchase and feed 50 lbs of dog food every 10-15 days. We do have proof of what we purchased from Tractor Supply. On (b) (6) when giving (b) (6) a bath, his stomach felt bigger than usual. He had just eaten and was acting pretty normal so we didn't feel like anything was wrong. Over the next couple of days he became lethargic and wasn't his normal happy self we he saw us. By (b) (6) he was picking at his food and his stool was loose and really dark black and tar-like. We took him straight to our veterinarian. (b) (6) (b) (6) examined him, noticed his tight abdomen. His temperature was normal. Fecal exam showed no worms. (b) (6) drew blood and ran some labs. The results baffled her. She asked if he eaten anything unusual, which he had not. She drew some fluid off his abdomen and told us that he was spilling toxins into his abdomen for some reason. She gave us some medications to give him at home. Saturday and Sunday his condition gradually got worse even with the medication. By the end of the weekend he wouldn't eat or drink. We were giving him fluids by mouth with a syringe. We took him back to the vet first thing Monday morning. They kept him and did blood work again. They told us he needed a blood transfusion. So we picked him up and took him to (b) (6) (2 1/2 hrs away), (b) (6) By the time we arrived (b) (6) was having seizures. They took him and tried to stabilize him. He became unresponsive. They told us there was nothing else they could do. They explained that he wasn't responding to any medication and he wasn't going to live. We gave them permission to euthanize him. We brought our (b) (6) home and buried him on our property. In a week's time we lost a beloved family pet and we had no answers. EON-450186	1/15/2021 12:24	Sportmix Premium High energy, Sportmix Premium maintainance	I am submitting a complaint that I believe tainted lots of sportmix dog food caused the death of 5 of my Purebred Central Asian puppies born (b) (6) These puppies were born healthy and all appeared strong and were nursing the night of (b) (6) The following morning, (b) (6) 3 of the 12 puppies born the previous day were dead. Initial inspection of the puppies did not reveal the cause of death. I will note that 2 of the 3 dead puppies still had a healthy pink color to their gums and tongue. On (b) (6) another puppy was acting sluggish and not nursing. She was pulled from the mother to hand rear and to be examined by our vet but died shortly after being found. On the AM of (b) (6) another puppy was found dead. Again as with the previous dead puppies there was no obvious cause of death. It was on this same day that the recall for the Sportmix dogfood was issued. The reported lots recalled did not match any lots I had fed or currently had but out of caution I immediately discontinued feeding the sportmix feed. With the recent expansion of the recall I feel the need to report my troubles and the lots of the feed I have fed my dog. Currently the lots I have fed do not match those included in the current recall as of 1/14/21. I had spoken with my vet after the initial recall and he agreed that Aflatoxin could certainly have contributed to the death of my puppies. If there were High levels of Aflatoxin it would not have caused my dog to abort, it is present in milk and according to my veterinarian only takes a small amount to cause the death of puppies. I currently have 4 of the 5 dead puppies frozen and available for testing if needed. One of the dead puppies was buried and not available to collect and put in the freezer. I have the empty food bags from all of the lots that I believe could have been an issue. I do also still have food left from the last bag that I had purchased and stopped feeding. The mother of the puppies is a Large Livestock guard dog weighing over 100 lb., she is a purebred Central Asian Shepherd, so far she does not seem to be affected by the feed. She had a total of 12 puppies born on (b) (6) also purebred Central Asian Shepherds, of which 5 died before I discontinued feeding the sportmix feed. No other puppies have died since I discontinued the sportmix. While I realize that puppy death can occur especially in a large litter it was not expected of this dog as she raised a previous litter of 10 without issue. Thank you for considering my complaint and please let me know If you need any other information or would like any samples to preform testing on.	1	Days	Shepherd Dog - Central Asian	Dog	1	Pound

EON-450051	1/14/2021 14:52	4health weight management 35 lb bag	Both of our dogs became very ill mid December. Both had symptoms of being lethargic, throwing up, no appetite, diarrhea (bloody) and our Rottweiler had some jaundice in his eyes. We rushed them to the vet on 12/15/20 in which a numerous amount of tests were done and they were given multiple medications to take home so we could monitor. We took them off their food (4Health weight management, Tractor Supply brand) and put them on a chicken and rice diet for almost 2 weeks to get their digestive systems back in tact. We contacted tractor supply where we bought their food and an employee stated she had a women come in a month earlier with the same issue with her dog. Our vet bills were over $2,000 in which after we heard about the recall of the other foods with the same symptoms we contacted our lawyer who contacted tractor supply and is still in the works for reimbursement. I did some research and many ingredients used in the brands of dog food that were recalled are also common ingredients in the food that we fed our dogs. Our pups are doing a lot better and we changed their food to avoid it happening again.	8	Years	Rottweiler	Dog	110	Pound

EON-450045	1/14/2021 14:12	Purina Pro Plan Focus Classic Adult Sensitive Skin & Stomach Salmon & Rice	A case of 12 cans of Purina Pro Plan Focus sensitive stomach and skin salmon and rice from Amazon. In July, my husband fed our Australian Shepherd 1/2 can one day and 1/2 can the next. I was in the hospital at the time so I didn't know what she was being fed. She became violently ill with vomiting and diarrhea so on day 2 my husband brought her to our veterinarian. He said she was extremely dehydrated, gave her IV fluids, did blood tests which showed elevated and abnormal kidney and liver functions. The vet kept our dog for half a day then sent her home with subcutaneous fluids, antibiotics, stomach settling meds, and kidney diet food. She was not much better after 2 days so she was taken to an internal medicine specialist. She did improve gradually until we fed her and her visiting sister a few spoons of the same Pro Plan food in January 2021. Both dogs had the same reaction. We keep the canned food in a different cabinet so when she got sick again, I counted the remaining cans and there were 10 left out of the 12 original purchase. I have no doubt now that it was the canned Pro Plan that made her and her sister sick. A costly lesson to learn about a reputable dog food. The vet bills and subsequent blood text cost us almost $2,000. Luckily our dog survived but as evident from continued blood/lab tests, she has permanent kidney/liver damage.	3	Years	Shepherd Dog - Australian	Dog	40	Pound

After dumping the bag in the container I noticed the inside of the bag also had this film on it. In touching the dry dog food, it also felt greasy. It also didn't smell like I remember the previous bag smelling. It wasn't a bad odor but it didn't smell right. I received this order on December 28, 2020. It has been kept inside my house in the pantry. I did cut out piece approximately 4"x5" from the bag and also about a cup of the food. I put these in a plastic baggie.

Now I understand the beef formula is temporarily unavailable due to an "issue." I have contacted both my distributor and Answers to find out what the issue is. Would you like to have this product to test? My concern is that I reported a problem with the beef product and there was no follow up even though there is a known issue with the beef. Excellent health but a teeth cleaning was recommended. Her first. It was scheduled for 1/12/2021. We had noticed a change in her behavior, starting in early December. I told the vet when she went for her cleaning that she was acting differently and her groomer had noticed it too. I reported that she didn't want to run around much, go on hikes, just moping around and sleeping much more. This was not a gradual change but over just the matter of about the last month to 6 weeks. The vet examined her and found a heart murmur that was new for the dog. She was at a 3 out of 6 on the scale that vets use to grade murmurs. She preformed a chest x-ray and blood work. Blood work was fine but her chest x-ray showed a slightly enlarged heart. She asked me if I had changed her dog food recently. I had switched her from Blue Buffalo chicken dog food to Blue Buffalo Wilderness Chicken grain free dog food. It was then that the vet told me that studies have shown that grain free dog food can cause cardiac problems. She was put on heart medication that she may be on for the rest of her life and her diet was switched to Purina Pro Plan, which is not grain free. We also took away all of her Blue Buffalo treats which are also grain free. Why these products are still allowed on the market is totally irresponsible.	11	Years	Poodle (unspecified)	Dog	28	Pound

EON-449814	1/13/2021 6:44	Sportmix	Upon picking dog up from daycare, noticed that she was gagging. I initially thought that she was overexcited as I'd been in a weeklong business trip. Once home, she continued to gag and was lethargic. She could barely bark and wouldn't eat. We were supposed to relocate the next day, but I delayed a day to give her time to feel better. On the day of our drive, she still wasn't back to normal. Concerned, I stopped at a rest stop and called her vet at our new location. They recommended that I get her to an emergency vet. We didn't get to our new home until that night. By the morning she was still ill. Fortunately, the new vet was able to see her. She had an inflamed pancreas and intestines. The doctor asked what did she eat. I called the daycare and the owner said that they fed her Sportsmix.	2	Years	Havanese	Dog	19	Pound

EON-449668	1/11/2021 19:08	Sportmix	On Sunday (b) (6) we thought (b) (6) had a stroke because she had collapsed and couldn't walk. She has always been so healthy - we've never had any health issues with her. We got her to the vet on (b) (6). (no one was taking emergency vet visits on the weekend). After an initial round of blood work the vet thought she might have Addison's Disease. I brought her in the following day (b) (6), for some special testing. Those tests came back normal. We waited another week and repeated all the blood work which showed everything was normal. The vet was ? mystified. Her behavior during the time of the incident on Sunday steadily improved and by Saturday of that week it was like nothing happened. When she started to have an appetite I did some raw and table food (rice, chicken stew, raw hamburger, tuna) for a little over a week. She was doing great then, until I let her start eating her dog food again but I didn't make the connection. In fact when she first got sick I told my husband I thought she had been poisoned. We keep her dog food in cold storage in the basement and refill her container that's kept upstairs. I immediately checked the dog food - there wasn't much left but no visible mold, no foul order. (b) (6) she had an "episode" again. I say episode because we had no idea what was wrong the first time. She was playing in the living room by me, rolled around and scratching her back on the carpet, got up and when I saw her walking toward her bed I saw her stagger a little But she turned around walked over to the wall and stood there for a second ) (we think it was a seizure) she then turned around walked a few steps and collapsed. She was awake but couldn't move. We rushed her to the vet. By the time we got there she perked up a bit, and (b) (6) took her by the grass and she walked around. We got inside and they put us in a room and she was almost herself. (So of course I'm thinking I'm overreacting). When the vet examined her he said her symptoms seemed like low blood sugar. Her sugar was 78. Very low considering she'd already eaten and had some snacks. He thought there might be something wrong with her pancreas and wanted to do some research. In the meantime we brought her back home because the vet didn't really know what was going on.	12	Years	Spaniel (unspecified)	Dog	28	Pound

			We left the vet and by the time we got home she had relapsed. She couldn't even climb the back stairs. She drank a little water but refused all food. The best we were hoping for is that she would recover like last time – it might take a few days but she would progressively get better. (b) (6) she still would not eat and by this time she didn't want any water. I could see she was getting worse as wasn't going to make it. I called the vet because I didn't know what to do. There were some guesses at what might be wrong but nothing for sure. She died at (b) (6) Needless to say we have just been crushed because it was so unexpected and so quick. The weird thing was she had never had any health problems. She went from being a totally fine, normal, playful dog to being sick totally out of the blue.

EON-449489	1/9/2021 4:24	SPORTMiX CANINEX Beef meal and vegetable formula	Starting in September, we changed our dogs over to SPORTMiX brand CANINEX dog food. Around mid November, we noticed that our dogs were starting to act more lethargic than usual. We originally chalked it up to weather, and being in the house more due to the current lockdown rules. We did our best to keep them active, but on December 20th we decided to change the feeding schedule of the dogs, from twice a day at 1 cup each with other foods mixed in, to once a day at 2 cups of the kibble. There was a dramatic change in behavior, and the dogs became extremely lethargic, spending all day laying around and not wanting to get up and move around. On the 25th of December, one of the dogs began suffering from pain, that we could not diagnose. We initially tried to keep them eating and hydrated, but noticed that both dogs were unwilling to eat the dog food kibble. This raised a red flag, so we immediately stopped feeding it, and changed their diets. On the 26th we heard that some dog foods were being recalled, but on the 30th of December we found that it was actually the brand of dog food that we were feeding our dogs. During that time, we tried to get our dogs in to see a vet, but due to covid, we were unable to do this, and were told that if our dogs were diagnosed with toxic levels of aflatoxin the next step would be having them put down. We have noticed signs of jaundice, yellowing of the skin and eyes, but due to not being able to see a vet they have not been tested. We are concerned about cross contamination with other foods that this manufacturer produces.	8	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	90	Pound

EON-449452	1/8/2021 16:44	royal canin ultamino	My dog has been on Royal Canine Ultamino for many years and we feed him twice a day on it. We opened a brand new bag of the dog food and fed it to my dog for dinner that night and he suffered a seizure about 10 hours later. We took him to an emergency vet that morning. My dog has no history of seizures and prior to the seizure, he was a healthy playful dog. He became very lethargic going forward, suffered another seizure about two weeks later, and then another seizure about a week after the second seizure. The length of each seizure episode increased and the frequency of the seizure also increased and he was getting more lethargic. We finally suspect that it may be his new bag of food that may be the cause of the seizure as we watch him very carefully for weeks to make sure he isn't ingesting anything we are not aware of and nothing else changed in his life. We opened a new bag of the Royal Canine Ultamino and starting feeding him from that bag only, his seizure stopped. It has been about 3 months since we stopped feeding him from the first bag of ultamino kibbles and he hasn't had a seizure and he is playing again versus while he was on that bag he suffered from 3 seizures.within short amount of time.	9	Years	Terrier - West Highland White	Dog	20	Pound

I first notice the youngest female dog, also the least smallest one, became lethargy. They were eating the food for about four days before I've noticed the change in behavior. I woke up one morning to find her dead in the kennel with bloody discharge from her butt all over the kennel floor. Unaware that it might of have been the food that caused the death I continue to feed my other dogs the bag of food. A couple of days later the rest of my kennel followed suit and had the same symptoms. They all passed away in the same matter. I was able to bring one of the female, (b) (6) to the veterinarian clinic, however, her outlook was not good and she was euthanized. Natural Balance LID Lamb & Brown Rice dry dog food	On 12/21/2020 opened a new well shipped bag in good shape of Natural Balance LID Lamb & Brown Rice all breed dry dog food. Dog has been fed this for several years now along with another dry food Wellness dry. Also has been eating same Lamb & Brown Rice formula. Did not change meat or type. Almost right away, within couple days stools began get loose. Figured it was just an adjustment. Kept feeding it. Then stools turned into very severe mushy diarrhea by the time a week plus had passed. My dog also began to drink lots of water than before. Quit , stopped feeding it on 01/03/2021 after went pet store & bought a bag of Wellness dry. Within 2 days poo stools were normal. While still bit loose now occaisionly, poo is much better & no more diarrhea after stopping Natursl Balance. It was the dog food. Really liked this food for our dog. Disappointed will not be buying it agsin. Had my dog been eating only it, am sure dog would have gotten very sick and had a large bill & difficulty figuring out the issue. They have done something to this food, it causes severe diarrhea. I was sure it wasnt the food or would have stopped feeding it sooner. This really needs to be checked into. Thsnk goodness I knew what to do or our dog could have become very sick. Shame, it is hard to find dry food with grain now, guess Natural Balance will join those goods we never ever feed now. I just hope this isn't the beginning of a giant dry dog food recall like that of 2007, 2012 & 2013. Note: fed dog food starting 12/21/20 diarrhea within 2-3 days. Got worse, really bad, mushy. Stopped feeding on 01/03/21, within 2 days normal poo, o diarrhea. I did have add pumpkin to wet food, & probiotics. But it's is the Natural Balance Lamb & Rice dry that is bad. It's not the meat, this was a food & meat we relied on. We will find another one with grain.	7	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	50	Pound

When I got home, I opened the bag and poured it into a larger resealable bag as I normally do to keep my dogs food fresh. However after emptying the Purina One Smart Blend Small Bites Beef &amp; Rice Formula 8 lb bag into the resealable bag I noticed something that looked discolored and fuzzy. It was a huge chunk like a patty of moldy dog food. Gross! I am throughly disgusted and disappointed. I have been feeding my dog mostly Purina since she was a puppy almost 5 years now. I will not be purchasing Purina anymore. And will warn my family and friends as well. I don't think this food brand is safe. My only relief is that I saw this before feeding her any of this contaminated moldy food. My bigger concern is that we have recently had issues with my dog's digestive track with her having occasional bloody stools to the point that I took her to the vet with my concerns. I was advised to monitor the situation. Previously we have used other varieties of Purina such as the original green label and the most recently the Beneful Grain Free. I am horrified to think that any of the food I've been feeding her previously if anything like what I found today could have been making my dog sick. And unfortunately our pets don't have the ability to speak up and tell us if their food taste rotten or is making them feel sick. My dog will definitely not be feed any variety of Purina again. I don't want other animals to get sick from this food either. You should considering reviewing what is causing mold in your product and consider a recall if necessary. Would want to eat this? How about your kids or your pets? I think not. I am so over all the marketing gimmicks. The pet food industry really need to change and upgrade its standards. I am nauseated with disgust. Please see photos of mold and date/proof of purchase. Do NOT sell or share my information. I gave (b) (6) the bone that afternoon around 1pm, observed him beginning to chew on it, and attended to other household tasks while he enjoyed his favorite treat. I checked in, and noticed only tiny flecks of bone on the carpet, which is typical for (b) (6) when he is chewing on a knuckle bone. After he had it for about 30 minutes, I noticed there was blood on the bone (he had cut his gums/mouth while chewing) and had chewed away at nearly half of the bone. I did not notice any splinters, but kept an eye on him because I was concerned he may have ingested pieces and could have an upset stomach. For the afternoon and early evening, he showed no symptoms. After feeding (b) (6) at 6:30pm, he had diarrhea. At approximately 7:30pm, he began vomiting. He acted as if he was in pain so we rushed him to er vet at 1am. They recommended we see our primary vet as soon as they opened in the am. He was taken to our primary vet (b) (6) the next morning, 12-15-20. Our vet ran labs, urinalisis, did x-rays, started IV fluids, pushed charcoal, (b) (6) was kept at the vet for 3 days. Vet could only figure he may have eaten something he shouldn't have. But no impaction or objects were found. Poisons were ruled out. We had just switched out cat to sportmix cat good as we feed all 5 of our dogs that brand. After seeing the recall I am concerned that the food may have been why our cat almost died. We have since taken all sportmix feed out of our home, washed all contaminated objects and started everyone on a new feed. (b) (6) seemed to come around after about 12-22-20 and has since seemed fine. He does still drool occasionally but otherwise seems normal. After some time of chewing on it, I noticed a lot of shards on the floor and took them away from him. The next morning he was not quite right. He ate his dry food in the morning but by the afternoon had started to vomit. He would not eat after that. The 2nd morning, he had blood in his kennel. He then began to poop blood. He was taken to the emergency vet and they determined he was full of sharp shards from the bone. He stayed in the hospital for two nights and was treated for the shards in him. EON-448953	1/5/2021 10:04	SPORTMiX Wholesomes Large Breed with Chicken Meal & Rice Formula Adult Dry Dog Food 40-lb bag By SPORTMiX	We started feeding (b) (6) the Sportmix Wholesomes Large Dog Chicken & Rice in August. We ordered through Chewy and received a bag every 3-4 weeks for Aug, Sept, Oct. It became apparent late October, early November that our dog was very ill, in fact, near death; dropping from 100+ lbs to 88 at his worst. Early November, we switched back to original dog food (Eukanuba) thinking that would help. He was lethargic, had excessive vomiting that went on for 2-3 weeks, diarrhea, salivation (more than normal), loss of appetite. We had him at two different vet clinics and consulted with a third over the phone, never pin-pointing what it was. Thankfully, he managed to pull out of it. Last weekend, we found out about the recall and wanted to alert to the fact that our specific dog food was not listed, but we feel that was the cause of our dog's sudden illness.	1	Years	Bloodhound	Dog	110	Pound

She became lethargic & vomiting. She had extreme diarrhea. After getting the dog to the vet. The vet said she was poisoned. I have no cleaning products that are poisonous as I use organic cleaners. The dog had to remain at the animal hospital for 48 hours racking up a bill of over $2,000. She was put on IV treatments & anti/nausea medication & anti diarrhea medication. I continued to give her the prescriptions from vet & she was able to return to good health after about 2 months. The large dog (b) (6) at 85 pounds has a huge appetite. She consumed a much larger amount of the sports mix dog food. She become increasingly distressed & showed the same signs as the small dog. EON-448557	1/3/2021 21:36	Member's mark chicken jerky recipe	After 2 days of giving my dogs Member's Mark chicken jerky from sam's club I ran into problems. I have a 9 yr old rhodesian and a 6 month old pit bull. They each had 2 pieces a day and on the night of the 2nd day is when things went down hill. My 6 month pit started vomiting which he never has before and never had any reactions to anything. My 9 year old rhodesian ridgeback ended up having 2 grand mall seizures. Now these dogs have gotten into so many things and never had a reaction as they did that night. I had to rush my 9 year old rhodesian the er vet. And then a second vet due to the second seizure later in the morning This was the only new thing introduced to both of them. My 9 year old rhodesian is now on anti seizures meds and before was perfectly healthy with no health problems. These treats happened to be the only thing new and since stopping both dogs have improved and seem to be doing better. I can't afford to do more testing on my 9 year old rhodesian due to covid and the fact the test that need to be done are super expensive.	9	Years	Ridgeback - Rhodesian	Dog	94	Pound

EON-448540	1/3/2021 14:04	Forza10 Nutraceutic Renal act wet Feline Formula wet food for Adult Cats	October 2020 I began searching into other special renal diet food and decided upon Forza10 soft, ordering it from Chewy. (b) (6) took extremely well to it, the vomiting stopped completely, she became more active and was steadily gaining her weight back. I received a 2nd shipment in November and my 3rd shipment on December 22 and began using it until the evening of December 25 when we found several bloated containers in the new shipment, but I had already used 4 of the cans by that time, all which appeared normal and none of which caused me any alarm. I then examined the entire shipment and found several more bloated cans, I immediately emailed Chewy they advised to not use any more of the food and they immediately shipped a replacement package which I received Dec 28. But it was too late. (b) (6) began showing symptoms as early as (b) (6), but I did not associated it with the food. Morning of (b) (6)s when I realized she was had possible botulism poisoning. Her back legs were stiff and she stumbled, was limp and lethargic and not interested in eating. I called my vet but they were closed due to (b) (6) so I called another vet who said I should take her to the (b) (6) which I did and I told them of her history and the issue with the food. Due to Covid. I waited in the car/parking for word from the vet. I called them twice for an update and she had not yet been seen. (b) (6) sat in their cage for 3 hours, and no Dr had yet seen her. I was very angry thinking time was of the essences, so I went in, took her back and found another (b) (6) I even brought a can for a sample, but they ignored by concern of food poisoning too and said (b) (6) it was her Kidneys, but that didn't sound right to me considering her symptoms or account for her inability to use her back legs and being limp. I was angry that they ignored my initial suspicion, so I brought her home with an Sub Q IV bag and potassium that they gave me. I didn't know what else to do or where to go, so I brought her home and literally cared for her day and night, she was unable to stand on her own or lift her feet to even get in her littler box. I just hoped to get her into my vets 1st thing Saturday. (b) (6) steadily declined and died (b) (6) I emailed Chewy to tell them (b) (6) died and asked if they advised the manufacturer. I also went to the Forza10 website and began a live chat with Alice, she immediately asked if she could call me. We spoke and she was not aware of any notifications from Chewy, I was appalled. I gave her details and again emailed Chewy to call me, they emailed back saying they are looking into it. I want to have this food tested for botulism to prove she died from poisoning. How do I do that? How many more cans are out there. It was from Lot 3733 with an expiration date of 09/2023. Please can you help me to get this food tested. I am most upset with the 2 Vet's who dismissed my suspicion and want the evidence that (b) (6) died of Botulism.	18	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	12	Pound

(b) (6) was taken to her Veterinarian. At that time she was diagnosed with Pancreatitis and placed on medication and dietary requirements. She continued to not want to eat and we began to force feed can/wet food. We continued to follow Veterinarian instructions. On Monday December 28th she again threw up and was becoming more lethargic. Tuesday morning December 29th I noticed the whites of her eyes were jaundiced. Took her into the Veterinarian and lab work was done and it was determined she was in liver failure. With the advice of our Vet we began intense IV therapy to for 3 days to flush her system and she was put on Maintenance meds. Per our Veterinarian she felt this was probably due to Toxin/poisoning or possible Leptospirosis infection. She has been vaccinated for Leptospirosis. We could of done a liver biopsy, that would of delayed treatment. We opted to start treatment right away as our (b) (6) condition was grave. The Vet also started her on an antibiotic to cover in case of infection. Today, December 31st was her last day of IV flushing. Same date December 31st I read an article that Sportmix dog food had issued a recall on December 30th due to aflatoxin mold. I took him to regular vet and emergency vet, neither performed fecal samples, but once we did research we realized it was like salmonella poisoning from the food, or now reading other reports of recalled foods, that could be the issue. We did take back to the Petco we purchased from in (b) (6) because we had put the food into the storage container we keep food in and no longer had the original bag. EON-448303	12/31/2020 11:44	Rachel Ray Nutrish Chicken & Potato recipe grain-free	Because (b) (6) is now a senior canine and has trouble maintaining a healthy weight when consuming conventional dog food approved for "All Stages of Life," I switched him to Nutro chicken-based dry dog food for seniors around Fall of 2019. (b) (6) is not excited about the taste of the Nutro product, although it seems healthy for him and he digests it well. To increase his quality of life, I wanted to add flavor to his regular meals to make him happier and more eager to eat. My neighbor recommended Rachel Ray Dish Chicken dry dog food since his dogs have loved it, never had a problem with it, and it has visible vegetables in the food making it look and seem more healthy than other comparable dog foods. I sampled some of my neighbor's supply, then purchased some from my local Food Lion. (b) (6) loved it and had no adverse effects. As an experienced dog parent, I gradually added in the new type of food to reduce the chances of upsetting his stomach. Eventually (b) (6) was eating proportions of 50% Nutro dry food and 50% RRay dry food, and seemed very satisfied regularly. The most recent package of RRay Dish I ordered from Chewy, however, I believe made him sick. I cannot prove it. But the timeline lines up. When I opened the bag acquired from Chewy, he still ate eagerly but showed signs of stomach upset and lethargy between meals. I didn't suspect the new bag of food for several weeks. His symptoms kept getting gradually worse, until I finally suspected his diet. I quit the Nutro and Dish foods cold-turkey and fed him plain oatmeal with a hint of tuna for flavor for several days. He seemed fine while eating oatmeal. I also quit feeding him treats, because I wanted to rule out whatever was making him sick. After 3 or 4 days, I started adding just a tiny bit of dry food in with his oatmeal meals. His symptoms came back. I stopped serving him the Dish food completely and only used the Nutro. He was fine. So I felt like I isolated the Dish food as causing him to be sick. I assumed it was because the Dish food was indeed too salty and fatty for him and while very tasty, just was not a good choice for his health. I still have a partial bag of the food here at home but will not be feeding to him nor anyone else. I left a cautionary review on Chewy.com saying that the Dish food was not a match for my senior Boxer, and Chewy sought me out after the review and said I had not purchased that food from them in the first place. Chewy is incorrect, and I supplied my order number to them to prove that I did. I replied that I would not be doing that since it made my dog sick - I didn't want to make other dogs sick just in case it was a bad batch and not just that my individual dog did not tolerate it well. Well, here we are and I see the headline of Sportix food being recalled, and I wanted to share my story in case the same corn supplier for Sportix also supplied to Rachel Ray. Dog's symptoms: excessive salivating immediately following meals and throughout the the day on the worst days. Some vomiting. Lethargy. Maintained appetite, oddly. Demeanor was more needy that usual and wanted to rest a lot. Dish food info: Well, I see now the Dish food is grain free, so maybe it doesn't have the corn, but my story is still true, that my dog was ill on a timeline that matched up with starting this specific bag of food and ending this bag of food. Rachel Ray Nutrish Chicken &amp; Potato with veggies and fruit, grain-free recipe, 3.5 lbs, UPC: 071190001573. EON-448263	12/31/2020 2:08	Paw Love Happy Hoof	I purchased and fed each of my dogs a small size of this product yesterday. Within hours, they were vomiting multiple times, were severely dehydrated (they normally drink 1/2 to one small bowl of water a day, and after eating this treat, they went through three bowls of water), and this then affected their bladders and bowels. After cleaning up their puke, I looked on Target's website and was horrified to see that there were many other reviews that this product had made other dogs very sick as well, some even needing to be taken to the emergency vet. I got in contact with one of the other reviewers who's dog had to be taken to the vet yesterday from this product, and she said that she fed one to each of her two dogs, both of which got sick as well. Her larger dog vomited multiple times, but her pug was so sick that it had to be taken to the emergency vet because it had irritation in her lower intestine and it was hard for her to go to the bathroom. She also had a hard time sitting up and staying awake after eating the treat. I called Target this morning and spoke with someone who created a case for their Quality Assurance team to investigate this product and also emailed the company who makes the treats. I looked at the website again this evening and saw that yet another dog has gotten sick from this product, which makes 5 dogs ill in the last 48 hours of consuming this specific treat. According to the reviews on Target's website, this product has a history of making dogs very sick as far back as 6 months ago. This is clearly not an isolated incident nor an allergic reaction. Please please recall this product so that no more dogs are harmed. Unfortunately, I threw the wrapper out in the trash yesterday and couldn't find it in the dumpster after my dogs were sick. I have the actual treat left over and my Target receipt. Before purchasing the treats, I looked at multiple ones for an expiration date but couldn't find one on the packaging, so I assumed it was shelf stable/safe to give my dogs. This product is clearly toxic and should at the very least be pulled from shelves as a precaution while they are investigating the many reactions that this product has caused. Please read the other reviews on Target's website for this product and notice that the company has been aware of these severe reactions for the past 6 months. Here's the link to the product: https://www.target.com/p/paw-love-happy-hoof-peanut-butter-flavor-long-lasting-dog-treats-1ct/-/A-77400935. In case that website gets pulled, the product is called Paw Love Happy Hoof Peanut Butter Flavor Long Lasting Dog Treats. Here is the webpage for the product on the company who makes it: https://www.pawlovetreats.com/happyhooves. It seemed to come and go which was strange, but now looking back, it may not be all that strange. I go thru a 50# bag of dog food daily. About 2 weeks ago I started taking stool samples in to the vet thinking that there had to be something they would find, but the vet wasn't finding anything and recommended a different probiotic. This evening when I saw the report of the recall, I knew this diarrhea my dogs have been dealing with has got to be from the food, so I immediately grabbed the open bag and searched for the numbers on the bag. While this particular bag did not match the recall numbers, who is to say if yesterday's bag, the bag the day before or any of the bags in the last several weeks were not contaminated. Like I mentioned, I use a bag a day and purchase several at a time. I am putting a random date as I don't recall the exact date. I do know it started off and on around 8 weeks ago as 2 of my dogs were pregnant at the time and the puppies are now 6 weeks old.			Great Dane	Dog

EON-448014	12/28/2020 13:04	Real Dog Box Treats- especially the Turkey Wing	Real Dog Box is selling dog treats that are moldy, have been stored improperly, are processed unsafely, and are marketing their dog treats as 100% digestible and safe. One example of their products which has caused repeated problems is their air dried turkey wing which splinters and almost killed a pet owner's pet. When confronted with the problem the company said the onus was on the customer to decide how to feed their own dog, what to feed them, and how much and they took no responsibility for their products. However, their products are not safe since many owners have told the company of problems with the pet food/treats and noted that the company has no safety notifications, recommended sizes/servings on their treats and chews or website, information cards included with the box, etc. They are a danger to the safety and well being of pet's selling inedible and splintering treats which have caused health problems for pets. EON-447738	12/23/2020 23:24	Nutramax Dasuquin with MSM soft chews joint supplement for small to medium dogs under 60 pounds.	On the advice of (b) (6) vet, I ordered Nutramax Dasuquin with MSM soft chews from (b) (6) and received the package on November 18th. Lot number: 1000000199, Exp. 09/2022. I began giving him the joint supplement approximately on the 22nd of November. I started out giving him 2 a day based on his weight of 30 lbs for about one week and then cut it back to once a day for about 2 or 3 days. I stopped the product as he didn't show any interest in eating it and began showing a disinterest in eating around the 2nd of December. I thought he was just being picky because I quit putting hamburger in his food, and had been known to get that way at times. By the 4th of December I was having a difficult time getting him to eat his food regardless of my putting pumpkin, chicken or bacon in with his food. December 5th he started vomiting and it was mainly phlegm or stomach acid, so I thought he was vomiting due to just being hungry as he was not eating much. He then continued to vomit on the 6th and this time it was the chicken pieces he had eaten early in the day and vomited again on the 7th when I took him in to see the vet. The vet ran bloodwork and got the results back the next day and called me to tell me his liver enzymes were extremely high and his bilirubin was elevated. (b) (6) with (b) (6) suggested i rush him over to (b) (6) (b) (6) where I was able to get him in on an emergency visit and then was admitted to the hospital. They gave him fluids, appetite stimulants, antibiotics, anti-emetics, and did an ultrasound. The ultrasound only showed the liver was not smooth and did not show any tumors or signs of cancer. (b) (6) was there for 2 nights and then I had to pick him up due to financial reasons and was recommended I transfer him over to his vet to continue treatments. (b) (6) had not eaten at all while he was there. Tehy tried everything to get him to eat and he refused. They did run bloodwork that morning I picked him (10th of December) to check his values and said all his values were back to normal. When I picked him up from (b) (6) on the 10th, (b) (6) breathing was not good. I could hear what I can only describe as a rattle when he would breathe and his abdomen was very bloated. The intern had not noticed his breathing was like that before she released him nor did she say he had become bloated. I took him over to his regular vet and he was put on fluids and continued on meds for the afternoon. During the night (b) (6) was very restless, he was moving to places to be alone. By the morning, December 11th, he still would not eat and he was breathing so hard that his whole body rocked. He had become very weak, was starting to wobble when he walked and would not even lift his leg to pee, he just squatted. By 4:00 pm that afternoon I was taking (b) (6) back to the vet to be checked and (b) (6) felt it was time to end his suffering and euthanize him. Nothing that was being done was working and he was only getting worse.

EON-447558	12/21/2020 20:20	Turkey Wing & Pig Ear chew	I have my dog subscribed to a membership for single ingredients dried chews. He has been a subscriber for some time now but has always had adverse reactions to the Turkey Wings they give and the pig ears. A few times I had noticed him throwing up bone shards, even after observing his chew sessions and being diligent to pull it away if he consumes too much. I started just throwing the Turkey wings out, as I thought maybe it was just my dog reacting this way but I recently heard from others that they have experienced the same things. The company, Real Dog Box, expresses that the air dried bones do not break and shard to cause these adverse reactions but indeed they do. Along with the Turkey wing, I've experienced issues with the pig ears they sell, giving my dog severe diarrhea to the point I had to have the chew withheld from his subscription. I'm not sure what kind of business is going on there or how they are handling the food and what kind of experience and education they have but the information that they are providing is very misleading and hurting animals. Never reported it to the company and I threw the bag out. 1 separate problem-- Did not have adverse event - but believe it was dangerous and there should be adequate warning/no false advertising. 1) Turkey Wings - ordered from Real Dog Box Secret Shop These WERE advertised as a new item to the Real Dog Box "Secret Shop." Advertised as safe and fully digestible. I noticed that when (b) (6) would eat the turkey wing a million little sharp shards would begin to split off from the wing with each bite. He ate these very sharp shards, as it was my understanding from the company that the product was "safe." However, I now have learned that I am quite lucky, and that I could have wound up with him in the ER or worse. The advertising for these chews is unsafe. The product themselves are unsafe, and the instructions are misleading. The warnings are inadequate - as the company's only warning is to always monitor your dog, it says nothing regarding the sharpness of the shards breaking off from this chew. I am thankful to have not experienced an adverse event from this product but find it very unsafe that the company has now admitted to the product splintering, which it did not before, and that they have no plans to remove the product.	4	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	80	Pound

She had to have a nose tube placed to aspirate the fluid buildup in her abdomen. They ran blood work (which was normal) did an endoscopy that showed no blockage of a foreign body and also did an Ultrasound to see what they could find. They could not come up with any reason she would be having these issues. We decided to take her home and try a different diet. After just 2 weeks on an all natural food, she is doing 100 percent better and the symptoms are gone. I opted to buy some dog food supplement for dogs and cats from a company called Din O Vite, 101 Miller Dr. Crittenden, KY 41030 called Lick O Chops when I bought a box of Din O Vite dry dog meal booster. The first bottle of Lick O Chops had NO issues, but when I bought the 2nd two bottles from the same company our dog rolled inverted as if he was immediately poisoned. I have the two bottles here at my home that they provided me with and they have a number posted on them: 56252732001 I suspect it was made in China, but I cannot confirm this! Unlike the previous bottle that we had no problems with, these two were liquid that had a strong fishy smell emitting from them (Only opened one so far). After placing one teaspoon of this Lick O Chops on our dogs Royal Canin dog food bad things began to happen almost immediately! He had a bowel movement that was black and bloody (solid). Then he began to throw up blood out of his nose and mouth (real red blood/large amounts). Later when he threw up it was a watered down version, but still had blood in it. Our dog immediately stopped eating and then would only drink ice water and nothing else. I open a can of White Meat Chicken and Tune with Wild Rice and Spanish in broth for him for lunch on Saturday 12/19/2020 he went to his bowl sniffed took a few bites then did the scratch the floor around the bowl (his way of letting me know he does not like and won't eat) and walked away. I went to get the bowl with food to dispose the food when I took a closer look at it, I notice a lot of dark 1/2 to 1 cm want seem to be roach looking bugs after getting my magnifying glass I also notice around 1 cm white/cream looking worms. I open another can just to see if this was isolated to that 1 can but the other can had the same thing. My cat would not eat anything other then a few nipples of dry food after that but then I notice that he was not himself, he is a very active and playful cat but all he wanted to do is sleep he didn't want to play I also recorded how he just curled up and didn't want to play that's when I figured that he probably had a upset stomach from the few nipples of the wet food that had the bugs. I haven't taken him to vet because I just can't afford it as I am unemployed and struggling for my medical needs so I'm trying to keep him comfortable and hoping that this well pass and is not something more serious. I just think that this needs to be address had I not taken a closer look at the food I would have never seen the problem. I'm not sure what is going to happen with reporting this but I feel that this flavor of Fancy Feast needs to be taken off the shelf before someone's pet eats it and more serious complications or death happens. It's been over 24 hours and my cat is still not being himself and does not have any energy I started to give him PetAg CatSure Complete Meal Replacement Supplement to see if that will help him since he will not eat.

EON-447291	12/17/2020 21:36	Dick Van Patten's Natural Balance L.I.D. (Limited Ingredient Diets) Grain Free Duck & Potato Formula	Our dog has been consuming "Natural Balance, Limited Ingredient Diet, Duck &amp; Potato" dog food for several years. Upon opening the most recent bag purchased, we noticed the kibble appeared lighter in color (closer to a peanut butter color, rather than a dark brown color, like it has been in the past). What started as a looser consistency stool as a result of this bag of food, turned into diarrhea and vomiting yellow bile. We immediately took the dog to the veterinarian (on December 10, 2020), where the dog had blood work, x-ray, and stool and vomit samples checked for parasites. No parasites present, blood work looked good other than leaning toward dehydration due to loss of fluids. The vet determined it was gastroenteritis and possible pancreatitis caused by a probable bacteria that made the dog sick. The dog was treated with fluids, antibiotics, and probiotics; along with a specialized "Digestive Care" Prescription Diet dog food. Obviously, we have discontinued the use of the Natural Balance food. I contacted the local pet store where I purchased the food to inform them of our experience with this food. I also contacted the manufacturer for the same reason. The representative I spoke with said they had changed their formula this summer, and that they tried to label bags with the information, but that due to Covid19, not all bags were labeled. She said the only change was that duck was the first ingredient now, rather than potato. However, a change of formula with slightly more duck and slightly less potato would not account for this illness within the dog. According to their website, naturalbalanceinc.com, as well as labeling on their bags, the "Buy with Confidence" promise is that "Every production run is tested and results are posted on our website so that you can Buy with Confidence". The website directs customers to input the UPC and lot numbers, to which lab results are supposed to be generated. When I input the information, there was an error message that says: "Information entered does not match any of the reports in our system. Please check fields to make sure all information is entered correctly." (The information was entered correctly.) The representative said the company is in the process of "building the website" and that			Poodle - Standard	Dog

			at this time, lab results for this particular bag are not available. She said the batch of food was tested, and that she would have to contact the lab directly to obtain the results and email them to me. She said, ' If you even think you may want to pursue vet bills to be reimbursed, you'll have to submit a questionnaire, then your vet will have to fill out paperwork, sign it and send it directly to us with all medical records and history being released to us. We'll conduct a medical investigation on our own timeline and determine if it was an adverse response to the food." Rather than testing the remaining food in the bag to potentially identify the culprit, and save other dogs from suffering illness (or worse, death); Natural Balance is more concerned with declaring that it couldn't possibly be their food because it's tested... even though there is no available information that this batch was tested. It seems highly improbable that a company would be "building a website" to report lab results, when their packages have stated this system for years. I have no actual way of determining what is within the food. Due to the difference in color of the food, as well as my dog's symptoms and subsequent illness; I'm concerned this batch of food was potentially undercooked or mishandled and contains bacteria that sickened my dog.

When I got her in July of 2019 she was eating Ole Roy dog food and I was told it wasn't the best of foods so I did research and came to the understanding that Rachael Ray's Nutrish Chicken dog food (kibble) was one of the best so I got it. She's always been tricky to get to eat her food, she'd only eat when I would eat or when I was next to her. I tried (and failed) often to get her on an eating schedule but I just could not. Anyways, up until mid October she was doing amazing and that's when I noticed her lymph nodes being swollen. With covid I had lost my job and money was super tight so I figured she was acting normal and I wouldn't take her to the vet until she started acting different. A couple weeks ago I woke up and noticed her back legs were swollen, after some googling i discovered it was probably due to the lymph nodes. Over the past two months I also noticed some lumps and I assumed it was maybe because she was obese (again, money is tight and she wasn't acting different so I took a chance on not going to the vet). I took her to the vet and they told me it was most likely lymphoma but I cannot afford to get her tested, let alone treated. But she has most of the symptoms and is getting worse and worse every day. I was doing research today when I found out that this dog food is linked to containing glyphosate that is linked to cancer in the lymf nodes. I don't know if she is sick because of this dog food but she's 4 (turns 5 on dec 21, 2020) and has been healthy up until a couple months ago and it seems to be linked.	5	Years	Crossbred Canine/dog	Dog	74	Pound

I just ordered 6 large bags of this product approximately 2-3 weeks ago (so not all bags have been used) and received no notification that this product would no longer be available. EON-446804	12/11/2020 9:56	Purina Pro Plan Adult Giant Breed Chicken and Rice formula	On 11/5/20 began feeding Purina Pro Plan Giant Breed dry kibble in three 2 cup meals per day. Diet prior to this was Royal Canin Great Dane Adult. (b) (6) is also fed 3 tablespoons per day of Purina One Smart Blend Tender Cuts canned wet food of various flavors; has had this daily for 1 year. On 11/18/20 began bag #2 of the Pro Plan Giant Breed kibble. On 11/20/20 (b) (6) developed interdigital redness, warmth, and swelling of both rear paws. On 11/21/20, she developed one 1 cm interdigital raw spot on the right rear paw. Paws were washed with mild soap and water, dried well, and wrapped overnight to prevent licking. On 11/23/20 redness was worsening, raw areas were now dime sized and appearing between multiple toes on the rear paws and weeping yellow thick fluid. Cleaned and kept paws dry, (b) (6) was seen at (b) (6) 11/25/20 and treated with daily epsom salt soaks and Cephalexin 500mg BID x10 days for bacterial skin infection possibly related to diet change. During antibiotic course, there was a delivery delay and (b) (6) was fed the closest formula we could find in short notice: Purina One Smart Blend Large Breed dry kibble. Skin breakdown and redness resolved by end of antibiotic course. On 12/6/20, (b) (6) began eating bag #3 of Pro Plan Giant Breed formula. On 12/7/20 noted redness between right rear toes was reappearing. On 12/9/20 there was redness between all rear toes and pads. On 12/11/20 there are interdigital raw spots developing. Noted a mild behavioral change while on the pro plan; (b) (6) sleeps more hours per day, is less tolerant of other dogs attempts to play, seems generally irritable. This behavior resolved while on the temporary One Smart Blend formula and returned when back on the Pro Plan formula. 5 minute daily epsom salt soaks of rear feet have been continued since 11/25/20.	3	Years	Great Dane	Dog	112	Pound

All four dogs began a grain-free diet from the brand: Taste of the Wild on January 2018. During this time, (b) (6) was in excellent health with regular eating/drinking/exercise habits. By August 2018, she developed a wheezing type of cough and would not catch her breath. Our vet determined her heart was failing and prescribed her medicine. Our vet never mentioned the possibility of a grain free diet causing heart problems. We continued to feed her Taste of the Wild grain free products. The medicine allowed her heart and breathing to continue decently for three months until higher medication/surgical requirements were needed. We decided to put her to sleep with no resolving options, as the surgical option did not guarantee much time. We believe her heart failure is caused by a grain free diet that was promoted by the brand as healthy. She was a terrier that was not overweight and should not have gotten heart problems. During her time on medication, she was in good spirits and ate/drank normally. If we had known that grain-free diets could cause an issue, we would have also switched her food during the last three months as well.	12	Years	Terrier - Cairn	Dog	15	Pound

Mind you, she grew up on this food. I noticed a shift in her reaction to this food almost 2 years ago. It was hard to believe this food could cause any problem. But the more I became aware that there was a connection between her digestive and illuminative problems and the natural balance diet I grew suspicious. Eventually I searched about the products. I found there was a recall on only one batch which happened to be her favorite flavor. I reached out to the distributor and was told that for sure it was not the batch of food I had purchased. I am in utter disbelief. She had every symptom on the list of the recalled item except death. I believe she was close to death as blood was coming out of her and she looked so weak and wiry. I put her on a diet that the vet gave us. It was better but that was not perfect either. But as soon as she seem to feel better I went back to giving her a little bit of her regular food. That is win without a doubt I know the natural balance products were poisonous to her. Immediately within a few minutes after eating she went into the throes of the sickness again. I thought I was going to lose her. It was not just one particular batch. It was not wet or dry it was both. Both the indoor formula and the wet food seem to be more harmful than the dry food. The recall list and there is an excess of chlorine chloride in the one particular batch. I'm concerned that there's too much chlorine chloride or something of the kind in all of their products. I've spent lots of energy and time working with my vet and other vets to help my cat begin to heal from the devastated state she was in after being given this food for so long. I hope somehow that you launch an investigation to find out whether there is an excess of some certain element in this product that could cause this deathly type of gastrointestinal devastation. I have a particular batch and I will submit that information. It's the only food left of this kind in my house. It was deep and almost sounded like a hack/choking sound (although he hadn't eaten or had food or water prior to the cough). He also became lethargic and would stare off, or stare at a wall for periods of time, and would sometimes lick the walls after we would try to get his attention from his lethargic spells. He had a severe loss of energy and severe exercise intolerance in the last three years of his life. His "fatty tumors" as the vet had called them (which had been biopsied and sampled through puncture procedures several times) grew at an alarming rate (in his last three years) and caused him pain to where we had to have them surgically removed. My husband ran to his aid, held him up, and noticed that he was extremely lethargic and unable to stand without help. After a few minutes, (b) (6) wagged his tail and started walking again, so my husband brought him upstairs and we had made the decision that we would call the vet first thing in the morning because he was able to walk, drink some water, and seemed alert and oriented again (and by that time it was around midnight and our vet was closed). The next morning we called the vet as soon as they opened, explained to them what had happened, and scheduled an appointment at the earliest time that they could fit us in. The earliest appointment was after lunch, so the entire morning we kept him and our other dog within reach so that we could watch them carefully for any signs of discomfort, lethargy, or pain. (b) (6) ate some breakfast and drank some water, but had no energy to do anything and lost his appetite for anything. He stopped wagging his tail and became very sulky and wouldn't leave his bed. His breathing also became very labored and loud. My husband helped him up and we cleaned him the best we could and drove to the vet (which is only a few blocks away from our house). He could barely hold his head up to breathe, so I held it up as we drove the few blocks to the vet. When we got there my husband had to help hold him up several times because he didn't have much strength. The vet examined him and determined that (b) (6) was suffering from a heart attack. The vet said the signs included: cold ears, faint heart beat, labored and shallow breathing, lethargy, loss of bodily functions, weakness, and inability to stand. After many attempts to bring this to their attention, I just stopped buying from them because my efforts were futile. In 2020, I have only placed 2 orders &amp; once more, all of the tins of food are heavily dented. So, for the 3 years that I was a Customer, they have failed to remedy this. The problem is not the transit of goods, the problem is somewhere within their warehouse or they are simply selling dangerous/discarded items at the point of manufacture, at premium prices. Each review I have made regarding this issue has been withheld by chewy.com, so I can not even warn the public in the form of review. The food I specifically purchased is Purina One SmartBlend &amp; Purina One TrueInstinct. At this point, I am also reporting Purina One as well as chewy.com because this could be happening from their manufacturing point &amp; then they are selling the damaged goods to chewy.com. I really do not know who is at fault &amp; dearly wish this to be investigated. As mentioned, I have attempted many times to bring this to their attention but 3 years later it is still an ongoing issue. I can not offer batch numbers because it has happened to every single one of my orders that I've placed in the last 3 years. My orders are normally shipped from the chewy.com warehouse in Florida.

I took him in this morning and they examined him, took x-rays, and gave him supplemental fluids. The vet (b) (6) at Adobe Animal Hospital in (b) (6) could not find anything wrong with him. Concurrently, I was in contact with a daughter about (b) (6) problem. She stated that her cats had been throwing up like that for a couple of days. She narrowed down her problem to a container of cat treats (Temptations Seafood Medley Flavor) that she had just begun giving them. She stopped giving them that product and they got better within 24 hours. Coincidentally, I had also purchased and begun giving my cat a similar product from the same company--Temptations MixUps. The number one ingredient in both of our products is chicken by-products. I have since stopped giving my cat these treats. He seems better now. I have, however, run up a $591.07 dollar bill at the vet's. I have also contacted the company I purchased this from, Amazon. They stated that they would file a report with the manufacturer, (b) (6) I feel that the coincidence of three pets (my daughter's two cats and my one cat) having the same reaction--throwing up--is too close to be an accident. Our cats' illnesses was caused by their being fed the Temptations cat treats. EON-445560	11/25/2020 15:32	Adored Beast Apothecary Jump for Joynts Combination Homeopathic Support	I purchased "Jump for Joynts" for twice. I tasted the liquid joint supplement for my 13 yrs Labrador if he would like a taste. It was sweet taste but in 2nd bottle, I noticed that he seemed not to like it so I tried a bit and the taste was like bitter. So I talked with Kaplan Hollywood, who is product and customer success specialist from Adored Beast (this company sells a product). First, she says "... I do need to ask if you live in the US or Canada because our formulations are different in the Us and Canada. Canada used an alcohol base, the US a glycerin base so it is possible that if we were out of stock in one country, we may have shipped some to ensure we did not run out." She asked me about the store I purchased, lot # and shelf date so I reply all info I checked the label but it says "Glycerin" I stopped to give it to my dog because he is very sensitive to foods and he had a little diarrhea. A few days later she e-mail back to me with following explanation; " I was informed that the Jump for Joynts you purchased was a Canadian formulation that uses an alcohol base as the tincture as opposed to glycerine, my office confirmed the lot#. There is nothing wrong with the product itself. In the US our tincture company uses glycerine, in Canada, alcohol. There are occasions where our US company can't get enough product out, so we send our Canadian alcohol-based Jump for Joynts to the US. There is no need for us to test, my apologies for any confusion or concern but I didn't receive instruction from my head office until yesterday afternoon, after I'd made the call to return the bottle. We're very familiar with (b) (6) they are an amazing store and I'm so happy to hear you deal with them.... very knowledgeable staff! I'll give (b) (6) a call later today (it's not quite 9am here in Toronto, Canada and I'm sure they are not yet open) and ask him to please give you a replacement bottle off their shelf. In Canada, we have a shelf life date of 4 years on the bottom of the bottle, in the US we don't have to list a date as they realize homeopathic tinctures do not go bad so if you prefer the glycerine base, please have them check for that when they give you a replacement. I'll make sure they're aware of that info as well."

He then relapsed and had to take a trip to the ER. He's on meds and on the mend, but I will not use this commercial food again. He has a follow up visit with the specialist to discuss the issue, and determine what food he will receive moving forward. I contacted Chewy and they had not been made aware of the issue or formula change from Royal Canin. I contacted Royal Canin and initially they insisted there were no changes, however when I let them know I had both bags and the ingredients listed and let them know the changes I noted they finally admitted that yes they'd had to make some changes but they thought they were minor and needed no notification. They then said that for sensitive dogs they would advise introducing the new formula slowly. I reminded them that they'd not provided notification to do so and that it was nearly impossible given the distributors were not notified and that they were not coordinating the delivery of product at the distribution level. I reminded Royal Canin that this is not just regular dog food, this is prescription dog food and the food is prescribed for dogs with sensitive stomach and GI issues. As a manufacturer producing food that requires my vet to provide a prescription to obtain they should have provided vets, distributors and consumers with the details of the changes and time to move these dogs to the new food. I belong to a group of folks who have dogs with IBD, and there are a number of dogs having very adverse reactions to the new Royal Canin prescription formulas. Some dogs have been hospitalized. I'd expect that there would be more oversight into these products and suspect that these companies are running into supply chain issues as a result of COVID and reformulating product to accommodate these shortages. This is unacceptable to do without properly notifying the consumers.	8	Years	Doberman Pinscher	Dog	187	Pound

EON-445424	11/24/2020 10:28	Fromm Lamb & Lentil, Acana Lamb & Apple, Sojos Lamb	My dog was brought into the (b) (6) for impacted anal glands on Oct 15th, 2020. During that visit, I also discussed with the vet that in early Spring around March there seemed to be a decline in energy. He often accompanied me on 3-mile runs and in March 2020 he began to stop a mile into the run and would be panting heavily for such a short run in cool temps. He also lost his drive to go and often just stayed home. He was approaching 7 years old at that time so I figured it was due to age and possible arthritis. During this visit, they had an orthopedic review of his joints and found very minimal arthritis and did not feel it was enough to contribute to his lack of interest and desire to run. The (b) (6) has always made nutrition analysis a part of his visits and indicated the link of DCM with certain food brands and recommended a switch in food until the study is complete. Since we got (b) (6) as a puppy he has been on a mixture of one bag Fromm and one bag Acana/Orijen rotating the proteins each purchase. They have all be purchased and tracked by Chuck & Dons, I have the last 18 months in my phone as I tracked to ensure protein rotation. Reading up on DCM I am sick to my stomach as my dog sits at my feet and I can hear heavy breathing. In trying to do the best for him I may have been slowly killing him. He has not had an X-ray to his heart but after reading symptoms posted on the FDA cases, I feel as though he may have early DCM signs. Please reach out if you think it would be helpful for (b) (6) to go in for further testing to potentially help other dogs. I only offer this since up until yesterday November 24th, he was on two of the brands that have been frequently mentioned and is a male, older dog which seems to be most likely to have issues.	7	Years	Ridgeback - Rhodesian	Dog	90	Pound

One night immediately after eating, both of my cats (the other one is healthy) vomited. I also took pictures of the plastic pieces that I found in the cans and am happy to send them as well. The lot numbers of the affected cans are 93291161 L386042 1634 and 98291161 L486042 1636 and the expiration date is Nov 2021. I have returned them to Chewy and also contacted the manufacturer (Merrick/Whole Earth Farms). Today I bought the same canned food from a local Petco store (in (b) (6) hoping that the issue just concerned those two lots. But this time, the cans had small white (like ceramic) pieces in them and my cat ate it until he (and then I) noticed and ran away from the food again. The lot number is 93291161 L386042 1540 and the expiration date is Nov. 2021. I started feeding my cat this food because it is very low in phosphorus, according to the manufacturer, and cats with chronic kidney disease require this type of food. On (b) (6) I took her to my Vet's office: (b) (6) (b) (6) After a chest x-ray, (b) (6) as diagnosed with DCM. (b) (6) was given Enalapril Maleate 2.5mg tablets, to make it easier for her heart to pump. The paperwork sent home with us stated that the FDA has linked grain free food with the development of Dilated Cardiomyopathy, and to stop feeding grain free food immediately. (b) (6) continued struggling to breathe, and at (b) (6) DIED. I have 2 other dogs that now show symptoms of DCM, that I noticed, but did not relate to the food I was feeding them. EON-444979	11/17/2020 22:40	Butchets Bones	I am writing this to inform people about something that happen to my dog (b) (6) I went to Tops market on Saturday this last week end and purchased a dog bone for her. She ate the ends off the bone and was throwing up all night Saturday. (b) (6) ended up in the emergency room with a blockage in her small intestines. It almost killed her. She had surgery and is recovering now. (b) (6) has had these exact bones before and I never had any problem with them. They are made for dogs. I also never thought that a bone would almost kill my dog. Please if you love your dog never give them any kind of bones or you could also have a very sick dog and a huge vet bill.	10	Years	Terrier - Boston	Dog	25	Pound

EON-444977	11/17/2020 22:12	Health Bars Baked with Apples & Yogurt	I typically buy the Blue Buffalo Health Bars baked with pumpkin. The label states "NO Meat and Bone meal" and the ingredients confirms this. I went to but these from an online retailer but was out of stock but saw the same things baked with apples and yogurt. The photos did not show the ingredients but picture of packaging stated "NO Meat and Bone Meal" so bought them because I new the pumpkin was safe. I bought the 3 pound box. (b) (6) started having very bad diarrhea. I had to look at what had changed to see what triggering it. The only thing new was the treats so I pulled the box out. 4 places on the box had in large bold print "NO Meat and bone meal, BHA Wheat". One would think that would mean it does not contain meat meal. I think looked at the ingredients and the 5th ingredient is "Chicken Meal" and a few later was "Chicken Fat". That is why (b) (6) had started having diarrhea. Granted I should have triple checked the ingredients before feeding her and that is my fault but when you clearly see on the box that it states no meal products you would be safe. I called the manufacture because their label is clearly false and at a minimum misleading. I am just lucky she isn't anaphylactic. Granted it has caused a flare up of her IBD and now I have to get that back under control. I am seeing her vet internist tomorrow (11/18/2020). They manufacture did not seem alarmed or concerned and said they would send the complaint to there quality department. I asked to be informed what their corrective action is and they told me it is not standard practice to communicate back to the customer. I was furious so went to go check out their website. I pulled up the specific product and in clear letters "True Blue Promise - Formuated with the finest natural ingredients *no Chicken (or Poultry) By-product meals *no corn, wheat or soy; * No artificial flavors or preservatives" You then click on ingredients and it says "Oatmeal, Oat Flour, Barley, Rye, Chicken Meal, Apples, Yogurt, Dried egg product, flaxseed, chicken fat.....". Obviously they are not true to their promises and should be made to correct their packaging so that it properly represents what the product contains/represents. I went to their Chewy page to see reviews. The very first one is from 11/1/2020 "Allergy Alert" this review is giving readers a heads up because it is represented as poultry free and free of poultry by products when the 4th ingredient is chicken meal. Her dog instantly started getting sick and that is when she back tracked and realized the same thing I did so I am not the first person to run into this issue. Shame on me for not doing better research prior to buying but more shame on the manufacture for misleading and mislabeling their product. Per your Pet Food Regulations " Pet food labeling may not be false or misleading in any particular". This manufacture has clearly falsified their labeling and in the process at least two pets have had adverse effects. The manufacture should apologize for their wrong doing, correct their labeling and update their promise because it is not being kept. I have pictures of all the packaging and a screen shot of their website that shows their promise and then right under it the ingredients that doesn't meet that promise. Thankfully my dog will be OK but the next one might not be so lucky.	2	Years	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	51	Pound

After that, she developed a cough that was initially diagnosed as kennel cough by the walk-in vet and meds were given to treat that. Her condition worsened. She was very restless at night and her breathing was shallow and rapid. The decision was made to take her to emergency care. After tests and x-rays, she was put on oxygen and iv diuretics because her lungs were filled with fluid. Her x-rays showed that her heart is enlarged and she was diagnosed with congestive heart failure and kept for 3 days so she could be stabilized. We were devastated. After she was well enough to return home, an appointment with the cardiologist was made and we were able to get in quite quickly, which we are very thankful for. An echocardiogram (heart ultrasound) was performed and (b) (6) received a diagnosis of Nutritional Dilated Cardiomyopathy (n-DCM). She continued to have some issue for another day or two as well. This happened twice to my dog and both times the only common denominator was the treats. I also noticed the treats were specifically in her vomit. My dog does not have issues like this normally. She is almost 6 years old and has never had that happen before. This happened primarily 2 nights and both nights I had given her these specific treats. I had not given her these specific treats on any other nights. I immediately got up and found her in a puddle of mucus, blood, and diarrhea. I then rushed her to the closest emergency vet clinic (it was around 2am). She continued to vomit and pass blood for a couple of hours. The emergency vet wasn't sure what was wrong and got her stable enough (on IV fluids and medication to help control her bowels and nausea) to make it until our regular vets office opened. They took her off the IV and gave her subcutaneous fluids. I brought her home around 7am. She was exhausted but seemed stable. I made her eggs but she was uninterested. After about an hour of being home she went into another episode. I rushed her to our regular vet and they saw her immediately. I left her there for the day so they could evaluate her and run labs. Everything came back inconclusive. They recommended a highly monitored and bland diet then to slowly transitioning her back onto kibble. At that point I changed the food brand. We went to the cardiology appointment today (about 3 weeks after our initial vet appointment) and were advised that Simon now has Dilated Cardio Myopathy AND Congestive Heart Failure. A severe case that requires hospitalization and life long meds. (b) (6) presented to (b) (6) on 10/29/20 for spay surgery. A physical exam revealed slight opaque discharge from the left eye, mild periocular alopecia of the right eye, and mild dental disease. She was sedated with TTDex for diagnostics. A chemistry revealed decreased GLOB (1.7 g/dL). A CBC revealed elevated PCT (0.13%) and PDWc (39.6%) with decreased HCT (34.92%), MCV (55fL), and PLT (135 10^9/L). A PT/PTT=16.7s/121.9s and PCV/TS=40%/7 g/dL were also noted. An ECG revealed an axis shift. She was intubated due to deep sedation and was maintained on oxygen and 0.5% isoflurane. She became bradycardic (55-60 bpm) so she received a partial dose of antisedan. This brought her too light, so a dose of propofol was administered. Thoracic radiographs revealed cardiomegaly and a mild diffuse bronchointerstitial pattern. Surgery was postponed, her anesthetic gas was discontinued, and recovery was uneventful. She received a SQ Cytopoint injection. A cardiac consult was recommended prior to further anesthesia and she was sent home for monitoring. Currently, (b) (6) continues to do well clinically. Her respiratory rate and effort remain normal and no coughing, wheezing, fainting, or collapse have been noted. She will pant for a prolonged period of time after exercise or excitement but no recent changes have been noted. On July 10, 2019 while travelling in the back seat of our truck (b) (6) gave a big sigh. And died.  I am greatly disappointed that in February, 2019, when (b) (6) had her annual vaccinations, our vet (b) (6) Marshall Veterinary Hospital, (b) (6) had noticed a heart murmur but didn't investigate it any further. After her examination, she reported her initial diagnosis of Dilated Cardiomyopathy. As we further discussed his condition and added that his diet had been all grain-free food that we believed to be of the highest quality, she became more concerned that he had perhaps suffered Nutritional DCM. She advised us to make an immediate emergency appointment for him with an out-of-county cardiologist for further treatment. As she helped us in doing so, she was called back into the exam room where she found our (b) (6) in the process of dying. She returned to advise us of his status, and with great sadness, we asked her to help him along that path so that he would not suffer unnecessarily. He was drinking more water, had a dried out nose, panting, and would tire out from walks much quicker than before. We associated this with age, and didn't feel too concerned as these things were all mild changes. Last weekend, 10/24/20, (b) (6) was chasing his ball and collapsed. He wobbled, then fainted and fell completely out of consciousness. We rushed him to the vet where he was able to be revived but he had a second episode while there. After testing at our local veterinarians office and a visit to the ER, he was diagnosed with Syncope and DCM. His case was fairly mild and was thought to be diet related as Zignature has legumes, and potatoes in it. We were strongly urged to report this case as a diet related incident. He seemed better except for having diarrhea throughout the day. He ate another cup at 4pm and vomited at 7pm. Still had diarrhea all day and evening. During this day I twice offered him the Blue Buffalo dog food and he flat out refused it. Early morning of Friday October 2 I did not feed him. I took him out. He had diarrhea several times. He was not feeling well. He drank some water and vomited within a few minutes. At 6 am I prepared to take him to an emergency vet clinic. We arrived at about 7:30 am. I suspected He was becoming dehydrated and probably was having an attack of pancreatitis, which he's had before. Nothing specific was found. He was treated for symptoms, vomiting and diarrhea, and prescribed a special dog food which he is still on. Royal Canin veterinary gastrointestinal low fat. I am careful about what I feed him so as to not make him have a digestive issue. He was doing very well on this BB food.	4	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	75	Pound

Pet Solutions by Petcurean	(b) (6) began to show signs of shortness of breathe after swimming so we had him examined by our vet where they then x-rayed his lungs and found them to be filled with fluid. They diagnosed him with pneumonia and discharged him with antibiotics. On week two of administering the antibiotics (b) (6) again began to show signs of distress and shortness of breathe. We took him into the vet again where his diagnosis for pneumonia was changed to dilated cardiomyopathy. He has been on a grain free kibble all of his life with the exception of when we was a puppy up to 4 months old. Our breeder has informed us that there are no signs of dilated cardiomyopathy in his blood line. The consensus between out vets and cardiologist is that his condition was most likely caused by his diet.	3.5	Years	Shepherd Dog - German	Dog	170	Pound

About 1.5 months ago, (b) (6) started to have some soft poop that then fluctuated between normal to diarrhea. A fecal was taken to RDVM and he was diagnosed with C. diff. He was given an antibiotic and dewormer. His signs seemed to be improved on the medication (Metronidazole, Endosorb, Sulfasalazine, Drontal), but worsened again once he was finished. Retrospectively, both owners feel that he was gradually progressively worsening with lethargy and overall poor activity levels. However, he still maintained a decent appetite. Owners left town about 1 week ago. They also retrospectively feel that his appetite was slightly decreased the week before they left town. (b) (6) stayed with their niece while they were gone. Besides switching up flavors, it was the exact same food- Indoor Adult. Never had any issues with the food before. Got a new large bag of food, and within weeks- I had found him passed away. He showed NO symptoms of being sick. He acted like his normal self. It was a complete shock to find him dead. Completely traumatized me. The new bag of food is the ONLY thing new that was introduced to him. He has no access to anything toxic or unsafe. The only reason I suspected the food was I had found 2 very small piles of vomit- it was such small amounts, maybe 1.5in x 1.5 in for each pile. The vomit was not bloody, or foamy or anything abnormal to indicate sickness. As sometimes cats just vomit. And it was such a small amount and there was only 2 piles of vomit. He did not frequently urinate, he did not feel feverish, he did not meow or howl in pain. However, the day I found him dead- I found a drop of blood right outside his litter box, along with a big wet spot right by the door to his litter box. And then I found a small pile of what appears to be blood just below where he had died. NONE of the blood spots or wet spot was there prior. Otherwise I would obviously have rushed him to the emergency vet. I sent him in for a necropsy, which took 3 weeks for results to come in. They put his official cause of death as a severe E. Coli infection and the effects of bacteremia sepsis. But the cause of this severe fatal problem is not apparent. There is 100% NO WAY he could have gotten E. Coli from anything else. It must have come from the food. I was told to have it reported and tested. I asked my state health department how to test for E. Coli in my home and was told there is nobody that tests for it, and that E. Coli is only found in food or water. But it was determined the water is safe, otherwise me, my boyfriend, and dog would have also gotten sick and that the only place he could have gotten E. Coli is from the food.	4	Years	American Shorthair	Cat	13	Pound

Within an hour or two her mouth and muzzle began to have an allergic rash where she had touched the treat and in the morning it was worse so we called her Reg Vet, (b) (6) and got a prescription for Benadryl and an appointment with her vet for Friday. Thursday morning however her throat was swelling up and her lymph nodes were inflamed and her face was even more inflamed. We brought her to Emergency Vet on Thurs and then regular vet on Friday and back to Emergency Vet Sunday because her throat was swelling up and her face was more inflamed. She had no skin issues or rashes or health issues before touching this treat and getting some on her mouth. Her throat swelled up extensively and her skin got so inflamed from the triggered allergic auto immune reaction (caused Puppy strangles, hair loss and bleeding pus filled blisters on her mouth and inside her neck) to the Green lipped mussel treat. We are also is following up with her regular vet. She is taking steroids and antibiotics and cream and a probiotic and benadryl. She is only a baby so this has been really hard on her and all of us. Steroids are not to be taken lightly and her vet had hoped she did not need them but she did and we are tapering her off them now per dr orders as they seem to be making her excessively thirsty and hyper. I have heard from some very respected people in the animal community there may be something going on with the manufacturing or processing of the New Zealand green lipped mussels causing reactions, maybe a toxin or something else? An animal advocate and animal trainer in my network who regularly uses Green lipped mussels with her dogs says she has heard of a few cases recently. I don't know, all I know is that my sweet puppy had a very very scary thing happen as a result of exposure to whatever in that treat and I would feel really sad if another animal was harmed by this toxin or whatever is going on. I will email or text photos as well if you like. I had contacted the store and the manufacturer. The store has been wonderful and	13	Weeks	Chihuahua	Dog	4	Pound wanting to be updated regarding her recovery and so they can watch out for products that might be harmful, they are a well respected and good pet food store called (b) (6) (b) (6) and we love them. The Manufacturer, Northwest Naturals (from Portland, under name Morasch Meats Inc. ) on the other hand was pretty dismissive about it. I am concerned about the reaction my dog had and possible other dog reactions as well as possible long term side effects of the steroid therapy on my puppy. She was 2.3 lbs and has almost doubled in weight since starting the treatments which is really concerning in that as well ,but Luckily we went back to the emergency vet last weekend as she was in such pain and the steroids were necessary at that point. She is starting to regrow new hair so far on her face but it is going to take months for it to grow back if it totally does and we still have to wait to see how she is healing to get her second round of puppy shots which means we are still unable to go anywhere safely for walks etc. We are awaiting doing an allergy panel as the vet isnt completely convinced it is a shellfish allergy but possibly a reaction to the toxin in the processing of the mussels or how they are freeze drying them.

I took a picture of it as well as the information on the bottom of the can and put it in my refrigerator in a plastic bag. I usually purchase it as Fry's or Safeway in (b) (6) but both stores have been out of it, so I ordered 24 cans on Amazon. These cans were delivered on October 2, 2020. I am not absolutely sure which of the three places I purchased this, but it hasn't been more than 6 weeks for certain. I always put the latest food in front on the shelf, so I am pretty sure this can was from Amazon. I have three unopened cans with the same numbers on the bottom as the one that has black food. I also have one partially used can with the same numbers which is obviously fine because I fed some of it to my cats yesterday. The bottom of the can reads as follows:  BEST BY JUN 2021 91611160L11660301

Suspected to be hypothyroid and was started on levothyroxine. (b) (6) also tested positive for Lyme and was started on doxy. Shortly after starting medications Willie began vomiting and coughing. Medications were stopped for a short period of time and owner was instructed to feed a bland diet. (b) (6) cough progressed and was now having trouble breathing. Owner brought (b) (6) back to the rdvm who performed an echo and ECG and suspected DCM. (b) (6) was referred to Tufts for further work-up. Diet: Always fed a grain free diet. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Given the long term grain free diet, diet associated cardiomyopathy is possible, although primary DCM (or a combination) is also possible. If the owners are able, it would be ideal to submit whole blood and plasma taurine. We recommend supplementing with taurine (1000mg PO BID) while that test is pending (after the blood is pulled). Ideally we recommend the patient be admitted to the hospital for CHF management at least overnight. If the owners are unable to admit the patient we would recommend starting therapy with furosmide (100mg PO BID, adjustments may be necessary pending RR and appetite at home) and pimobendan (12.5mg PO BID). As long as the renal values (and blood pressure) permit, the patient should also be started on an ACE inhibitor. However, the patient was sedated, and is hypotensive today on exam based on the MR gradient, so we would not recommend starting the enalapril today or during hospitalization. If the patient stays in the hospital, we would start the pimobendan as soon as possible, and give 2mg/kg lasix IV q 8-12h hours pending clinical improvement (we gave 100mg during the exam). If hospitalized, the patient should be monitored on telemetry overnight, to watch for ventricular arrhythmias. The diet should be changed to a low sodium diet and without lentils, peas and sweet potatoe in the first 8-10 ingredients. We would consider rechecking a thyroid panel once the patient has recovered, prior to resuming therapy for hypothyroidism (to r/o euthyroid sick). Recheck bloodwork daily during hospitalization in 1-2 weeks. Recheck echocardiogram in 3-4 months or sooner if the patient develops shortness of breath, collapse, exercise intolerance or cough.	8.6	Years	Coonhound - Redbone	Dog	43.8	Kilogram

EON-442718	10/21/2020 21:04	Nature's Recipe Easy to Digest Chicken Meal Rice and Barley Recipe	On about 9-10-20, I started changing my dogs from their regular food to Nature's Balance Easy to Digest. After a few days, I noticed my dogs were not as eager to eat as they usually are. After 2 weeks, my Rat Terrier became very ill with vomiting and diarrhea. He also became very lethargic. My Pomeranian stopped eating at all. My Collie was acting like he was starving and had not been fed in days. None of this was normal for these dogs. The only common denominator in all this was the new Nature's Recipe food. After I realized this, I immediately stopped feeding NR and went back to my old food. After two days, my dogs are almost back to normal. My concern is that the food has been contaminated in some way even though nothing is apparent. There is no damage to the bag or anything like that. I purchased the 30 lb bag of food from Chewy and there was no damage to the box in which the food was shipped. I am at a loss to explain why my dogs, 3 very different breeds, had such strong and bad reactions to this food.	4	Years	Terrier - Rat	Dog	28	Pound

We chose it simply because times are hard and our 1 yr old American Bully/ Pit Bull mix has an allergy to chicken. On (b) (6) our 8 month old Siberian Husky started throwing up. Day 2 he was still throwing up and drinking water. Day 3 he stopped drinking water didn't want to go out and that night he pooped dark watery blood. The morning of day 4 he passed away. His breathing was rapid, he started seizing, his body released this extremely large puddle of horrible smelling blood as well as vomit. We lost (b) (6) 8 mth old Husky). Well the evening of (b) (6) day 4 became (b) (6) 13 mth old American Bully and pit mixed) day 1. We have fought so hard. He has been on fluids and antibiotics. His symptoms have been exact to (b) (6) On day 3 and he was not looking good at all. Yesterday evening he was throwing up blood as well as pooping it. At 5:30 am this morning we lost (b) (6) too. This dog food has taken out our 2 perfectly healthy dogs in less than a week of each other. Our dogs are our big babies they are never off the leash and are ALWAYS being watched. It's impossible that it could be anything else. I called OI Roy's customer service on Monday and was told that someone would follow up and also be picking up this 30 lbs of dog food we have left. EON-442537	10/20/2020 19:44	Purina One (the small bags) and EVERY FLAVOR: Chicken Beef Lamb	Sorry if this is lengthy, I'll try to sum it up. Wal-Mart in (b) (6) is selling a LOT of expired animal food. This is pated from my (b) (6) Wal-Mart in (b) (6) is STILL selling expired dog food. After my wife and I looked at the dates on probably 50 bags of food, we noticed over half of them were out of date and every single bag of the kind that (b) (6) used to eat was expired. I reported it to someone at customer service and she made a "mental note" of it after I told her my dog was very sick because of the food and I just didn't want it to happen to anyone else. I went back about 3-4 days later and it was ALL still there. I decided to make a call to corporate Customer Service and Complaints. The guy on the phone said my concern was reported and filed, and it would be addressed in 2-3 days. I went back about 4-5 days later just for a grocery run and it was all still there. That same day I found someone who had a name-tag on that said they were a supervisor. I filled her in on the whole thing and as I was checking out she thanked me multiple times for bringing it to their attention and that she "was about to tell the Manager right then" and she actually was literally waiting to be buzzed in to go upstairs where I assume a manager is. Well, since we don't get food there anymore it has slipped my mind recently but I was just in there for a small grocery run and I was passing by the dog food...Of course you guessed it, every...single...bag...of the kind of food she used to eat is expired. I will say, it only expired last month this time...but it's expired! Lord knows how many other foods are as well and how many peoples animals are getting sick and having to pay for Vet. visits etc. As I mentioned in my (b) (6) I went back just today 10/20/2020 and there are still a TON of expired bags of food (who knows how many). I have pictures from the last time I told Wal-Mart about it and pictures are time stamped. This is the THIRD time my dog has gotten sick on Wal-Mart provided food. It was brought to our attention but the Vet. the second time this happened that animal food commonly goes stale in hot months because no one knows how long the food just sits in 150 degree plus shipping containers before being delivered.	6	Years	Rottweiler	Dog	100	Pound

He required ICU care for pulmonary edema and was discharged and currently is on 3 cardiac medications and two supplements. His food has been changed to Royal Canin breed specific diet. Thankfully he has recovered significantly though his activity is still restricted pending follow up echocardiogram to see if cardiac function is returning. Needless to say this is a very concerning that a number of companies are marketing these types of diets without any research or knowledge as to the risks of the diet. The scientific evidence is becoming clearer and clearer that these diets and specifically certain companies' products are harming animals without the owners being aware, and in fact, being marketed as a "healthy" diet for the animals. I hope the FDA is taking this matter seriously and await the results of any investigations and subsequent penalties for the offending companies.	5.5	Years	Retriever - Golden	Dog	80	Pound

On this day (b) (6) weighed 65 lbs. I contacted Chewy to cancel my auto ship order of Sports Dog bird breed dog food and requested they check into a recall I advised them of my dog's condition in addition to writing the manufacturer and FDA at State Animal Health Official of (b) (6). By the time we canceled our order we had received the second 50lb bag of Sport Dog bird breed dog food he UPC code 84282 92903 best by 10/09/20 which were discarded but I cut out the UPC label and kept a sample of the food in case a reply from the State Animal Health Official replied to my inquiry. We continued to feed our dog chicken vegetables, and barley but he continued to lose weight. These pieces of "bones" do not hydrate at all. I left them in water for more than an hour and nothing. Also found what seems to be some sort of thread that does not break so obviously it would not be digested. I realized it because my dog started spitting pieces of food which he never does and when I took a closer look found these pieces still with very sharp edges even after the hydration time. This is a dog food specific for seniors and I have never seen these pieces before and this is like my 6th bag of food. I reached out to the manufacturer and sent a picture and only got an auto reply and no one has responded
EON-442099	10/15/2020 16:20	Royal Canin Gastrointestinal Low Fat Veterinary	I purchased a bag of prescription dog food on July 30th 2020 from our vet which we have been feeding our dog now for over five years. Royal Canin Gastrointestinal Low Fat. When we feed our dog she vomited up the dog food. Then next day we noticed that she had diarrhea. I thought that it was a bad bag of dog food until I noticed that the bag looked different. I contacted Royal Canin and asked if they had changed the formula and was told that indeed they did change the formula. I asked why did they not state that it was a NEW FORMULA on the bag so that consumers could take appropriate acting of introduction to the dog. No answer was given. I exchanged the bag for another one and gradually introduced the new food to our dog. Now on October 10th our dog starting having loose stools and then the next day had blood in her liquefied stool and vomited up all her food. On Monday I took her into the vet and spent $403.00 to find out if it was something else. All the tests came back negative, now I am convinced it was/is the FOOD!	12	Years	Schnauzer - Miniature	Dog	13	Pound
EON-442097	10/15/2020 16:08	Heartland Farms Steak and Vegetable	We adopted a dog on 9/15/2020 and in our haste to get home with him we just grabbed a random brand of dog food rather than the one we had planned on feeding him (I'd never even heard of Heartland Farms before). We noticed a couple of days later that he started to seem very lethargic and he was having severe diarrhea. From there, he got worse until he stopped eating and drinking water completely He also vomited the night before I took him to the vet (9/21/2020). Our vet brought the recall to our attention after examining him and running tests (the vet forms ask about dog food brands and she recognized that brand as one of the recalled brands). I contacted Sunshine Mills. I'm currently waiting on the results from testing a sample of the food we were feeding Luke. I also contacted the store we purchased it from and another location of that same franchise, but I still see it and other recalled brands on shelves when I shop there.	11	Months	Foxhound - American	Dog	50	Pound

Color, shape and size varied greatly. The tummy issues hit, and I complained to the company, told them I thought they should know. The person that replied gave me the brush off, and implied it was my fault that he could not help because we don't save every single empty food bag. We go through a bag every single day. I am not saving all those. We cut our use of it, and it seemed to get better, more consistent. So increased use again. A couple weeks ago, I thought I noticed a variation again. Sure enough, starting last week, the kids starting getting tummy distress again. Yesterday I noticed a piece of bright blue plastic baked into one of the pieces of kibble. I am not sure if that was the only piece like that, or if I had somehow not noticed others. But either way, it did not change that we had a lot of angry bellies. EON-441982	10/14/2020 19:24	Taste of the Wild Pine Forest Grain-free Roasted Venison Dry Dog Food	Last week I purchased Taste of the Wild Venison and Bison dry dog food from PETCO. After gradually introducing the food with the old food brand, on Saturday I fed both my Shih Tzu's the new food. My female started acting out of it that evening, and refused to eat anything on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday. By Tuesday night we thought she would be dead by morning. We were giving here Pedalyte and rubbing raw honey on her gums to help with her electrolytes. Whenever she would drink too much water she would throw up bile, so we limited the amount of water she could drink at a time. Her poop was dark and lumpy, and by Tuesday night she bled from her rectum. She was extremely weak and lethargic. She had obvious signs of 'poisoning'. It was not until today, 10/14/2020 that we saw life come back into her. I went and bought her canned chicken/rice soft food, and she was able to eat a little at a time. We have ordered milk thistles to help with her liver. The reason I believe the cause was the new dog food is, my male Shih Tzu literally refused to eat it on Monday morning...he skipped that meal, and that evening I offered his old food, next to the new food, he ate the old brand dog food. (Costco turkey and sweet potato). Here I thought I was improving their diet...but it literally killed my female. She is pulling out of being deathly ill, but I felt I needed to report this due to so many other dog foods causing serious illnesses like hers. Link to one article that describes her symptoms, minus jaundice eyes. I would hate to see anyone else have to go through what we did. Cardiology consult findings: Findings are consistent with DCM with active LCHF. Due to the history of a selected protein diet (and longer history of another BEG diet previously) diet associated cardiomyopathy is considered a differential. We would recommend continuing treatment for heart failure with furosemide and pimobendan. Ideally, the patient should also be started on an ACE inhibitor, as long as renal values permit. The diet should be changed, however, given the patient's long term history of food allergies, a consult with dermatology and nutrition would be recommended to help choose a replacement diet. A taurine level has been submitted, and taurine supplementation pending those results could be considered. He had a complete physical in late February/early March 2020 and had NO alarming issues. We relocated in April to (b) (6) (b) (6) began coughing/dry heaving when we moved into our new home - we thought it was allergies due to our new location. The coughing became worse and more frequent, and in the evening he would start panting and have trouble breathing. We took him to a vet and were horrified to find he was diagnosed with DCM - the vet said on a scale of 1-6 he was a 5! I was stunned given that he had a clean bill of health earlier in the year. The vet asked about his diet - I said he was on a grain free diet due to the need for single protein food (anal glands fill up with certain proteins). He has been eating Zignature dry food, mostly Kangaroo, for years. (b) (6) is now on 2 medicines - I am told - for LIFE?! I asked my former vet about this issue at his February/March appointment and she said as long as we didnt see any ill effects not to change his food - that was only 6 months ago that she didnt see any ill effects!? The vet here in (b) (6) that diagnosed the problem contacted a coronary specialist who suggested we give him a taurine supplement. Incidentally, (b) (6) had had a few seizures in the last few years...the coronary specialist said that a lack of taurine can cause seizures as well as DCM. He is now on taurine each day along with the two other prescriptions. We have 2 dogs - the other is a rescue of the same age - 10 years old, 20lbs. We think he is a poodle/schnauzer mix. He was also coughing but not nearly as often as (b) (6) and he didnt show any signs of breathing difficulties. I've changed the food to Purina Pro Plan lamb and oatmeal for both dogs and they are both getting the taurine supplement. I noticed on the last bag of Zignature Kangaroo (which I no longer have) that the food actually adds Taurine in the ingredients and the company is now making a new food that has grain - too little too late for my two boys :-).	10	Years	Bichon Frise	Dog	25	Pound

EON-441509	10/11/2020 13:36	Friskies Tender and Crunchy Combo dry cat food, Friskies Can food pate and prime filets	I purchased the Friskies Tender and Crunchy combo dry food, and the friskiest pate/prime filet can food. I noticed that the day I gave my kitties both of the dry food and the can food they did not care to much to eat it, all 4 left it in the bowls. I didn't think anything of it bec that is not unusual for them to leave some food in the bowl. The next day they still were not eating it well but they did eat a little of both. By that afternoon one of my kitties was not eating or drinking at all which was a red flag, we watched him through out the day and he started throwing up and having direrra and scooting his but across anything. We immediately took him to the vet and he spent two days at the vet with fluids, antibiotics, vomit medicine before he was able to fully eat and go to the bathroom without any direrra. The next day our next kitty started with the same symptoms he stopped eating and drinking, he started throwing up and direrra, he became very dehydrated and lethargic where he was hiding to keep us from bothering him, we just knew that he was not going to make it that night. The next morning he was still in the same spot he had not moved and we knew then he had to go to the vet immediately, I was able to scoop him in my arms like a baby with a blanket over him and rode with him like that to the vet. Now be in mind this kitty is about 13 pounds and does not like for you to hold him at all for him to do that it was very unusual. He spent two days at the vet as well, getting IV fluids antibiotics, and paste. After two days the vet was able to finally get him to eat wet can food but just in little amounts. When he would try to go to the bathroom he would strain and strain to use the bathroom but could not do anything. It was to the point he would just lay in the litter box which broke my heart. The vet determined it was either something they got into outside and caused them to have digestive problems. The day that I was suppose to bring my first kitty and second kitty home my third and fourth kitties were throwing up and started to eat and not drink, me and the vet determined it was the food causing the problem since all 4 were having the same issues. We immediately stopped giving them this food and switched to a different brand. When we made the switch all 4 of my kitties started getting better they stopped throwing up, having direrra and now they are back to normal. I will never give them Friskies dry or can food again. Those two vet charges put a financial strain on us we ended up having to pay close to $600.00 for all the kitties to get well versus 11.00 for a bad of dry food and 13.00 for a box of can. If there is someway we can get reimbursed back for the vet charges that would be great. I wanted to make known that I almost lost my kitties due to this.			American Shorthair	Cat

Threw the entire can away, as the meat clearly looked like it would not be safe to consume. Thus far, no other cans from that case of 24 that I bought from Chewy.com seem to show any of the same problem. Contacted Wellness to let them know as well. I gave her about 5 a day for about a week and a half before I made the connection that they were making her sick. After a couple of days of giving her the treats, she started to become sick and would violently throw up in the mornings. This has never happened and she is 13 years old. She would throw up all over in an area. I looked at what she threw up and many times there was no hairball in the throw up, which made me start to question that something else was contributing. I could tell she was starting to lose weight and seemed lethargic so I made a vet appointment for 9/2/20. I stopped giving her the Greenies and within one day the vomiting stopped and she began to eat better. At the vet, they took her blood work and her liver enzymes were dangerously high. They rechecked her levels on 9/18/20. Her levels were back to normal. The only change I made was stopping the Greenies. I spent about $500 on vet bills. She could have died. EON-440149	9/25/2020 15:48	Critter Love Complete	I am reporting for a friend who owned two sugar gliders, a male &amp; female. They were a little over a year old and in extremely good health until one died from this food. She and I were threatened by the developer of the food that made them sick with legal action and that's why I am doing this anonymously. My friend heard about this woman Peggy Brewer who is the developer &amp; distributor of Critter Love Complete from a friend of a friend. This friend of a friend did not have sugar gliders, but raved about Peggy Brewer (https://critterlove.com/) as though she was some sort of Dr. Doolittle so my friend purchased Critter Love Complete online and began feeding it to her sugar gliders. (https://www.facebook.com/CritterLoveSugarGliders/) Over a period of time she noticed the male deteriorate first then the female. They had been in extremely good health with no other changes other than the food, so she began to suspect the food. However, she wasn't sure so she continued feeding it to them a little while longer, but then the male's health took a nose dive quickly, so she took them off the food and went back to what they had been eating previously. The female began recovering quickly, but unfortunately the male did not and he died suddenly. She was heartbroken and contacted Peggy Brewer who immediately threatened her with legal action and basically told her to get lost. I thought that my friend, maybe being heart broken had not reached out appropriately so I attempted to reach out to Peggy Brewer with questions and our concerns. I was very nice in my communication, but received the same treatment as my friend had. I was even more curious after that and frankly, pretty upset. I also began to wonder, what did Ms. Brewer have to hide to immediately threaten us with legal action like that. I began to research her online and found that Ms. Brewer may have quite a bit to hide. It also appears that threatening people with legal action is something Ms. Brewer has made a habit of as you can see from this page Facebook page that addresses people who have had issues with her products. (https://www.facebook.com/SayNoToCritterLove/) Ms. Brewer's instant HPW diets do not have the address of manufacture on the package, which is illegal. There is no testing information either. Critter Love Complete has synthetic K, which is harmful and does not contain the Wombaroo/WHPS/HPS powder which Ms. Brewer professes it does have. Please see the following page for information regarding the Critter Love food products: (https://info.petsugargliders.com/diet/hpw-diets-the-answers/?fbclid=IwAR0Zn3HVNrb02uzSVOB51r_ACKg8X7Lfi4ovr5wwJqzIESjDYAxHm6a5w). All websites referenced in my report are in parentheses and vital to this report. From the Facebook page "Say No To Critter Love" you can see that multiple people have been threatened with legal action by Ms. Brewer when they have attempted to approach her about problems with the food she sells. I am reaching out to your organization to please open up an investigation in Ms. Brewer's company Critter Love and the food she sells. There appear to be quite a people who have had issues with the products she sells and they are hurting animals. Thank you in advance for your attention to this matter. Sincerely, Extremely Concerned Citizen in (b) (6)	1	Years		Other Mammals	120	Gram

EON-440146	9/25/2020 15:28	Feline Greenies Savory Salmon Flavor Adult Dental Cat Treats	Three months ago, I ran out of my cat's normal treats so I picked up some Greenies, salmon flavored. I fed him maybe 5 Greenies per day, well within the recommended amount. Within a few days, I noticed that he seemed sick. Lethargic, weak, and rapidly losing weight. He started hiding a lot. His coat started to appear dull and lifeless, and mats started to appear. Then, I noticed little spots of urine on the bed, which meant that he was losing control of his bladder. This was not characteristic of him at all. Eventually, I made the connection between the Greenies and these symptoms that appeared out of nowhere, because the addition of Greenies was the only thing that had changed in his diet/environment. Horrified, I immediately stopped giving him the Greenies. Once he stopped eating them, his health started to improve and he gained a little bit of the weight back, but he still didn't fully return to his normal self. Now, 3 months later, my cat has been diagnosed with stage 3 renal failure. His creatinine level is 4.2, with high potassium and anemia. The vet performed an ultrasound and from that, said that it looked like the kidney damage was caused from a single incident that caused an injury to the kidneys, rather than from Chronic Kidney Disease which can happen organically in older cats. Prior to eating Greenies, my cat was healthy, energetic, and had never had abnormal bloodwork in his 13 years of life. I've done a significant amount of research online and there are literally hundreds of complaints, a particular concentration of which are on the Consumer Affairs website, where Greenies either made someone's pet violently ill or actually killed them. The symptoms that people report are all the same (lethargy and weakness, which my cat experienced, and other symptoms like vomiting, blood in the stool, and seizures). Kidney failure is a cause of death mentioned in many of the complaints. Pancreatitis is another common one. These symptoms are consistent with intestinal blockage, which is the reason that a law suit was filed back in 2006 by a couple in New York who claimed that Greenies killed their	13	Years	Maine Coon	Cat	7	Pound

			cat was med back in 2000 by a couple in New York who claimed that Greenies killed their dog. But the symptoms are also consistent with poisoning, which leads me to wonder if the factory that these Greenies are made in has exposure to things like rat poison, heavy metals, etc. In fact, some of the complaints on Consumer Affairs regarding Greenies mention that the pet was diagnosed with toxicosis after consuming Greenies. I believe that Greenies are responsible for kidney failure in my cat. He has to get fluids injected for the rest of his life now, and has to be on a special kidney diet, and the vet doesn't know how long he has to live. I am devastated and, given the fact that there are SO MANY complaints of illness and death in pets due to Greenies, I am appalled and outraged that Greenies are still on the market and nothing has been done. People have been reporting problems with Greenies for literally years, so why has no action been taken? The general public assumes that cat treats, of all things, are perfectly safe. They don't think that they're going to end up killing their cat by innocently giving them treats. Yet, that is the outcome for so many people when they feed their pet Greenies. Please, DO SOMETHING about this. Investigate the factories. Analyze the treats for heavy metals and poisons, particularly with the salmon flavor. People's pets end up dead, just like mine will. This could be your pet. How would you feel knowing you had blood on your hands from simply giving your pet a treat? Do the right thing and take action, now.

However, when I started to pull on the tab the can very loudly exploded with sufficient force to blow my arm over my head and stunned my hand for 10-15 minutes. I believe consequence of this incident with regards to a child would have been much more severe. What I suspect is the product acquired botulinum toxin bacteria during processing whereby the can built to a very high pressure. The product foamed significantly and the gravy had liquified. I contacted Blue Buffalo on 07/17 and reported this information and have received no response. I saved the can and a refrigerated sample of the product should they desire testing. EON-440027	9/24/2020 15:20	Fancy Feast Salmon & Shrimp Feast Classic Pate	My cats (both of them) have never had any food issues or issues with eating, or any major health concerns. Nor do they vomit or have diarrhea. However, (b) (6) and (b) (6) were both fed Fancy Feats Pate Salmon &amp; Shrimp Feast, Classic Pate, and immediately (b) (6) vomited up her food she just ate. I though it was weird maybe a fluke, but she continued to vomit 10 days that day (Tuesday September 15, 2020). The vomit turned because she vomited multiple times almost on the hour throughout the day then turned to a yellow, then green bile foam color. She was no longer wanting to eat or drink, and became very distant and quiet, which is unlike her personality. That night, she stated developing diarrhea and had two diarrhea episodes on Tuesday 9-15. I made an appointment with the vet the following morning, Wednesday 9-16, and brought her in for a check up. All of her blood work was normal, but she was extremely dehydrated, obviously. So, she got an injection for nauseas and IV fluids under the skin. Later that night, and into the next day she continued to have Horrible episodes of diarrhea, her butt hole was so pink, and swollen from the diarrhea, she must have used the liter box 25+ times Wednesday into Thursday into Friday. I took a stool sample into the vet to get the stool examined for parasites and the stool was fine. (b) (6) are both strictly both inside cats, but i thought SOMETHING had to be happening to my poor baby to cause such horrific actions. Friday, September 18th, (b) (6) was still having diarrhea but not vomiting, but she was not eating or drinking (and had not been since Tuesday when all of this started). I took her to the emergency vet and she had to stay 24 hours and was Even More severely dehydrated and stayed overnight for 24 hours hooked up to an IV and ran tests on her. ALL of her blood work and test came back fine!! WHAT was going on? Well, let me tell you, Saturday September 19th, the evening I was going to pick up (b) (6) from the 24 hour emergency hospital, I fed (b) (6) her sister, the same Classic Fancy Feast Pate, and IMMEDIATELY she began to Vomit the Pate up, the continued to Vomit, the Yellow Foam Colored Bile Vomit, then (b) (6) also developed diarrhea. After spending $2,200.00 on (b) (6) Vet Bills including ER Care, and everything coming out FINE with her testing I started doing some research on Consumer Affairs.com. As MANY folks have testified to also, and Nothing has happened or there has not been a Recall of any sort on the Fancy Feast Classic Pate Wet Food. My cats are just now both starting to recover, a week later for (b) (6) is still having some vomit, but it is getting better. She was really ill also for four days. They will not touch ANY brand of Pate, and can barely eat anything, BUT I tell you I wil NEVER buy anything Fancy Feats Again. What a HORRIBLE experience my two girls had after eating this terrible pate, they trust me to take care of them, and obs=visouly the pate I fed them has MANY Issues, and causing pet owners all over the world the same issues. PLEASE PLEASE PLEASE do something / investigate before too many other cat owners experience the same thing. I can't imagine the older cats getting through something horrific like that..and to think we were just giving our cats some "dinner" and the Sky Fell out....Please feel free to reach out to me, I'd be happy to chat! Multiple formulas and brands were fed at this time, but the most commonly fed were varieties of Canidae grain free Pure line. Other grain free diets fed include: Nature's Domain, Taste of the Wild, Acana, and Earthborn. When feeding these foods (b) (6) often developed hot spots (self inflicted wounds) on her legs, especially in summer time. Nature's Domain cause the most severe reaction. On all of the grain free diets (b) (6) became overweight and stayed overweight. She weighed up to 58 lbs, and in attempt to reduce weight was being fed smaller amounts of dog food and few if any treats. At one point she was being fed 1 cup of dry food per day. (b) (6) became less tolerant to exercise, panted heavily in cars, on walks, and even at home without added exercise. She also developed a slight cough, where sometimes while foamy/mucus like substance would come out. This cough was more frequent in the mornings and nighttime, and would happen daily in the spring and summer seasons but less frequently (about once a week or less) during the winter season. (b) (6) enjoyed hiking, camping, and similar outdoor activities. In 2014 at 5 years old (b) (6) showed substantial changes- she began to urinate in the house when left alone, she could no longer keep up with the 5 mile bike rides. This continued for the years that I fed grain free foods. In May of 2018 when I heard about DCM and the possible link to grain free diet, so I switched (b) (6) to Victor senior healthy weight formula, she was on this formula. (b) (6) lost the extra weight and I was feeding her more dry food than before (1.5 cups per day), but she started to act older, at 9 years old. 			seemed stiff, she could not keep up on the bike at all and I decided to stop trying to take her on bike rides. Her sense of hearing began to noticeably decline. Veterinarian did not find abnormal blood levels and did not have an explanation for the cloudy eyes other than age. At some point in 2019 Willow developed a growth on her chest near the armpit on the right side, antibiotics did not help this condition. When presented to the new veterinarian, Patricia, the severe heart murmur was identified and anesthesia was considered too dangerous. Traveling through elevation such as camping was also highly cautioned against. July 2019, (b) (6) food was switched to Purina Pro Plan Bright Minds, at about 10 years old. Her eyes became clear again, she became more active and could run alongside the bike again, once a day for 15-30 minutes at low intensity, her cognition improved as well, she stopped urinating when left alone in the house. Her weight is 45 lbs at this point, which is ideal for her form and breed. The heavy panting during times of exercise and rest continued, as well as restless sleep, and occasional increased thirst (severely during the summer) It is currently September of 2020. (b) (6) is showing severe signs of congenital heart disease. Dilated Cardiomyopathy is suspected. At X-Ray revealed an enlarged heart and fluid in the lungs. (b) (6) sometimes coughs throughout the entire day, coughs up which foam/mucus or occasionally clear liquid, her panting has increased, she does not tolerate exercise, she has lost 5 lbs in the last month and is now 35 lbs, there are days she will not eat dog food, including treats. A severe heart murmur was found by the veterinarian (b) (6) at (b) (6). This was at the first appointment with this vet, on June 8 2020. (b) (6) started taking Enalapril for the heart condition. (b) (6) started to have concerning lack of appetite in August, she weighed 40 lbs at this appointment. In September, weighing 35 lbs she was prescribed a diuretic, Furosemide, for the increased coughing symptom and received an X-ray. She continues to struggle with appetite, canine cognitive decline, physical activity, breathing, and general function. She is currently eating Eukanuba senior with mixed canned foods from Purina Pro Plan puppy food. She has not yet eaten 1 full 30 lb bag of Eukanuba and I will be changing foods for flavor variety in attempt to stimulate appetite. She occasionally pees in different rooms of the house- likely due to CCD. Evident twitching of the body can be observed with the heart beat when Willow is laying down in certain positions and heavily breathing.

They did an x-ray to see if there was an obstruction and it came back clear, so they did a blood panel. Our vet called us the next morning to inform us that she was in acute liver failure with extremely high liver values. He gave us some ideas of what may have caused it and some ideas of how to treat. We opted for taking her to or only local 24 hour pet hospital where she was admitted, further observed and treated with antibiotics and hydration. Her liver values started to come down a little bit each day and she was released after 5 days. We brought her home only to struggle to get her to eat and take her meds. I was taking her to our vet daily for an antibiotic shot and appetite stimulator. After a few days she was not improving and started having focal tremors. We immediately rushed her back to the pet hospital. They admitted her and kept her for a few more days. During that time they were baffled because the bloodwork wasn't showing anything that could be the cause for her condition. They ended up doing liver biopsies and sending her home. We were able to get her to eat a little and have tricked her into taking her meds so she is improving slightly. My dog has eaten this in the past, and I know what the product should look like. I have now opened five cans from this case, and in addition to the normal tan cubes of meat, each can contains unnatural purplish-grey chunks of meat with black spots that resemble mold. Just to verify that this was abnormal, I purchased a separate can from PetSmart; that can had the usual brown and tan meat in it.

EON-439232	9/16/2020 22:20	Natures Domain Salmon and Sweet Potato Cat Food	I switched all my cats to Natures Domain Salmon and Sweet Potato Cat food due to the cost and the fact it was an all life stage food and I have 5 foster kittens. I noticed about a week ago (2 weeks into a new bag of purchased food) all of cats were acting more lethargic and not eating as much, only when they seemed starving. Last Monday (9/7/2020) I noticed (b) (6) was hiding in corners and slowly moving around the house and rejecting the food offered to her and also seemed painful in her abdomen. During the night she vomited 3 times and I took her immediately into the vet. Diagnostics were performed and it was determined that (b) (6) did not have a foreign body. Supportive treatment was given and she was taken home. Her condition did not improve throughout the remainder of the evening and into the next day and she was taken back to the vet for additional treatment. The next day (Thursday) a new cat (b) (6) started vomiting and refusing to eat her food. Since it was already after the vet had closed, I monitored her throughout the evening. The following day (Friday) a third cat, (b) (6) started vomiting and refusing the same food. I called the vet and told them the two new cats were becoming ill and if I should schedule an appointment. I was told they were full for the day so I opted to purchase a prescription bland diet that is supposed to help with digestive issues and administered subcutaneous fluids to them at home. I began feeding the bland diet to all cats in the house after I noticed that the foster kittens were having diarrhea the same day (Friday). My dog sometimes eats the left over food in the cats bowls and he began having diarrhea on Saturday evening. None of this food has been offered since Thursday 9/10/20 and since then all the cats are thriving and gaining weight and are no longer having vomiting and diarrhea after extensive medical treatment. Today has been the first day with none of the animals vomiting and half are still recovering from the diarrhea.	1	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	7	Pound

EON-438217	9/5/2020 14:04	Abound Superfood Blend Salmon egg & pumpkin recipe	Fed the Abound Superfood Blend at night before bedtime around 8:00 pm 1 cup. Woke up next morning to vomit and diarrhea in kennel. Fed him his breakfast at around 8:00 am 1 cup. More diarrhea around lunchtime (12:00 pm), fed again 1 cup. No bowel movements at dinnertime (7:00 pm) fed 1 cup. Woke up to more vomit and diarrhea the next morning, cleaned kennel, more vomit, cleaned kennel, more vomit and repeated a total of 5 times. Immediately called Petsmart Banfield Hospital and was instructed to stop feeding him his food and feed him plain boiled chicken and plain cooked white rice for 2 days. Went to store and bought ingredients and fed him 1/2 cup cooked white rice and 1/2 cup boiled chicken thighs. Over the next 2 days he would only vomit in the morning and had diarrhea throught the day while feeding him the chicken and rice over his normally scheduled meals, 7:30 am, 12:00 pm, and 8:00 pm. On day 3 we bought a new bag of Abound dog food with different flavors and gave him 1 cup for his morning feeding at 7:30 am and no vomit was present but still had diarrhea. Continued normal feedings throught the day with new flavor of food and by day 4 he was completely back to normal with no signs of vomiting or diarrhea.	6	Months	Mixed (Dog)	Dog	55	Pound

Sometimes she just gets bored, so I added chicken or tuna to get her to eat it. She started to have diarrhea, so I switched to feeding her rice and chicken. I gave her some Pepto Bismol, then switched to Kaopectate. I took her to the vet. They said her ALT was elevated (250) and that we should watch that. They put her on Metronidazole, which stopped the Diarrhea. I brought her in for a follow up wellness check this week. Her ALT was up to 683 and they suggested additional diagnostics. They added 60mg of Galliprant for her hips. At that point I remembered the new bag of food and did a search for recalls. There was a recall on the canned Dr. Hill's I/D but not the dry. There were a couple complaints about liver disease resulting in death and dry dog food online, but no recalls yet. I decide to report it and take her off the food. I have also contacted my vet again.	12	Years	Shepherd Dog - Belgian Tervueren	Dog	80	Pound
EON-438123	9/4/2020 13:52	Acana singles pork & squash recipe grain free dry dog food	Our dog had about ten days of wheezing and coughing and was diagnosed with kennel cough and prescribed doxycycline but did not get any better and was given an x-ray then heart ultrasound then echo and was diagnosed with severe, late stage DCM. Dog has been fed Acana singles his entire life - a grain free food. Blood work was drawn for taurine levels which came back as low and has been prescribed a combination of six medications and given 4 to 6 months to live. This is unacceptable - and the FDA needs to act quickly so that other families are not in this situation. I know this is on the radar of the FDA and we are happy to aid in any way with whatever studies are being conducted but it is insane that this link has been known for over a year and the food is still on the market. He prefers the food that looks "real" so he was eating Fancy Feast flaked fish and shrimp feast every day for dinner. Last week we took him to the doctor for a regular checkup and the doctor told us he now has kidney failure. He also said this may be causing an issue with his teeth and bad breath. I did some research and found that the main culprit for kidney issues in cats is high phosphorus and found that this particular canned food has 2.5% phosphorus which is extremely high. He was eating wet food to prevent kidney issues and this can counteracted that. Now his lifespan may be shorter than it otherwise would have been had he not been eating it.	12	Years	Domestic Mediumhair	Cat	9.7	Pound

EON-437852	9/1/2020 19:16	Weruva Press Your Lunch Chicken Dinner In A Hydrating Puree	On Sept. 1, 2020 at 10:00am, I opened a 5.5 oz can of Weruva Press Your Lunch cat food. It (the cat food) was white and grey fuzzy mold. The can was not dented and I did not notice any holes in/on the can. My husband purchased this can (and others) on August 15, 2020 at Petco (b) (6) The code number on the can is N316W with a Best Buy Date By March 25, 2023. Today I called Weruva at 800-776-5262 and spoke with Cheryl. She was very pleasant and listened to my complaint. She told me that sometimes tiny holes happen in cans that customers/people usually cannot/do not see. If these holes are present in the can(s), then air and mold can and will get in and contaminate the cat food. She did not doubt what I told her, nor did she blame me for doing anything wrong. I asked her if there was anything else that I needed to do, or should I send her the can of cat food for testing. She said that I should bring the can of cat food back to Petco and ask for a refund or exchange for a new can of cat food. She said that Weruva guarantees their pet food and offers refunds/exchanges if there are problems. She also offered to send me coupons for Weruva cat food. My husband took the moldy cat food in the can to the Petco where he purchased it, tonight, so we no longer have the product. We are not angry with Weruva or with Cheryl. Our cats enjoy the Weruva cat food that we have fed them for the past two years. We are concerned about opening a can of cat food and finding it moldy. I just wanted to let you know of our finding. In situations like this one, are we supposed to send the can with moldy food in it somewhere for testing?

My dog is very active, perfect weight, and overall in great health (or so I thought), and the only thing I can imagine that would've caused an otherwise healthy 10 lbs chihuahua to have an enlarged heart, would be the food that he eats. I've read the reports that about an association between a number of specific grain free dog foods and animal Dilated Cardiomyopathy. Despite no causation yet being established, something is fishy. I have informed the store that I bought this dog food from, and have since October 2014, and will obtain a list of exactly what I bought and when I bought it from them. They keep purchase records. We plan to follow with a full cardiological work up for our dog, but is breathing is labored, he is lethargic, and we are terribly worried. We were assured by Champion Petfoods when this story broke a couple years ago, that their foods were safe for our dog. Our pet store, (b) (6) also assured us of the same thing. For the last year and a half he has been alternating Acana Lamb and Apple and Acana Beef and Pumpkin, every other bag.	9	Years	Chihuahua	Dog	10	Pound

EON-437610	8/30/2020 22:48	Blue Buffalo Life Protection Formula Large Breed Healthy Weight Adult Chicken and Brown Rice Recipe Dry Dog Food	The dog started to throw up and have diarrhea on Friday evening which he occasionally did over the years. Saturday he didn't eat much but didn't throw up. Saturday night he threw up 2 times and I took him to urgent care on Sunday morning. His liver test was more elevated than regular and he was dehydrated but unremarkable for any severe pain or abdominal tenderness and no heart murmurs or fluid in lung detected. He was prescribed probiotics and antibiotics to calm the GI tract and give sub Q fluids in his shoulder blade area. I was to take him in the next day to our vet if he didn't respond. Monday he woke up and was ok but not great. He ate some, urinated but was pretty slow still. We left him and when we came home after work he was having some breathing difficulty. I immediately took him to my vet who couldn't find anything specific, didn't hear fluid, etc and he wasn't tender anywhere. She x-rayed him and ordered a STAT read. She felt he was still somewhat dehydrated so he was given additional sub Q fluid and she said if he wasn't better on Tuesday she would probably send him to (b) (6) for an ultrasound to see if something was going on with the liver. She called me with xray results and they noted some cardiac changes and fluid in the peritoneal cavity. I got home and again he was struggling with labored breathing and seemed to be in some kind of abdominal pain. She told me her recommendation was to drive him to (b) (6) right now (middle of the night). We got there at 1:30am and they took him in. After their initial evaluation he was in congestive heart failure to which I was completely shocked. They gave him diuretic and heart medicine and he seemed to respond. The cardiologist saw him in the morning and did an echocardiogram and diagnosed him with dilated cardiomyopathy and he asked what we fed him and we told him Blue Buffalo but not grain free. Overall his body was healthy after a full abdominal ultrasound but he continued to fail. Ultimately he succumbed to Systemic Inflammatory Response Syndrome which caused his body to shut down. It was devastating to learn that the food that we had fed him his entire life ultimately took his life. I am angry at the company and more at myself that my best friend who should have a much longer healthy life was cheated of that opportunity by the food we fed him thinking we were doing the right thing. My daughter has a nearly 4 year old standard poodle that has also been fed Blue Buffalo Health Weight (and puppy food) and I am praying that it is early enough that we can prevent any long term damage. I spent $5000 for the intensive care of my dog whom I ultimately lost but not until we had tried everything we could to save him. Please make these companies stop selling food that is killing our pets.	12	Years	Poodle - Standard	Dog	52	Pound

It took me a while to realize it was the food because I started eliminating things like treats, etc. in his diet. I thought maybe it was because he was getting older, but he just went to the vet about a month ago and was given a clean bill of health. I looked up natural balance and if you visit their website: https://www.naturalbalanceinc.com/dog-formulas/dry-food/limited-ingredient-diets/lamb-brown-rice you will see many other owners having the same issue. I stopped feeding my dog the food and put him on a bland diet and he has recovered almost immediately, so I am now 100% it was the food. I don't know what about their recipe that they changed, but it's clearly posing a danger to dogs. I'm glad I caught the issue before my dog lost weight and had potential kidney/liver problems, but an owner who isn't aware of the change may not realize the issue and serious harm might come to their animal because of it. I purchased my bag of food off of Amazon, which is stocking the new formula. Please investigate this. They claim their new formula is just 'more protein' in the form of more animal products but I'm going to guess that these products are not sourced from a reputable place, or something in their cooking and packaging process is awry and contaminating the food.	12	Years	Corgi - Welsh Pembroke	Dog	30	Pound

EON-436781	8/25/2020 15:32	Royal Canin Canine Hydrolyzed Protein PS Dry Dog Food	Our dog never had any signs or symptoms of any health issues except minor skin allergies. He always had normal checkup visits at the vet and was up to date on all vaccines. To rule out food allergies our vet had recommended he eat only a prescribed diet of the food named above. He ate nothing but the Royal Canin Hydrolyzed Protein diet for 2.5 years. His allergies never really improved but we were instructed to keep him on this diet. One day he was running around at the park and dropped dead. When taken to (b) (6) he was pronounced dead upon arrival. The Vet said his heart seemed enlarged but could not be certain of the reason of death. The vet then asked if our dog had been on a "grain-free" diet, and at the time, we said no because we were unaware that the Royal Canin food we had been feeding our dog was in fact grain -free. It wasn't until doing research and contacting the company that we discovered it is a grain-free food even though it does not state so anywhere on the bag. We also found articles about grain-free food contributing to cardiac issues and heart disease in Dobermans along with other certain dog breeds. The first few ingredients listed on the back of the bag are: potato, hydrolyzed soy protein, coconut oil, and potato protein.	4	Years	Doberman Pinscher	Dog	95	Pound

We were not sure whether it was just age or possibly something else. By Friday the 14th of August we were rushing her from vet to ER vet to determine what was happening. Based on x-rays, blood work, and other testing, the veterinarian determined she was likely experiencing right-sided heart failure and there was a chance it was linked to her diet. We have not confirmed the diagnosis with a cardiologist, but after having the pericardial, pleural, and abdominal fluid drained and putting her on heart medications, she seems to have stabilized. Her prognosis is still not great. We have been feeding (b) (6) and our 2 other dogs Taste of the Wild High Prairie Grain-free dog food for about 6 years. determined that my clients' beloved pet cat, (b) (6) died from eating your product.

By way of background, in November 2019, my client bought four cases of Natural Balance Ultra Premium Chicken and Liver Paté Formula canned cat food from Chewy.com. Two cases were purchased from Chewy on November 2, 2019 and two cases on November 22, 2019. The (b) (6) have reason to believe that some of these cans were poisoned and others were not. Looking back, they think they must have started the new pack on November 24, 2019 because it coincides exactly with (b) (6) first major health episode, which involved sudden and profuse vomiting. At first, my clients expected (b) (6) to get whatever was irritating him out of his system and recover, as cats do, but after vomiting at least 20 times within a few hours, (b) (6) hind legs stopped functioning, and he was rushed to the hospital. After a stressful overnight stay at the hospital with an IV to relieve his severe dehydration, (b) (6) slowly recovered. The hospital did not know the cause and could not find anything to explain the sudden vomiting, though according to the discharge notes, it is specifically noted that (b) (6) chloride levels were well beyond the normal range.

After (b) (6) recovered, he showed a lack of interest in the Natural Balance and refused to eat it, so the (b) (6) decided to give away some of the surplus food. (b) (6) gave away two cases to work friends - an unopened box, and an opened box. One of her work friends that she gave a case to (the opened one) had to take his cat to the vet because of vomiting as well. Both parties thought it was because they introduced the food too fast (again not associating it with the actual food manufactured by your company). The other person who she gave the unopened case to said "he had to take the food away from his cat because 'it was like crack to him'" which she understood to mean the cat "ate too much he threw up" or -- more likely - that cat was poisoned too. The (b) (6) still had two boxes left, one of which was unopened. They decided to keep the food in case (b) (6) changed his mind, but transitioned him to a different diet because, as mentioned, (b) (6) wasn't eating the Natural Balance anymore. They fed him a different diet (Blue Buffalo Drv food and BFF aravv) for six months. and his health seemed to return to normal.

			However, on (b) (6) the (b) (6) ran out of (b) (6) food during the COVID-19 pandemic, and while they were waiting for the new food to be delivered, they decided it was likely fine to feed him a can from the open case of Natural Balance food as STILL they didn't really see the correlation (something my clients will struggle to grapple with for the rest of their lives). They fed him the food, and in about 30 minutes, they saw a noticeable change. The (b) (6) actually still have access to this horrendous video on their security video cam. They noticed (b) (6) wasn't really moving and plopped down on the floor. They rushed him over to the hospital, where they were forced to wait in the car for answers, due to COVID-19. The doctors called the (b) (6) and let them know that they thought (b) (6) may be dying, and they would have a decision in that moment, in the middle of a pandemic. They told the doctors the only information they had, which was that they fed him the Natural Balance food for the first time in months. (b) (6) later died that evening. My clients have invoices for the food (close to $200). We have invoices for all the visits to the vet (their out-of-pocket costs are close to $1000, if not more). Obviously, the emotional loss is a lot more complicated. Then, this week in July of 2020, the (b) (6) read about the recall for an incident that happened back in November. That seems like a very long time to wait to tell someone that their pet's food and the food of their friends' and work colleague's pets have been poisoned.

EON-435467	8/12/2020 22:20	Blue buffalo life protection - puppy Lamb and oatmeal	Early on Saturday morning she woke me up choking or dry heaving, after a couple of moments, I was concerned she was choking so I tried to sweep out what was in her mouth of my finger and I thought I felt something but I wasn't able to clearly know that I did or not feel something because I wasn't totally awake and she was squirming a bit. Also at the same moment she inhaled/choked and when I attempted again to clear her airway I could feel nothing. A bit later I opened a new bag of Blue Buffalo food for she initially refused which is odd as she never has before. She paced around it she looked at me. I waited for her to eat and when she went and laid down without eating I smelled the food. I thought it I smelled it a bit weird but I can't say it was 'bad' by odor but just a bit like the dog food plant downtown. Nothing horrid but it's not human food for sure. This is the same exact food she's been having for the last four months. The only difference is the size of bag I purchased and that I ordered it from Amazon as a delivery and this was the first bag versus the 4 pound I was buying a PetSmart. After her refusing to eat, I put in some bone broth to see if I could entice her to eat it she didn't eat it right away but did after a bit of time passed then her next stool was loose and a beige color. She refused to eat that night again until I put in more bone broth and when she had a bowel movement it was a puddle of pudding that was more yellow than beige. The stools became more and more loose and frequent. She also appeared to be nausea as she would cough not like Kennel cough but huff and pace a bit. After 2 and half days of that I took her to the Vet. They checked her out and didn't feel like there was anything that she had in her inner intestines so they did a parasite test and gave her an antibiotic and sent me home with her. Over the next week her bowel movements became more and more concerning and that they never resolved they were very loose very pale at times they had what looked like oil patches or oily substances in it. I don't know if that was from doctoring the food with bone broth in the beginning the last two or three days I didn't put anything in it she was eating it dry again but she was losing weight and refusing even water most of the time. -4 pounds in that week. 			stopping the antibiotics as I was concerned it might be making things worse. He suggested I finish them and bring her back for blood work and ex-ray if things didn't clear up by the 12th. On the 9th she refused to drink any water nor would she eat. I had to use a syringe to push water into her. On the 10th, she seemed back to normal and eat the dry food as if things were ok and one of her stools was formed but mushy pudding texture. I thought we had turned the corner but that night she was back to refusing to eat and had piles of goo which she promptly turned and ate if I couldn't catch her quick enough. I called the Vet on the 11th to set up an appt for Thursday and decided that it was time to see if it was the food as she had dropped another pound of weight. I bought FreshPet and fed her 1C (8/11) which she inhaled and begged for more. Her next bowel movement was slightly formed but soft. on the 12th I fed her morning meal which she inhaled and went out to potty and had a formed clay-like stool. It's off color but close to the right consistency. I fed her evening meal early as she was pacing in front of her bowls like a starving child. She went out to potty and this time it was formed but softer than last but not pudding poop. I fed her another small portion during her normal dinner and she seems content. Her skin is flaking horribly but I am assuming the dehydration and food poisoning are affecting that. She seems mostly back to normal but her stamina is lowered I'm guessing from lack of nutrition over the past 10 days and it will return to normal once she fully recovered.
EON-435462	8/12/2020 20:48	Luvsome Natural Real Chicken Adult Dog Food	Bought a new bag fed to my dog and within two days she developed diarrhea which progressed into hematochezia, then she became severely lethargic, then started vomiting and developed a fever of 104.6. I took her to the vet and they ran multiple blood tests, examinations, and X-rays. Had to immediately transfer her to the emergency vet hospital because she was diagnosed with hemorrhagic gastroenteritis, X-rays showed severe inflammation of her intestines which led to gastric bleeding. The veterinarians believe the dog food is the reason this happened and that some unhealthy/toxic substance caused a severe toxic reaction in her digestive system. They almost had to do a sedative feeding but the medications and treatments started to improve her, she is still very unstable and is still at risk but so far she is doing slightly better but they told me had I not brought her in when I did she would have died within that next 24-48 hours.	1.6	Years	Retriever - Golden	Dog	31	Kilogram

We purchased a new bag on 7/28 (lot 20211216 D2 A22:06 best by 2021 DEC 16) and fed them the fresh bag at dinner time. Our smaller dog, (b) (6) turned her nose up at it so didn't eat, the other, (b) (6) ate as usual. The next morning we woke up to diarrhea all over the house, we assume it started over night on the 28th. We knew based on the size of the puddles that it was our larger dog (b) (6) so we fasted her at breakfast time on the 29th but fed (b) (6) the same food, not yet realizing that the food was the cause of the problem. Unlike the previous night she ate her portion as usual. by midday (b) (6) was still pooping and (b) (6) had started to have the same problem. At this point we realized it must be the food because both dogs had eaten it and exhibited the same problems. We cooked them a bland meal of chicken and rice for dinner on the 29th and by the next morning the problem had cleared up. We will continue to feed bland diet for a day then slowly work in a different brand of food. Upon closer inspection of the food I noticed that the kibbles are lighter in color than the small amount left from the previous bag. Otherwise everything seemed fine, I saw no signs of mold and the food smelled as expected.	6	Years	Unknown	Dog	85	Pound

EON-433933	7/30/2020 10:44	Darwin's natural pet products natural selections chicken for cats	I have 3 cats, 2 of which eat Darwin's raw cat food, specifically the chicken flavor for about the past 1.5 months. For approximately the past 1 week both of my cats who eat Darwin's have had diarrhea and vomiting, worsening in frequency and intensity as time goes on. They have decreased energy. For the past 1 week they both have shown an aversion to Darwin's food, prior to this they absolutely loved this food and scarfed it all down at mealtime. They currently have no issue eating normal amounts of any other type of food but will not touch the Darwin's. They're each having at least 12 pure liquid diarrhea episodes a day, vomiting about 3 times a day each, both vomiting up their food and also vomiting clear saliva when their stomachs are empty. It's strongly suspected one or some of the chicken Darwin's packages were contaminated and caused this GI illness. My other cat who doesn't eat Darwin's is 100% healthy.	2	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	9	Pound

We bought her the same Crave dog food as always from Walmart approx 7-7-20. She started becoming lethargic and was vomiting after each meal. This continued for a week getting sicker each day. She was eating very little by then and she soon had copious amounts of blood in her stool with large clots. We took her to the vet and they gave her medicine, we took her home and she refused to eat her normal Crave rations but would eat other food. We realized it was the dog food making her sick when I sprinkled a few kibbles on top, she picked through the bowl and left the Crave. I got a bag of different brand food and she was like a new dog. Very active again and happy. We contacted the manufacturer and they said they would send a refund for the bag (still not received). EON-433848	7/29/2020 16:04	Purina Prime Bones Natural Dog Treats	Prior to this event, (b) (6) had been in perfect health. For an 11, almost 12, year old dog, she was very lively and well taken care of. She went on walks, played fetch, and was very happy. She was the family's baby and had been a great source of companionship and comfort for the parents once the kids went to college and moved away. The owner's had gone to every length to make sure the dog had the best life possible. Although she had some allergies, she had no other issues. The owner of the dog gave (b) (6) and a neighbor dog two Purina Prime Elk Bones. The next day the dog could not walk or relieve herself, she was not at all being herself. Everyone could tell the dog was not feeling well and something was seriously wrong. They took (b) (6) to the family vet and it was determined she had pieces of the bone stuck that she had not passed yet. He gave (b) (6) some simple pain relieving medicine to help her feel better and hopefully pass the bone. She perked up for the rest of that day with the medicine. The next day, she was much worse. She couldn't walk. Wouldn't look at us. She was in a lot of pain and having problems breathing. They took (b) (6) to the Animal ER and left her there overnight. The next morning, the doctor called and said that (b) (6) had a tear in her abdomen from the bone and there was now fluid in her stomach. Because of this she was going septic and was not going to make it long if they could not find the tear. They decided to do an emergency operation to try and find the tear and sew it up. Unfortunately, the doctor could not find the tear. Due to her age and the progression of the septic, they decided to not put her through a slim and improbable recovery. It was incredibly tragic and completely unavoidable. The owners feel like they killed their baby because they gave them these seemingly harmless bones. I want it to be known that these are dangerous and killed (b) (6) due to the tear in the abdomen. Dogs should not be eating these.	11	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	60	Pound

I moved (b) (6) off this year, as the vet recommended a lower calorie senior food. (b) (6) started experiencing really bad diarrhea, the consistency and near color of mustard. After $450 in vet bills over several weeks (b) (6) (b) (6) the vet said he had ruled out any bacteria or parasites in tests, and unresponsiveness to antibiotics. (b) (6) said the problem is likely the food, try a different bag in case he developed an allergy. So, I tried a different bag of Stella and Chewy's Raw, switching from the fish, to the second bag was chicken. (b) (6) diarrhea remained the same. Then the vet suggested immediately switch (b) (6) dog food to Royal Canine Ultramino, and (b) (6) diarrhea cleared right up. Because I had a lot of Stella and Chewy's on hand, I tried to give some to my 8 year old Australian Shepherd, (b) (6) I had switched (b) (6) off Stella and Chewy to Purina Pro Plan a few months earlier, to cut calories. I figured that I would give (b) (6) a mixture of the Stella and Chewy's with the Purina Pro Plan he was on, to just use up the Stella and Chewy's food, because it was about $160 in dog food that I didn't want to just throw away. (b) (6) also started getting diarrhea once he was on the Stella and Chewy's. In the mean time, I had given (b) (6) the Royal Canin Ultamino and Interception Fish Dog food, no issues. I have since been coverting (b) (6) to Victor brand dog food, no issues, no diarrhea. (b) (6) stole a piece of grilled chicken, and other table scraps, no issues, no diarrhea. So I discussed it with the vet, and we came to the conclusion that (b) (6) doesn't have an allergy to Stella and Chewy's, there is likely an issue with the lots in both of those raw dog food bags (perhaps salmonella) we gave to (b) (6)	1.5	Years	Siberian Husky	Dog	65	Pound

EON-433173	7/23/2020 21:24	PureVita Dog Food Beef and Red Lentil	I believe that there is a strong correlation between (b) (6) sudden sickness/death and the newly purchased bag of dog food. After months of research, I found, what I believed to be a fantastic brand/flavor of dog food. It was a perfect compromise of nutrition and price. The only downside was that it was not readily available at most big box/pet stores. However, (b) (6) loved it and it worked so well with her system. Locally, I was only able to buy it at one pet store, (b) (6) here in (b) (6). Once a month, we went to specially pick up a bag of her dog food...until Covid hit, and everything locally shut down. During that time, I tried to buy this food through their online service, but it was strangely unavailable. I ended up having to buy one large bag online, from an out of state company, and had no issues with that bag. Finally the physical stores began opening up here and when I needed it, I went into the physical store and was able to purchase a bag of (b) (6) dog food. Once I got home, as always, I thoroughly washed out her sealed dog food container, and she was so excited, that she ate down her first meal from this bag. Then, at her next mealtime, I put her bowl down, and she kept smelling it, but would not go anywhere near it. I'm not prone to jump to paranoid conclusions, so I went down the list of other logical options.... maybe she was just being picky....maybe one of her teeth was bothering her...maybe she just didn't feel like eating. However logical in once sense, no matter what, she normally would gobble up her food no matter what. I tried mixing it with other things, and she went through her bowl and one by one, picked out the dog food and set it down on the side of her bowl, refusing to eat it. Then, trying to see if maybe it was a tooth issue, I soaked the food pieces until it was mushy enough to smash into a paste. By then, I believe that she was so hungry, that she attempted to eat it, and almost immediately threw it up. Later, I tried once more, and again, she threw up. By that time, I was worried that something was wrong with that particular bag of food and started preparing her other foods. In doing this, I went back to (b) (6) to purchase some of the same brand's food but in the wet, canned variety. When I went in there, the entire stock of that brand's wet food was empty and "unavailable", a situation that was "not going to be fixed anytime soon." The employee promptly steered me towards some other brands and brought them home and (b) (6) was able to finally get and keep something down. However, by that point, it was too late. 			my friend and constant companion go from being the hard-headed light of this house, to not even being able to eat, go to the bathroom, or even find a comfortable position. At the worst of it, I called into the local Humane Society, seeing as her normal vet had recently moved very far away. I told them that it was an emergency, they told me that I had to wait until the next morning to get her it....and within a couple of hours, she lay down on her side and died in front of my eyes. I normally wouldn't take the time to do something like this, but I feel that this is too important... Yes, she had become my friend over the past few years. However, I moved up here to take care of my father, a retired and disable veteran, and he has had her since she was a puppy. Through his heart and back procedures, (b) (6) was the only one, for many years, who care for and about him....making sure that he didn't just waste away in his bed. We owe her many things, and mostly, I owe her the time to make sure that no other animal gets sick from something that can be prevented. I am going to try to do my best to be as accurate as possible, but I'm still in kind of a sort of shock and grief, so if there is something else that I remember or remember more clearly, I will update this report. Also Thank you.

I did not think much of it and fed it to him for dinner. He ate the food the next day (2 meals) and the following morning he would not eat (rare for a lab). He ate that night but was not acting right, he is also drinking an excessive amount of water. The next morning (today) he threw up and pooped in the house and I called my vet. They tested his and he has a fever over 104 and the vet things that it was caused by tainted or rancid food.	6	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	90	Pound

EON-432981	7/22/2020 11:56	Hill's Science Diet Sensitive Stomach and Skin Large Breed Adult Chicken Recipe	This was a new bag. He was on the same thing before this bag but it wasn't for a large breed and this one was. We gave him a bowl and he ate most but not all of it and grazed a little throughout the eve. Then late that evening and throughout the night he had diarrhea and started vomiting the next morning. The vomiting stopped but he continues to have diarrhea 24 hours later but it's slowing down finally. He had nothing else to eat that was different. He refused to touch any more of the food that had been left out so we took it away when we realized that's probably what caused it. He had a similar reaction to a different brand a few months ago which resolved when we switched foods so that's why I think it's the food but this reaction was faster and worse.	6	Years	Shepherd Dog - German	Dog	90	Pound
EON-432925	7/22/2020 7:08	Blue Buffalo Dental Bones - purple label	Submitted as RFR EON-432869. FDA resubmitting as PFR. (Reporter includes no contact information and mentions MRx but does not attach MRx. No date of onset given. Report resubmitted as sent.)  My dog ate this bone at the beginning of July since then I have taken her 2 veterinaries. She hasn't been able to eat well since then, the vets treated her with all kinds of medicines so far. I even learned how to put the IV on her because one day she's ok then following 2-3 days she's sick again. I did my research about this brand and there are so many other complaints as mine on Facebook and other sites, some dogs even died of stomach and other illnesses. I wish I knew about this before, otherwise my dog would have been healthy and playful still.  I have my dog's records for now, which is enough as I have all these people's reviews and comments about the same issue. If we get together there will be thousands of complaints!			Unknown	Dog

I opened a new bag on Friday July 10th and filled up the cat food bowl. I went out of town for 2 days and when I returned home, I noticed one of my cats seemed to have lost a little weight and none of the 3 of my cats would touch the cat food. I called the vet for the one I thought lost weight and observed the other 2. In 1.5 days, nobody ate the food in the bowl. I purchased a different brand, and all 3 immediately went to that food and devoured it. My dog snuck into the area where I keep the cat food. She finished off the new food but also did not touch the HEB Heritage Ranch food. At that point, I knew there was something off with this bag of food when 4 animals won't touch it & I just opened the bag recently. The vet ran labs and tests on the 1 cat and found her to have lost 6 oz from the prior recorded weight at the vet but otherwise everything was normal other than slightly high creatinine, but she's an elderly cat. On a different food, all 3 cats are eating and acting normally. I think this is a bad bag of HEB Heritage Ranch food.

I rushed her to the vet that day where they took a stool sample and did an exam to diagnose her with gastritis and sent her home with a heavy dose of medication. I had to feed she broth with chicken and rice for 2 weeks because she wouldn't eat regular dry food. It took her 2-3 weeks to fully recover. I was not aware it was the food at first. One of my kittens was showing worse symptoms so I brought her into the vet. The vet did not do blood work but suggested as a kitten she may just have worms. She was treated with two rounds of dewormer and was not showing any signs of getting better. At this point I was still feeding the Friskies canned wet food as normal. As they both started to get more severely ill, I began to feed them more of the wet food because of dehydration from vomiting and diarrhea as well as weight loss. After I increased the unknowingly tainted food, my one kitten (b) (6) got sick to the point I took her back to the vet immediately. The vet then prescribed her a probiotic and bland wet food. One of my friends had warned me that the Friskies wet food had gotten her cat severely ill and her cat died. I called my vet and made her aware of the issue and discontinued giving my kittens the Friskies canned wet food. After a few weeks of being off the Friskies food my one kitten (b) (6) began gaining her weight back but was still having some diarrhea. Now my other kitten (b) (6) is showing signs of severe illness despite normal labs. (b) (6) is having breathing difficulties, labored breathing, wheezing, racing heart rate at times, meowing at all hours of the day and night, difficulty urinating and defecating, tremors that started in her back legs but now include her front paws, excessive shedding, excessive grooming, periodontal disease only being a kitten, and a greasy coat. I have had 2 different blood tests done, a fecal test, a urinalysis, and xrays done for (b) (6) She also has seen a vet dentist, has to have surgery for her periodontal disease and has to see a specialist. I have discontinued the Friskies but my kitten (b) (6) has permanent effects from the food and now needs to go to a specialist for further evaluation and treatment. The vet team I am currently working with is having an even harder time helping find what exactly in the food poisoned my kitten because Purina refuses to recall their friskies canned wet food despite thousands of reports and complaints about ill and dying animals. My kitten is now on pain medication 2 times a day indefinitely until she sees a specialist to help her because of the rapid decline and pain she is in.	3	Months	Domestic (unspecified)	Cat	3	Pound

The issues began one week into switching her food to Purina ONE urinary tract health which was purchased on 06/13/20 and received on 06/16/20 through Amazon from the official account of Purina. She had presented with vomiting 2-3 times after 1 week on the food which was odd, the food was switched over in a week time frame as it is recommended for pets when you switch their food to not upset their stomach. The very same morning I took her to the vet she had vomited yet again twice and by then she was on her second week on the food. One of the common symptoms for jaundice is vomiting. My cats have been eating this food for about a year but we started noticing changes in my pets about 4-5 months into the switching. One of my cats started developing behavioral changes. More anxiety and agitation. Now 3 of my cats are presenting gastrointestinal issues with one of them being severely sick and in the process of ruling out stomach or pancreatic cancer. Friskies uses carrageenan which is linked to cancer. The cat that's severely sick has always been the one that eats the most. It is so frustrating that these type of ingredients are not approved for human consumption but yet Animal food companies continue to use them. I am demanding to be contacted by Friskies and to open an investigation in their facility. The food that seemed to make my cat the sickest is pate mariner's Catch. My cats vomit all the time and present diarrhea continuously with very foul smell. Lots of vet appointments have happened to check on my cats because of the multiple GI symptoms they continue to present.it is unacceptable that companies like these continue to sell their products risking animals' health with no legal consequences. 			ASSESSMENT: These findings identify dilated cardiomyopathy. The primary disease could be primary myocardial or secondary myocardial dysfunction. Considered the young age of this patient, primary cardiomyopathy appears to be unlikely the primary cause, though cannot be completely ruled out. Diet-induced cardiomyopathy could be responsible for the depression in systolic function. In this case, a sustained bradycardia could also have led to depressed function. Lastly, an unusual cause of depressed function in a young patient could be Parvovirus. RECOMMENDATIONS: Diet history should be investigated. Taurine deficiency or interference with taurine absorption or metabolism are some of the suspected mechanisms of disease in diet-induced cardiomyopathy. However, the latest research shows that this mechanism may not be implicated in the pathophysiology of this condition. Taurine levels can be submitted to the (b) (6) aminoacids laboratory for analysis. Switch to a diet with different ingredients and taurine supplementation is advised. If the sedation was administered during the echocardiogram but not for the ECG, then this patient is affected by bradycardia which could be secondary to high vagal tone. Addison disease and electrolyte abnormality should be ruled out. If they are excluded, consideration may be given to an atropine response test. To do this test administer atropine 0.04 mg/kg IV and repeat the ECG in 15-20 minutes. If no significant change is noted in the rhythm, the test is considered "failed" and high vagal tone is an unlikely etiology for this finding. To the contrary, if the arrhythmia resolves, high vagal tone is likely the underlying cause. To support systolic function in this patient, administration of pimobendan at 0.25 mg/kg twice daily is recommended. A recheck physical examination, systemic blood pressure, chemistry (renal profile), ECG,

and thoracic radiographs are advised in 7-10 days.

Recheck echocardiogram, BP, ECG and renal profile in 3 months or sooner if indicated.
Radiographs can also be helpful in this case.

If the changes are caused by the diet, there is a likelihood that the echocardiographic changes will improve over time and cardiac medications may be discontinued in the future.

The owner should be instructed to monitor resting respiratory rate and effort at home. If the resting respiratory rate increases above the established baseline or if tachypnea is noted, then repeat thoracic radiographs are immediately indicated.

*Note that these recommendations are guidelines, and must be correlated with the history, physical examination findings, and diagnostic test results.

The recommendations may need to be altered as the clinical status of the patient changes.

EON-430620	6/30/2020 17:04	Ol' Roy Complete Nutrition T-Bone & Bacon Flavor	For the last 2 weeks we fed them Ol'Roy and well cooked rice mixed in. This morning of June 30th. (b) (6) as well as our little mud (b) (6) all eat the same meal same mix divided thru the 3. Strage was this morning both German Sheppard girls didn't wanted to finish their food. So when I returned home around 2PM I saw both dogs behaved strange. As soon I entered more into the house I found puke on like 12 different places and none of the dog puke was touched. So I know something was wrong. On the blowup mattress I saw a bigger urine pool but than right behind it where it goes to the guest bedroom it shocked me. A big mix I would say 4-6 cups of a mix of blood and liquid poo on the floor. But when I cleaned it up I noticed it was still slimy so it wasn't poo it was digested dogfood. I found 2 places where both German Sheppard did threw up. As soon I entered the guest bedroom downstairs I saw dark spots so I tuned the light on and 4 puddles of blood where laying on the floor dirty blood. FYI I have a medical background from my parents and grandparents. So I walked back out and started to clean up when I notices dogs where fully out of water and their water bowl holds 2.5 Gallon of fresh water which I drank this morning as Coffee so I wasn't the water. (b) (6) hips showed so I knew she got everything out of their system. As soon I refilled their bowl with water she drank a lot and within 2-3 min she threw it all back up. This is repeating for like now 6-7 times within the last 2h. But No more blood is been puked out but any little solid food even liverwurst she turned down. (b) (6) is eating and we directly swapped out the dryfood to a Farmers Brand which they been normally eating for about 6 months from Rural King which (b) (6) right away eat and (b) (6) is ok. (b) (6) on the other side is very slow but drinking a lot so she still try to flush out what ever she had gotten into the stomach. I also looked at all the food they thru up and no foreign objects. If required we saved the 2/3 empty bag with the dogfood. I know when I did fed them this morning 2-3 bits of the dogfood had an off color they had been a lot darker in brown than the rest. But wasn't thinking about the possibility what had unfolded today.	7	Years	Other Canine/dog	Dog

			our recipes. The use of additional machines was needed in order for us to be able to be able to supply our distributors, retailers and consumers with the products they need. With the use of the additional machines, you may see a difference in kibble size and shape. However, the recipes remain the same. The biggest differences in the machines being used is that one is a single screw extruder and the 2nd machine is a twin-screw extruder. The twin-screw extruder allows the kibble to expand more than it would on a single screw extruder. This will cause the kibble to absorb the ingredients differently, thus giving the kibble a different look, possible smell, and/or color. The recipes themselves and the amounts of ingredients that go into the recipes remain the same. The recipes are safe for consumption and a great and healthy choice for your fur babies. In September 2019 some ingredients were in fact removed from our recipe as our team of vets, nutritionists, and food scientists, wanted to make Zignature a cleaner diet. This change was done well before the additional machine was added to our production line and the removing of the ingredients did nothing that would change the color, smell or look of our kibble. I hope you found this information helpful, please advise if I can be of any further assistance at this time. Respectfully, Meoshae (MiMi) Myles   Customer Care Representative   Pets Global, Inc. O: (661) 309-1235 Ext. 273
EON-430365	6/27/2020 20:40	Royal Canin Veterinary Diet Urinary SO Dry Cat Food	I opened a new bag of Royal Canin Urinary SO (cat food, dry food) around the week of May 4th, and I noticed my cat started having soft stool. On May 15th, I noticed she had really bad diarrhea. After running multiple tests, the vet told us she has inflammatory bowel disease and prescribed Prednisolone Suspension. The vet also told me I could feed her Royal Canin Urinary SO (cat food, wet food). I noticed if my cat is eating only the wet food of Urinary SO, she doesn't have diarrhea. However, when she eats Urinary SO (dry food), Royal Canin Veterinary Diet Hydrolyzed Protein HP Dry Cat Food (dry food), and Royal Canin Veterinary Diet Gastrointestinal Fiber Response (dry food), she has diarrhea. The last two dry food was recommended by the vet, and I recently tried feeding my cat, and it didn't work. Because my cat lost weight, I was hoping to find dry food that works for her and bring back some weight.	15	Years	Siamese	Cat	9.3	Pound

This same type is about half of her normal diet, and I have been buying this brand for at least 2 years. She'll get a bout of bloody diarrhea, I immediately put her on a strict diet of cooked white rice, carrot, and chicken, for 4-5 days, then gradually re-introduce dry food. This would happen 1-3 times a year in the past, but since April, we've been in a constant cycle of illness/recovery, and it seems like every time I start to re-introduce the Iams, it recurs.	10	Years	Collie - Border	Dog	33	Pound

I have also read other complaints online about this brand having the same adverse reactions in both cats and dogs. some reviews stated that their pets eventually died from complications caused by the food. reviews also stated that when trying to contact the Blue Buffalo company about the issues, they did not respond and ignored all complaints made to them. My cat eating this food for not even a week resulted in a $400 vet bill. This company needs to be shut down so they can't hurt any other animals.	8	Years	Mixed (Cat)	Cat	13	Pound

EON-430176	6/25/2020 13:12	Fromm Four-Star Nutritionals Highlander Beef Oats 'n Barley Recipe	For years, our dog has eaten Fromm dog food, usually Salmon Tunalini, Whitefish and Potato, or Chicken Ala Veg flavors. I purchased a bag of Beef Highlander flavor and our dog ate approximately 1/4 or less of the bag and refused to eat any more. At this same time, he became very lethargic, refusing to go up/down stairs, etc. I contacted our veterinarian and took him in to the office. After blood testing, our veterinarian determined he was in kidney failure. Our dog did not eat or consume anything else other than the Fromm Highlander Beef dog food. Our dog was admitted to the vet clinic, and was placed on iv kidney flush/hydration for 4 days. Our vet indicated that his kidney levels had come down, but he was also anemic. He was discharged to our care, where we were instructed to give him Carafate medication twice per day, and encourage him to try to eat bland diet. During the course of 1 week with daily telephone consultations with our vet, our dog's health continued to decline to the point where he could not sit up, stand up, or walk, would not eat, was crying and soiling himself. We returned to the vet clinic for more blood work, but unfortunately our dog needed to be euthanized as per our vet, his liver was failing and his body was shutting down. Per our vet, since our dog was extremely healthy prior to this event and the only thing consumed was the Fromm dog food, it was quite possible the food was contaminated in some way during manufacturing. I contacted Fromm, and spoke with their nutritionist and company vet. The company vet indicated that "my dog must have been sick for years" (he most definitely was not), and that Fromm "receives hundreds of complaints from consumers about problems and they used to send food out for testing at a lab in Chicago, but it has become too expensive so they don't test anymore". Why are they receiving so many complaints, and shouldn't they still be testing even with the cost? The dog food was not expired, and was kept in the original bag and also stored in a covered container. We have a 2nd dog who did not eat Fromm food, but when we offered it to him (just prior to our other dog becoming ill), he refused to eat it also -this is unusual because our 2nd dog will eat just about anything. Thank you.			Other Canine/dog	Dog

EON-430103	6/24/2020 18:00	Taste Of The Wild Prey - Trout formula	Please note, I am unsure of how to answer the question of "Did the animal have any health problems and/or was taking medication prior to the event. This all started because I had him on food for the allergies (the prior health issue) and the food caused heart failure. We took (b) (6) back to our regular vet in February for what seemed like a reverse sneeze he had been having. I was worried it was either his allergies getting worse, Valley Fever, or heart issues as I know coughing is a sign of that. During that visit in February they gave him a full workup but recommended that we wait for the echo/radiograph to see how his bloodwork came back. His bloodwork came back perfect and we were told they were pretty sure it was his allergies bothering him so we never ended up going further. Fast forward to the week of May 17th and we noticed his cough was no longer a reverse sneeze type but had changed into a more gagging/hacking cough that was getting worse when he would become active and play with the other dogs (who were not on the same food as they did not have the food allergies). It also started happening when he ate. He would gag on some of his food and have to hack it up and try again. So I requested a vet appointment for the following week. That weekend, on Sunday May 24th, (b) (6) peed in the house twice which was very unlike him. We also noticed very shallow breathing and then he proceeded to pee right in front of us in the kitchen as if he couldn't even help it. We decided at that point we needed to take him to the emergency vet because this couldn't wait until next week (Monday was Memorial day so the regular vet would have been closed anyway). We arrived at the emergency clinic and they took (b) (6) back. Within 5 minutes of him being inside they called us (COVID rules had us staying in our vehicle) and without even telling us what was wrong let us know they needed permission to start critical care	6	Years	American Pit Bull Terrier	Dog	60	Pound

			immediately because he was in shock. They were able to stabilize him but it took almost 6 hours for his heart rate to come down from 300 beats per minute. They let us know that if we hadn't brought him in we would have lost him at our house that evening. They had him stay overnight for observation and we picked him up the next day. They sent us to a cardiologist who did an ultrasound and let us know his heart was 40% larger than it should be. After reviewing his file, the cardiologist let us know that his conclusion was diet related cardiomyopathy from the legumes and potatoes in (b) (6) food which was grain free at the recommendation of our regular vet due to his food allergies. You will see on his complete file that going back as far as 2018 we have had him on Taste of the Wild Prey Trout formula (it goes back further than that but I do not have any documentation beyond that - although I am trying to remember what other vet he has been to when we lived in a different area of the city to obtain those records as well). Now that I have been doing some research myself, it seems the studies by AVMA and FDA about legumes and nightshades seem to date back many years but no vet we had ever been to told us that it was bad. I am honestly shocked that these foods are still even offered with how many studies are out there showing it's potentially deadly.

This as a consumer made me believe this product was safe and okay for dogs to consume. I should have researched more on the Nylabone products before buying this. The next morning my dog had a seizure for 7-8 minutes after I fed him 2 chews the night before. He has never had seizures in his life and that was the only thing different he ate that day. This was terrifying not only for my dog but for my family and I. (b) (6) had no underlying health conditions and was in perfect health before this dental chew. I am now traumatized at even buying new treats now and this company looks like they have had similar situations and a lawsuit about this. I also had a licensed vet technician confirm that this company is and has been a risk to animals. I also now have investigated the 9 ingredients on the back and some of them aren't natural and actually are synthetic. Nylabone treats are harmful to animals. I want this company to have their products removed from shelves to prevent other situations like this happening to any other consumer family. At the same time, they were receiving a shipment of frozen raw pet food. I sat and talked with the owner for about 2.5 hours. During this time, the food sat out in the hot sun the entire time! Blood and juices were running down the sides of the packaging! Talk about unsanitary. I pointed this out to the owner and was told it's ok because it will be put in the freezer eventually and no one would be the wiser! I was shocked and appalled.

It's been 2 years. Only 2 of my cats (b) (6) are only eating ND dry food, rest of them are eating both dry and wet food with boiled chicken daily. Those 2 cats that only eat dry food are regularly having constipation problems. And my other cat (b) (6) that eats others foods began to vomit 3 days ago. As soon as she eats dry food in 5 minutes she vomits all the food. After observing for 2 days today I take away the dry food and feed her with wet food (gimcat) and chicken. Since than she did not vomit, not once. There is not such a thing with the others. By the way before removing the dry food I purchased a new package just to be sure the previous one do not have a problem that can be caused by storage or delivery issues. Even with the new package freshly opened she vomit as soon as she ate it.  my concern is maybe the batch we are receiving have an issue in the production. Maybe the formula has been changed and some ingredients making her vomit. She is a sensitive cat that also vomits after giving aminosal (a drug for cats for immune system. I gave it to her just once 3 years ago). I can not prove the situation. But giving you details to figure it out if it is about some material in the food. She is not vomiting any more thus not eating the dry food. Maybe you will receive other complaints with blood work done and necessary examinations provided. My input can only be supportive to the related issue, if there is one.	6	Years	Unknown	Cat	4	Kilogram

His condition worsened in two days time, and I woke up one morning to my dog in extreme duress. I brought him to the emergency vet, where they took x-rays. After consulting with a radiologist and cardiologist, he was diagnosed with severe Dilated Cardiomyopathy and Congestive Heart Failure of both ventricles. This condition caused (b) (6) to suffer from pulmonary edema, and was treated for the fluid buildup. An echogram was performed a dew days later and confirmed the condition of his heart, and believes it to be due to his grain free diet (Taste of the Wild, rotating grain free recipes within the same brand). EON-429206	6/16/2020 10:32	Blue Buffalo Wilderness	We switched to Blue Buffalo brand dog food on a Wednesday. By Wednesday night, (b) (6) was puking and had diarrhea. We figured it was only due to us switching his food. On Thursday he continued to throw up and poop at least twice an hour. We took him to the vet and they gave him medicine to help his nausea and diarrhea. The medicine did not work and (b) (6) continued to need to go out either to throw up or poop to the point where we could not bring him back inside. We then noticed his poop was not solid, but was nothing more than blood. I took him back to the vet Friday morning and they did blood work confirming it was not pancreatitis or anything stuck in his belly. They put him on an antibiotic since he did have bloody stool to knock out any infection he may have. By the time I got him home from the vet, he would not eat, drink, or move, and could no longer hold his bathroom or control his throw up. He pooped out nothing but blood all over the house. I took him back to the vet and they put him on an IV over the weekend. He is recovering now. He did not have a chance to keep the medicine in long enough to recover from an infection and we fed him nothing but the Blue Buffalo food.	7	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	75	Pound

We took her to the emergency room as it was after hours at our vets office. They diagnosed her with HGE. When they asked us what food, we replied blue buffalo. They just looked at us and said it could be caused by food or stress. My dog has every symptom that these other dogs have gotten sick from, two dogs even died from this. My dog is very sick from eating Blue Mountain Food. I took her to the vet and they could not find anything wrong. My mother's dog started eating this food and she got sick as well. My dogs symptoms include, upset stomach, vomiting, diarrhea, muscle/joint weakness, and grass eating. This has been going on for a few months now and I just discovered it is the dog food. Many dogs that are eating this are just as sick! This dog food should no longer be able to sell. They have been recalling their food since 2006. They have had cases from then to now. If my dog dies from this food, I will sue this dog food company to the best I can. My dog eats both wet and hard food, both that have been determined to have mold in them! The lab includes mold and other chemicals in the food that are extremely harmful to dogs. These dogs have the same symptoms as mine, including the two dogs that died from eating this dog food. So many dogs are having symptoms and their owners do not understand what is making their dogs sick, it is this food.			Unknown	Dog

Upon visiting a local pet food store, a worker suggested I try Stella &amp; Chewy's dogfood as it had helped one of her dogs. Within a few days of trying the first small bag, (b) (6) stopped itching. After finishing the small bag, I returned to the same pet store on May 31, 2020, to buy a larger bag as this seemed like it would be the best food for Barley. By June 1, (b) (6) was having muscle soreness. I thought maybe he had sprained something when jumping off the sofa. I am new to Arizona and had not established care with a vet. I called a few local vets and scheduled an appointment for (b) (6) On (b) (6) the muscle soreness was extreme, resulting in loud crying when I attempted to pick up (b) (6) Within 24 hours, he began limping, which progressed to unable to hold himself up with his back legs and eventual paralysis. I rushed him to an overnight animal hospital, where they believed he may have had a spinal cord injury. There wasn't any single incident pointing to his injury. They suggested neurosurgery and physical therapy totaling more than $16,000. After much discussion and acceptance that I could not afford that treatment, we chose ethical euthanasia on (b) (6) Left with a large back of food and not yet thinking the food may have played a part in (b) (6) rapid decline from healthy to paralyzed, I mixed in some of the food with my other dog's (poodle mix weighing 22-24 pounds) food. Later that day he started vomiting. He's only vomited 2 other times in the years of my care. He vomited all evening and was lethargic, resulting in needing to be picked up just have him on the sofa or the bed. After a day of not feeding him additional food, I switched the foods and he's been slowly regaining his strength getting back to normal. This morning I was looking up Stella &amp; Chewy and saw a previous listeria recall and started reading about listeria in dog food (especially those with raw/freeze dried parts). She was extremely lethargic, would not eat, would not drink and she was completely out of it. We brought her to the vet where they looked her over, took x-rays, and determined she had an extreme me case of gastrointestinal. We spent almost $1500 to get our kitten to be healthy again, missed days of work to stay home with her while she would not eat and rub corn syrup in her mouth to help her get some sugar in her body for energy. We spent three days staying awake day and night monitoring (b) (6) and giving her corn syrup every two hours, putting drops of chicken broth in her mouth with a syringe, and bottle feeding her water. Thankfully (b) (6) pulled through and is now a year and eight months old. When (b) (6) finally got back to her normal self, our vet asked if we had switched her food or had given her human food. I told him that I switched her to Blue Buffalo just over two days prior and he instructed us to discontinue giving her this food IMMEDIATELY and through it all away. He said that he has seen countless healthy pet be switched to a form of Blue Buffalo food and become increasingly ill and, in some cases, die. He instructed us to share our story with the creators of Blue Buffalo, which we did, and they ignored our story. Their food almost killed our two month old, 2lb kitten and they did not care. EON-428888	6/12/2020 10:24	Royal Canin Aging 12+ cat food	On Friday, May 29, 2020, (b) (6) my 12 year old cat, did not eat her evening meal. Saturday, May 30, 2020, (b) (6) started vomiting. She continued to vomit all day. Sunday, May 31, she was quiet and not herself. She did not eat or drink. Monday, June 1, 2020, I called our vet at 8am and brought her in right away. They did blood work and noted a change in her thyroid and adjusted her medicine accordingly. She was given an injection, and some IV fluids for dehydration. I brought her home with some medication. That evening (b) (6) my 19 year old cat, started vomiting. By Tuesday June 2, 2020, both cats were not eating, drinking. (b) (6) was now having bloody urine. I brought them both to the vet. (b) (6) had blood work done and both cats had xrays. (b) (6) stomach was distended filled with gas. (b) (6) came home with a catheter in her leg to continue with IV therapy the next day. They stayed in the hospital all day. (b) (6) was given an antibiotic injection for urinary tract infection. Both cats came home with medication. Both cats still did not eat or drink or use the litter box. Wednesday, June 3, 2020, I took my cats to the vet again and they were both given IV fluids and stayed in the hospital all that day for observation. I suspected their food a so I looked on my computer and found several reports on Royal Canin food and sick animals . On Thursday, June 4, 2020, I took both cats to the vet that morning and showed my vet what I had found out about Royal Canin changing the ingredients in their foods, the Consumer Affairs reports given by several individuals, and Royal Canin previous recalls for melamine contamination. My vet then put a catheter in (b) (6) leg. Both cats stayed in the hospital that day and received IV fluids. (b) (6) was now being force fed a little with a syringe. I brought them home that night. Still no interest in eating or drinking. Finally by the next morning, Friday, June 5, 2020, they were drinking a little water and even started licking at their prescription food from the vet. I brought both cats to the vet again that day and they were able to have their IV's removed. By Monday June 8, 2020, both cats are eating and drinking and continue to stay on the food prescribed by my vet.	12	Years	Domestic (unspecified)	Cat	10	Pound

EON-428871	6/12/2020 0:36	Zignature Dry Dog Food	My full-size Pomeranian (not teacup or toy) who has been babied and cared for all his life developed DCM and had such extreme symptoms that he needed a pacemaker and will be on Vetmedin and Enalapril for the rest of his life. I will be so angry if his little sister who is 4 years of age ends up in the same situation. I am switching them off of the food immediately. He would have died if I couldn't find the $8,000 to get him a pacemaker in an emergency surgery, as his heart rate was down at 50. He now has an enlarged heart, valve disease, a murmur, and severe arrhythmia among other diagnoses. He was being fed Zignature because of his food allergies. He has eaten it for five years. Prior to that, he was eating Fromm, Taste of the Wild, and Blue Buffalo (in reverse chronological order). I bought these foods because they were supposedly the highest of quality and healthy. His heart may have been having issues prior without our knowledge, as the veterinarian did say that it may have been there, but it may not have been apparent at previous checkups. He had also been losing his hair (alopecia), or rather, he had spots where it was no longer coming in well... which I thought was just something that happens, as it can with breeds like his (even the vet had said it is something that is usual with breeds like his); however, now that he's gotten his pacemaker and is on medication, his hair has been completely coming back everywhere. That tells me his heart condition was causing the lack of regrowth. He's seemingly stabilizing, but will need three-month cardiology visits that I have to drive an entire state over to get (6 hour drive each way), and he will have to be on both medications for the rest of his life. This isn't fair. Not when I was the good mom and made sure they always got the best of everything. As far as I'm concerned, Zignature (the food he was fed for most of his life, and for the most recent five years) owes me $8,000 and owes (b) (6) a lifetime supply of good toys for the pain they caused him. I put today's date as the date of recovery, however, he will never recover and his life will be shorter because of this. He is the best dog I've ever had. The most loving and sweet being on this earth. I'm disgusted. I'm angry. I want to know what can be done.	9	Years	Spitz - German Pomeranian	Dog	16.3	Pound

They cry when they use the restroom and i have to sit in my bathroom and wash blood off my dogs while they cry every single time they use the restroom. It has taken a lot to get them very healthy again and I would never ever recommend any of this product ever being on the shelves I'm only reporting this because I have seen thousands and thousands of people who have been having the same issue and I never realize what was wrong with them until other people have been posting this exact same thing and now I finally know and I'm glad I figured it out before it killed them or we spent hundreds of dollars making them well again! This is awful It truly puts dogs through excruciating pain and something really needs to be done about this

The duration and severity did not raise alarms with me at the time but I noted how often it occurred. May 20, 2020 on our morning walk my dog collapsed after chasing after a cat, she seemed to recover very quickly and seemingly unaffected. I took note of this unusual event. Nine days later, May 29 2020, my dog collapses a second time after running back to me after she heard a gun shot while we were visiting family. I immediately got my dog in to an emergency vet to be evaluated. Since this was not my dogs normal vet I was concerned about the diagnosis, which was kennel cough. My dog was place on an antibiotic and cough suppressant after that visit. That afternoon, May 29 2020, my dog collapses a third time after playing with her sister. Three days later, she was seen by the cardiologists at (b) (6) (b) (6) Diagnostic tests included and echocardiogram, more chest xrays, and a ECG. The diagnosis was DCM with secondary CHF in the left side of her heart. Diet is suspected as the cause.  She has no other heath problems. The ultrasound showed no tumors or other areas of concern. Upon diagnosis, she started a rather hefty medication regimen and we removed all Acana from her diet.	11	Years	Retriever - Labrador	Dog	78	Pound

EON-427630	5/27/2020 19:04	ORIJEN pura vita	Dog was fed Orijen as a pup, then Pura Vita salmon/peas/sweet potatoes until now. The vet heard a heart murmur which was then diagnosed as an enlarged heart with a reading of 1200 heart rate. She had been slowing down on walks/runs, getting tired after a mile or two which seems abnormal for a spry pup. She sometimes snorts almost like an asthma attack or hiccuping for air at random times. We looked into her food and found that she has always eaten grain-free. The connection to her diet is common with many retrievers in reports. EON-427610	5/27/2020 16:08	Purina Friskies Poultry Pate Favorites 32 Cans	I fed (b) (6) her nightly portion of canned cat food and awoke in the middle of the night to her vomiting. When I got up and turned on the light to check on her, I found that she had thrown up everything (3/4 of a can) and there were piles of vomit all over the floor. She kept vomiting all night until early in the morning when it finally stopped. For two days after she had very runny diarrhea in the litterbox. My son also mentioned that (b) (6) for about two days after the sudden illness, also appeared to be very bloated. A few times prior, when opening a can of wet cat food, my son remarked how the food had a really off, almost sour smell to it. Given what wet cat food is made out of, I didnt think much of it until (b) (6) got sick. Afterwards, due to her illness and my sons observations, I searched to see if there were any problems with Friskies can food, specifically the pate variety. I happened to find the consumer affairs website with numerous complaints identical to what my cat experienced with severe vomiting and runny stools. Some even stated that their cats died not long after consuming Friskies. After reading what others had to say, I immediately took (b) (6) off of Friskies wet cat food realizing there might be something wrong with it. Prior to all of this, (b) (6) has been a very healthy cat and in the seven years that I have had her, has only had one bout of diarrhea. He sent him home with us that night, and by morning his was increasingly worse with more and more blood flowing from his rectum. EON-427492	5/26/2020 13:44	Fancy Feast ocean whitefish and tuna pate	Beginning March of 2020, my cat began having bloody and mucous diarrhea, abdominal distention, and lethargy. Since then, I have taken him to 4 different vets only to be placed on prednisone and diagnosed with idiopathic irritable bowel disease. Knowing what prednisone does to a cats body, I was determined to figure out the cause of the IBD. I decided to buy some homeopet natural dewormer, and 14 days later I began seeing worms. One was a very large tapeworm unlike one i have seen before, along with other unfamiliar parasites. I then dosed him with 2 tablets of drontal , hoping that it would take care of any existing worms. My frustration grew as my cats condition did not improve. Not only was i seeing this tapeworm in my cats stool but I detected it in mine as well. I searched the internet frantically trying to identify this unfamiliar tapeworm. My cat is indoor only and had never had fleas, nor has had any contact with rodents. He has eaten the same diet for years, which consisted of Fancy Feast ocean whitefish and tuna pate along with Purina sensitive skin and stomach dry food. It wasnt until a few nights later that i discovered a worm in my sink while rinsing out their leftover food bowls. I looked in the refrigerated can of fancy feast to find several worms. One was a segment of the same tapeworm that i was seeing, along with other round worms. One of the roundworms was still very much alive and moving! I was completely disgusted to know that I had given my cat dewormer, only to continue feeding him possibly live worms. Not only am I worried for him, but I am hoping that the parasites will not cause any further complications for myself or my cats. Being that he is a picky eater, checked the other cans of fancy feast that I had left, and found that they too were filled with worms. I believe the tapeworm that I am seeing is diphyllbothrium latum ( broad fish tapeworm), which is commonly found both in fresh water and marine fish. I gave my car another dose of praziquantel according to label, but now discover that it takes much more to treat diphyllbothrium tapeworm. It is impossible to dose my cat with the store bought medication, so i will now have to contact my vet in hopes she can give him the required dose via injection. As for myself, I am waiting for my stool results and hoping to begin antiparasitic drugs as well. This had been an awful experience, and other cat owners need to be aware of the poor quality control.	5	Years	American Shorthair	Cat	21	Pound

I have dealt with continual anorexia since then, and about 3-4 weeks ago, (b) (6) started roaming the house at night and trying to find a place to shelter. This continued until I had to have the vet order Xanax so I could get him to sleep. Lately, he is starting to walk for hours around the house. I have had him back to the vet two times and they say he is getting dementia. He has been on Xanax twice a day and started Anipryl 15 mg every day this morning. He eats a can of dog food about every other day and I am slowly watching the dog I used to have disappear. I know he is almost 12 years old, but all of this started after he was given the bordetella intranasally.	11	Years	Chow Chow	Dog	56	Pound

EON-426527	5/14/2020 14:36	Purina Fancy Feast Poultry & Beef Classic Pate Collection	On Thursday night 7 May 2020, our cat ate a 3 oz can of the product. He didn't eat and slept much of the time over the next several days. He took several trips to the vet and they ultimately suspected enteritis and began treating him with antibiotics and steroids. We spent several hundred dollars and shed some tears but now, almost a week later, he's doing much much better. We have no direct evidence that his canned cat food was the cause but it was the last thing he ate before he got sick and he would not eat that brand of cat food again, even when he was feeling better and resumed eating. So to be clear, we make no accusations and make no demands, we only want to make a record of this so that if there is a problem, it can be corrected.	8	Years	Siamese	Cat	13	Pound

Vet recommended stopping the new food, and I did immediately. Went back to original food of Purina proplan "savory adult" dry food. The vets diagnosis was beginning stages of renal failure and possible UTI. (b) (6) was prescribed 2 antibiotics and subcutaneous fluids to be given twice daily. EON-426476	5/14/2020 9:36	Dick Van Patten's Natural Balance Chicken & Liver Pate Formula	My cat (b) (6) was in perfect health condition prior to us feeding him a new batch of Natural Balance canned cat food (Chicken & Liver Pate Formula). He has been eating this brand/flavor of cat food for years with no issues. However, hours after eat this food this time, he became lethargic, looks in pain and unwilling/unable to move around. He also would refuse to eat. Not knowing what went wrong, we took him to vet, who did a blood test which showed elevated kidney and liver statistics. He had to be sent to an animal ER and was given IV fluids among other treatment for 3 days, costing us about $5k in medical bill.  A few weeks after his recovery, we fed him again 1/4 of a can of this same brand/flavor of cat food. Although not having as severe of a adverse reaction as the first time, we did observe again a loss of appetite and diarrhea. At that point we are starting to suspect the issue lies in this particular food that he had.  Several more weeks have passed and last night we fed him 1/2 cans of this Natural Balance Chicken & Liver pate. In the morning we observed that he vomited multiple times over night, and now is again lethargic, looks in pain, refuse to eat and is just lying in a corner. After three separate occasions of issue, and the only common theme being that he had some of this brand/flavor of food, we are fairly certain something is wrong with this particular batch of food that we purchased. We urge FDA to take immediate action to inspect this particular brand and batch of food. I have plenty of unopened cans available and I welcome FDA to contact me to address this issue as soon as possible.	10	Years	Domestic Shorthair	Cat	14	Pound

About a month ago however, she suddenly started vomiting and had very loose stool. This was accompanied by a higher fever and lethargy. Since then, about every 1-2 days, she has a recurring fever and is too lethargic to stand up. My family member who lives in a separate household has two cats that have experienced the same symptoms during the same time period. This is occurring during a "stay at home" quarantine, so there are virtually no contaminants being brought into our homes, and the three cats have not come in contact with each other. The only common thread is the brand of food they are all eating: Purina Cat Naturals (Original). Then I switched her to another Grain-Free Option Redford Naturals Grain Free Lamb and sweet potato. She was on grain-free for a total of 5 years. She had slowed down but I thought it was due to old age. Then she got the dreaded cough. I took her in thinking it was kennel cough, did an xray of her heart to find her heart was x4 the size it should be. I took her to a specialist to get an ultrasound to infact confirm she had Dialated Cardiomyopathy, Atrial Fibrillation, Congestive Heart Failure, Grade 3/6 Murmur and possible taurine deficiency. We got that diagnosis on April 15th. Just 15 days after we went into her normal vet to get X- Ray. She passed on (b) (6) -as she had gotten to the point couldn't move 2 feet without being out of breath and having to lay, could barely breathe laying on her side and was overall miserable and exhausted. Just 2 months prior she was jumping and running into our pool. This is 1 month exactly after finding out about this horrible new. Heartbreaking to say the least. I would love for all grain-free food options to be ripped off the shelves. I cannot bear to know anyone else has to go through the same thing we did. My sweet dog was so active and healthy-- went on walks everyday all of her life, was well taken care of-- the sudden decline was startling and heartbreaking. We gave her that food because we were lead to believe it was 'the best' for her. We thought something like duck or lamb would also be 'the best' as it sounded more healthy. Two months later, she still had white specks in her stools. Again, I took her to the vet and now the vet recommended a monthly dose of Interceptor to treat her tapeworms. Fast forward to a week ago, I noticed my dog didn't have much appetite and she would spit part of her kibble out. I stopped giving her Wellness and switched her diet and now her stools are normal. No more white looking tapeworm deposits. Can you please look into this? Did anyone file a complaint about this? Did anyone have the same experience with their dogs? My dog had to get unnecessary vaccines and ingest antiparasitic meds as a result of this.
